ROOSEVELT SLUSH FUND TOTALS MILLIONS, ACCORDING TO FLINN.

Admits Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Were Spent to Provoke "Sentiment" For the Third Termer.

Signed and Sealed Agreement Between the Pittsburgh Contractor-Boss and Senator Quay to Divide Patronage as Little Boys Divide Stolen Fruit—Senator Clapp, Chairman of Committee Investigating Bull Moose High Finance, Amazed by Revelations.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] In the heroic effort to "slug 'em over the ropes" at the Republican National Convention at Chicago last June, William Flinn, contractor-boss of Pittsburgh, Pa., spent the colossal amount of $144,308.99 in the primary campaign waged by Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican nomination.

Making the reluctant admission that he gave that immense amount of money out of his own pocket just for the primary campaign, Flinn on the stand before the Clapp committee investigating campaign contributions at once obtained a place in American history as the premier campaign contributor of all times.

If Mr. Flinn's contributions to the Roosevelt third party campaign equal the amount he contributed to the fight for the Republican nomination Col. Roosevelt must feel indebted to him politically to the extent of a quarter of a million dollars.

WHAT DOES FLINN GET?

What is it, Washington is asking tonight, that William Flinn expects to get from Theodore Roosevelt in exchange for the biggest campaign contribution in the history of American politics?

The reluctance that Flinn showed in admitting the size of his total contribution was only equaled by his anger when he was forced to tell how he had entered into a contract signed, sealed and delivered with the late Senator Quay, for their mutual political and business advantage, whereby Flinn was to deliver delegates to State and national conventions in return for certain legislation at the State capital involving Pittsburgh in contracts in which the present Roosevelt leader was at that time interested.

FLINN BECOMES SULLEN.

It was with still greater sullenness that Flinn was forced to tell of his ambition to succeed Senator Quay in the United States Senate; how a "friend of his," with his permission, tried to induce Archbold of the Standard Oil Company to support him in his ambition, and how he and his friends tried to win the support of Senator Penrose.

Flinn denied that he had signed the telegrams to Archbold, but ad-

SUMMARY.

THE SKY. Cloudy. Wind at 5 p.m., southwest; velocity 12 miles. Thermometer, highest, 70 deg.; lowest 60 deg. Forecast: Showers Wednesday, moderate temperature; brisk south winds. Fruit driers and raisin makers should stark. For complete weather report see page 11, Part II.

THE CITY. Expert medical evidence, the result of exhaustive examination of the corpse of the murdered baby girl found a week ago in an office building, served yesterday to make the police believe the murderer is a man, not a woman, as at first supposed.

At the rehearsal last night for the wedding of Miss Juliet Borden and Lieut. Irving Hall Mayfield, it was announced that Lieut. Jesse Barrett Oldendorf, U.S.N., one of the ushers, is to wed Miss Amelia Carelyn Bull, a beautiful southern girl.

Theodore Roosevelt founder and star member of the Ananias Club, was nominated for its presidency by Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, novelist and lecturer, immediately on her arrival in this city yesterday.

During a discussion yesterday of the proposed San Pedro-street franchise to relieve traffic congestion on Main street, members of the City Council accredit organizations which oppose the measure.

In order to acquaint the members of the jury with the lay of the land in a suit involving $15,000,000 worth of orange groves, they will be taken on a two-days' camping trip today by a Superior Court judge, accompanied by engineers and attorneys.

The City Council hit on a solution yesterday to please all concerned in the squabble over the proposed change of name of Santa Monica boulevard. Unchanged in the northwestern part of the city, it will be called Exposition boulevard in the southern.

A committee of the City Council has been appointed to confer with managers of the power corporations to determine whether it would be better for the city to build a new system or lease one for the distribution of Owens River light, heat and power.

The first university course given in automobile history, repairs, operations, good roads and allied subjects was opened at the University of Southern California yesterday.

Acting on numerous complaints of inferior service, the District Attorney asked the State Railroad Commission yesterday to regulate small water companies supplying limited tracts throughout this county.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. William Conditt, self-confessed admittance to the United States, says he will appeal to the officials at Washington for a reversal of the order, on the grounds that he is a native of Texas.

A meeting of the Outfall Sewer Commission will be held at Christopher's Thursday. Delegates from various cities will participate in the meeting, and its discussions.

The contractor charged with bribing an official at Venice furnished bail yesterday and was released. He stoutly maintains that he was only leasing the man money, and that charges of bribery are false.

Fresno opened its county fair yesterday. A strong sandstorm came up at the hour of opening, but thousands ignored its disagreeableness and attended the exhibition, which is really meritorious.

A man was detained by the police for racing a horse through the main streets of a city and he said he was merely doing it to demonstrate his sanity, which had been questioned in some quarters.

Orange growers met in mass convention at Riverside, and heard speeches in which it was asserted that growers had lost many of their rights by affiliation with unworthy concerns.

PACIFIC SLOPE. State Treasurer H. D. Roberts sold $750,000 of San Francisco Harbor and Improvement bonds at par, in several parcels. He also announced that he had received a lump offer for $13,500,000 of State highway and harbor bonds at par.

A sensational story is going the rounds in Nevada to the effect that Senator Newlands will pass his Senatorial mantle on to his nephew, William Sharon, and will be appointed to a foreign post by Woodrow Wilson in the event of the latter's election to the Presidency.

The State Supreme Court yesterday issued an alternative writ of mandamus directing the Secretary of State to place on the election ballot the names of the Taft electors, or show cause why the order should not be complied with.

Protected against finger print identification by wearing rubber finger tips, two masked burglars at San Francisco held up George Kelley, a sporting man, and his wife, at a midnight supper, securing $3350 in cash and jewelry.

Seventy delegates to the recent international Congress of Applied Chemistry at Washington and New York arrived in San Francisco yesterday, and will be in Los Angeles the latter part of this week.

The State Railway Commission yesterday ordered the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company to give joint rates and to establish through rates in connection with the Central California Traction Company, which runs from Sacramento to Stockton.

At a mass meeting of miners and mill men at McGill, Nev., the vote against a strike on the Nevada Consolidated mines near Ely was almost unanimous.

All of the coal miners of Montana walked out yesterday pending a vote on a proposed new wage scale, to be effective the next two years, and which will probably be adopted.

Rev. Ralph P. Smith, for the last ten years rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church at Sioux City, Iowa, yesterday accepted a call to Trinity Church, Redlands, Cal.

GENERAL EASTERN. In the Standard Oil hearing at Chicago yesterday witnesses testified that the Standard Oil Company uses the facilities of its old subsidiary companies, just the same as before the dissolution.

Trouble is being experienced in impaneling a jury in the Indianapolis dynamite trial because most of the veniremen thus far examined have formed an opinion that the defendants are guilty.

A series of political articles by Senator La Follette was announced yesterday. The articles attack President Taft as an honest conservative, Wilson as an honest progressive, and Roosevelt as an insincere progressive.

Members of the Duluth Trade Council yesterday demanded that the City Council seize by force the lines of the City Traction Company in order to end the strike.

One person was killed and eight were injured by an explosion yesterday on the torpedo-boat destroyer Walker.

WASHINGTON. The dies for the Panama-Pacific Exposition stamps will be submitted today to Postmaster-General Hitchcock, the stamps in three designs to be on the market by New Year's.

The State Department yesterday requested a stay of execution for J. N. Carson, under sentence to be shot at Tampico, Mexico, until it can make a full investigation.

It was announced yesterday that despite the capture of Gen. Mena, there is still considerable activity by the Nicaraguan revolutionists.

FOREIGN. S. H. Chang, a surgeon in the Chinese army, now in this country, declared yesterday that Russia is trying to precipitate war between Japan and the United States, with the object of gaining an opportunity to seize China for herself.

FINANCIAL. Prospect of War in the Balkans strengthened prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. The market generally showed a better tone

The warlike situation in the Balkans made foreign exchange heavy yesterday, and the renewed rate for call loans on New York Exchange reached the highest point of the year. There was a heavy selling movement, with a decline in prices.

Army Officer of Celestial Empire Avers that Muscovites Are Playing for a Japanese-American War to Give Them the Opportunity to Get Slice of Orient.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE (Md.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That Russia is responsible for many of the pictures which show the United States and Japan flying at each other's throats was the confident assertion of Surgeon-Major S. H. Chang, first-grade medical secretary to the War Office in China, who is here attending the military surgeons' congress.

"Russia is anxious to see Japan and the United States at war," declared the Chinese officer.

"This is known by many in China and it is also realized in America.

"A famous American told me that he was aware of the fact that Russia is willing to spend $15,000,000 to bring about such a strife."

"Then, while America and Japan were battling, Russia would step in and take China. There are thirty-five divisions in the Chinese army, of 12,000 soldiers each. We propose to have fifty divisions. The navy of our country is at present lamentably weak, but it will be built up.

"In China we consider America our dearest friend. The Japanese are a great people. They have spies in many countries gathering information. It will, perhaps, startle you if I say that there are thousands of Japanese spies in Hawaii. Nearly every Japanese peddler in China is a spy."

GOTHAM'S TAX-PAYERS.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Andrew Carnegie heads the list of personal assessments in the city of New York, according to figures made public at the City Hall yesterday. He is taxed on $10,000,000. The estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt comes next with $8,000,000. John D. Rockefeller and the estates of John Jacob Astor and Joseph Pulitzer are assessed at $5,000,000. The personal property of Mrs. Russell Sage is put at $2,510,000, while the estates of Isidor Straus, who was lost in the Titanic disaster, and Alexander Rubel, are figured at $2,000,000.

Among the heavy individual taxpayers are Madeline Astor, $250,000; Alva E. S. Astor, $100,000; August Belmont $100,000; James Gordon Bennett, $297,800; Charles G. Gates, $253,600; J. P. Morgan, $550,000; Oliver H. Payne, $400,000; Henry Phipps, $200,000; William Rockefeller, $200,000; Thomas F. Ryan, $200,000; Jacob H. Schiff, $400,000.

Feverish Preparations for War.

Both Christian and Turk are working day and night in Europe to get their armies and armament in shape for what promises to be a clash in the Balkan region. The Mussulmans, aggrieved by Christian encroachment on what they consider their proper domain, are said to be bent on declaring a "holy war." The group of pictures above shows types of the Turkish soldiers whom Christian troops will be required to meet unless the diplomats succeed in staving off a collision. A frontier outpost is also pictured. Here Bulgarian and Turkish guards are seen in friendly confab. The lower picture is that of a Servian family. The Serbs as well as other Balkan people are intimately affected by conditions as they have arisen withis the past few days.

PAY EXTRA IN WALDORF FOR BREAD AND BUTTER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With butter selling at 41 cents a pound and flour at $6 a barrel, the hotel men of New York today decided that their patrons will have to "come across" and pay for their bread and butter now by the portion, just as though it were an entree.

So if you want bread and butter with your meals now it will cost you 10 cents extra, that being the price agreed upon by the members of the Hotel Association.

Moreover, no more single portions of anything are to be served any longer to two persons. From now on, only one plate and one set of knives and forks go with a single order.

By these little economies hotel men figure that they can save close to $30,000,000 a year.

The hotels that have actually put the "10-cent bread and butter" plan into effect include the Plaza, Imperial, Park Avenue, Waldorf-Astoria, Breslin, Astor, Manhattan, Prince George, St. Regis, Victoria, Martinique and Louis Martins.

ROOSEVELT AND MORGAN.

Democratic Candidate Says Former President Helped the Financier in His Business Transactions.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOWELL (Mass.) Oct. 1.—"Roosevelt enabled Morgan to make $60,000,000," said Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, in an address here. "I work as hard as Morgan, but I haven't made that amount. I haven't had a friend in the White House. But I will after next March."

All-Night Conferences in Old World Capitals to Preserve Peace.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLOGNE (Germany) Oct. 1.—[By Cable and A.P.] The Cologne Gazette's inspired Berlin dispatch says: "The powers are considering a combined effort to induce the administrations at Constantinople, Sofia, Belgrade, Athens and Cettinje to rescind their mobilization orders, and are expected to agree on a common step soon. The present situation gives ground for the belief that the Balkan States will wait to see what effect the mobilization of their armies will have on the powers."

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Christian Europe's aggressive policy in Persia, Morocco, Tripoli and Turkey and the continued occupation of Egypt in spite of solemn treaties and declarations are arousing resentment in the Mussulman world.

Anti-Christian feeling is especially marked in Asia-Minor. Enlightened Mussulmans with European education and capable of distinguishing between the action of European governments and the desires of the people of Europe know that the grabbing policies of the governments are disliked by the democracies, but the great majority of Mussulmans identify the aggressive European governments with Christianity.

CROSS VS. CRESCENT.

They know nothing of the economic and political rivalries of the European States, for them there is only the spectacle of Christianity attacking Mohammedanism.

While people of the Mohammedan faith are showing signs of increasing vitality the ugly fanaticism of past centuries is lifting its head and hatred of Christians, without distinction of nationality or church, is spreading. Small Christian communities in the midst of Mussulman populations are threatened.

CHRISTIANS IN DANGER.

In European Turkey, there are three million Christians and there are three hundred thousand on Turkish Islands. The Armenians in Asia-Minor number about one million and there are nearly one hundred thousands in Persia and Georgia.

The Armenian Christians in the Transcaucasus number nearly three million. All these people are surrounded by warlike Mussulman populations of Circassian, Kurds, Tartars and Turks.

Once Pan-Islamic hatred breaks out these millions of Christians, with the exception perhaps of the Georgians, who occupy their own territory, will be defenseless. They would be in the greatest danger of extermination before the European powers could interfere.

MOSLEMS PREPARE TO HOLD THEIR OWN.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

CONSTANTINOPLE (Turkey) Oct. 1.—Elaborate defensive preparations occupy the heads of the government and the army. War may not be declared, but its certainty could not arouse greater activity in military circles both here and in Macedonia. The Ottoman government trusts neither the Balkan States nor the great powers, holding that they would all rend Turkey if they dared. Enlightened Turks feel that a crisis, which could not be graver, is confronting the empire.

The latter class is convinced that, even if the members of the Triple Alliance (Germany, Austria and Italy) and the triple entente (Russia, Britain and France,) are made in active through mutual jealousies and suspicions, and even if they hold off the Bulgarians, Servians, Greeks and Montenegrins, peace will be assured for only a little while. Hence, they argue, Turkey might as well prepare to fight instead of devoting any of its energies to pleading for peace.

There is a singular lack of feverishness in the war preparations. The impending conflict is regarded as another test of the Turk and Christian on the battlefield. The military chiefs

SIEVE FOR JURY WILL BE FINE.

MOST VENIREMEN EXCUSED DEEM DEFENDANTS GUILTY.

Of Fifty-four Accused Eight Are Not on Trial for Reasons Which Include Discharge from Indictment, Plea of Guilty, Illness, Disappearance and Imprisonment.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 1.—Lines upon which a jury is to be chosen for the trial of forty-six defendants accused of complicity in a widespread dynamite conspiracy against employers of non-union labor, were indicated today in the examination of veniremen.

The trial was begun before Federal Judge Anderson and the original number of fifty-four men indicted, headed by Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, was reduced to forty-six. The judge withdrew charges against three men, another defendant was absent because of a broken leg, Ortie E. McManigal pleaded guilty and another defendant was reported "not found." John J. and James B. McNamara, serving terms in a prison in California, also were reported "not found."

Veniremen were examined by Senator Kern and William N. Harding for the defense and by Dist.-Atty. Miller for the government.

OPINION FORMED.

J. M. Hatfield, a farmer and country school teacher, was excused because he said he had an opinion that the defendants were guilty.

"Where did you get that opinion?"

"From the newspapers. I read the accounts of the McNamara trial at Los Angeles and of the grand jury at Indianapolis that indicted these men. This convinced me that they are guilty."

"You know, don't you, that these defendants were indicted jointly with the McNamaras?"

"Yes, it would take evidence to overcome my opinion."

"You say you read about the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times Building, the pleas of guilty of the McNamaras, the confession of McManigal and have concluded they were all jointly guilty in carrying explosives on passenger trains."

"Yes, sir; that is my belief, and it would take evidence to remove that impression," Hatfield said.

Much of the questioning was devoted to whether the veniremen ever had relations with union labor or were prejudiced for or against it.

As a former banker, John Burgess, Newcastle, Ind., was asked whether William J. Burns, who arrested McManigal and the McNamaras, was at LA FOLLETTE FOR WILSON.

Articles Show He Will Vote for New Jersey Man.

Strikes a Hard Blow at Hopes of Roosevelt.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

MADISON (Wis.) Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] The reader of the five La Follette articles on Roosevelt, which will run in a series at intervals of a week beginning Friday, will come to this conclusion:

Senator La Follette and his following will vote for Gov. Wilson for President.

Roosevelt will be out of consideration by the attack on him as a fake progressive, who is parading around the country with a false-face platform and hollow promises which his record shows he will not endeavor to keep.

Taft will be pictured as a conservative, but thoroughly honest, a quality not conceded to Roosevelt.

LA FOLLETTE'S ADVICE.

There will be no discussion of Wilson, but in his advice to Progressives La Follette will point the way out of the dilemma presented by the Taft and Roosevelt candidacies. It will be this:

Real Progressives should maintain their organization within the Republican party, so that in 1916 they will be ready to take upon their shoulders the task of leadership and the work of reform.

To maintain this organization within the party bind allegiance to party nominee and the party declaration is not essential. No aid or encouragement should be given to a third party, which is trying to divide the Progressive Republican vote and destroy the Progressive Republican movement.

In his articles La Follette will clothe both Taft and Roosevelt with reactionary mantles and he will leave his readers to judge which of the three candidates is wearing a Progressive cloak.

FRIENDLY TO WILSON.

La Follette's magazine has taken an unusually kindly interest in Woodrow Wilson. An editorial in the current issue entitled, "A Worthy Sentiment," pours encomiums on Gov. Wilson for the way he handled the New Jersey fight for United States Senator. The editorial bears the stamp of La Follette's own workmanship and reads in part as follows:

"Considerations of party harmony appear to have modified Woodrow Wilson's opposition to boss Smith not in the least degree. Smith thought the election of Wilson as Governor of New Jersey and the rise of the Democratic party to power in that State opened the way for his easy accession to a seat in the United States Senate. Wilson thought otherwise. He declared the voice of the voters as expressed in the Democratic primaries should prevail. A pitched battle ensued. Wilson was victorious.

"Now Smith is again pressing his desire to be United States Senator. Perhaps it occurred to him that Wilson as a candidate for President might find it inexpedient to show the same aggressive opposition to him that he showed as Governor of the State. If so, he found that the other formula of boss politics do not apply this time."

NEWLANDS MAY SHIFT.

Nevada Senator Will Pass Mantle to Nephew and Accept Foreign Post.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Alleging that Senator Francis J. Newlands has planned to surrender his United States Senatorship to William Sharon, his nephew-in-law, and a member of the Sharon family, whose wealth was drawn from the Comstock mines at the time when the Foods, Mackays, and Fairs became immensely wealthy, a story is being circulated in this State that has caused a decided sensation.

It is said Newlands entered into a compact whereby he would receive at the hands of Woodrow Wilson, in the event of his election, appointment to a responsible foreign post and that he would allow the Nevada Legislature in January, 1913, to name his successor providing it would appoint William Sharon. Sharon's real residence is said to be Piedmont, Cal., while it is asserted he has maintained a casual residence in Virginia City.

It is also asserted Sharon's family has not been in the State for years.

Senator Newlands is in Salt Lake City in attendance upon the National Irrigation Congress. Sharon is supposed to be in Piedmont.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEVERLY (Mass.) Oct. 1.—President Taft made six brief speeches today to the recording device of a talking machine. The speeches were condensations of addresses previously made by the President, and probably the records will be used in the campaign.

ARRESTED BY AGREEMENT.

President of Pacific Coast Trust Company Takes Step to Test State Deposit Statute.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—By mutual agreement, E. D. Wilbur, president of the Pacific Coast Trust Company, was arrested here today on complaint of F. O. Cramer, Assistant State Superintendent of Banks, charged with violating section 12A of the State banking law, which provides that no company doing an investment and securities business and calling itself a trust company shall be permitted to operate without having deposited $100,000 with the State Treasurer.

The law is designed to protect depositors from the lure of the word "trust" as sometimes employed by unscrupulous promoters.

No question of the solvency of the Pacific Coast Trust Company is involved, said Assistant Superintendent Cramer. Wilbur asked for a writ of habeas corpus, which was refused. He was remanded to the custody of the Chief of Police and will appeal to the State Supreme Court to bring the whole question, as soon as possible, before the highest tribunal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—"The human race has not kept pace with the improvement in the blue-blooded breeds of hogs and cattle within the last 100 years," Dr. William A. Evans of Chicago said in his address before the National Conservation Congress today.

"Eugenics has been neglected and as a result nations have waned and families disappeared."

Dr. Evans said that vegetable and animal life each complements the other, and that the high death rate in crowded cities was due in great measure to the lack of vegetable life. Hog cholera and tuberculosis in cattle, which, he said, were due to unhygienic conditions, have added at least 3 cents per pound to the price of fresh meats.

John Barbel White of Kansas City, president of the congress, delivered his annual address, after former Vice-President Fairbanks had welcomed the visitors.

Secretary of War Stimson, President Taft's representative, said:

"The truest of all indications of the interest with which President Taft regards the conservation of the natural resources of this country lies in the character of the man he has placed at the head of the Department of the Interior, in order to conserve them—Walter L. Fisher."

PETITION FOR LIBERTY BELL.

Fifty Thousand School Children to Ask Philadelphia to Send Relic to San Francisco.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Among all the schools throughout the country, October 11 will be designated as Liberty Bell day.

On that day there will be circulated in the city schools through the teachers petitions for signature. These petitions will be directed to the Mayor and City Council of Philadelphia asking that the famous Liberty Bell be sent to the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915. From present indications, 50,000 school children will place their names upon the petitions.

GREEKS WANT ALLIANCE WITH BALKAN STATES.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

ATHENS (Greece) Oct. 1.—The prolonged conference, lasting until midnight, held by the Bulgarian and Servian Ministers and the Greek Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, is taken to mean that the reported Balkan alliance is a reality. King George is hurrying home to Athens. The press of all parties unanimously supports the government policy and public opinion is also solidly in favor of energetic co-operation with the Balkan States in view of the hopeless indifference of the great powers regarding the situation in Crete, Macedonia and Epirus.

Son of Windsor Castle Attache Is Married to a New York Society Girl.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Antoinette Hockocher and Hon. Oliver Sylvian Baliel Brett were married today at Huntington, L. I. The newly married couple will sail for Europe tomorrow. The bridegroom is the eldest son and heir of the second Vincent Escher, deputy constable of Windsor Castle, and served as private secretary to Lord Morley, when the latter was Secretary of State for India.

Miss Hockocher has taken an active part in the local woman suffrage movement and marched last May in the big suffrage parade.

ELECTORS CASE IN STATE COURT.

Tomorrow Is Set as Date for Arguments.

Taft Attorneys Denounce Late Convention.

Tribunal May Pass on the Primary Law.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—An alternative writ of mandate directing the Secretary of State to place on the November ballot as Republicans the electors chosen by the Taft minority of the Republican convention at Sacramento was issued by the State Supreme Court here today, made returnable Thursday, October 3, at 10 o'clock a.m.

The action of the court in no wise forecasts what its decision will be when the writ is returned and arguments are heard, and had generally been discounted in advance by both sides.

Attorneys for the Taft minority in making application for the writ submitted a brief of their arguments. In substance they contend that the Sacramento convention was not a Republican convention, because its majority members had publicly seceded from the Republican party and put themselves on record as supporting the Progressive candidates, Roosevelt and Johnson, and, therefore, that its actions could not be binding on Republicans loyal to Taft and the national Republican party.

This argument ran counter to an opinion delivered last Saturday by Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb that there was but one Republican convention at Sacramento—the majority convention—and that its nominees for electors were the only ones entitled to place on the ballot as Republicans.

Inasmuch as the ballots must be printed one month before election day, the earliest possible decision of the court will leave the State Printer little enough time at best.

Whether the court will review the constitutionality of the State primary law is a matter of the keenest interest to all party leaders. The Democrats decided to make no test of the law, and to rely on their conformity to custom, and the previous law, in case the present law should be found unconstitutional. The Progressives stood on the law as it is. The Taft minority announced that it would abide by the pending decision and bring no contest in the Federal courts, as had been done in other States in which kindred questions were involved.

HOLY WAR PROSPECTS.

are serene and businesslike, and the soldiers are obedient and determined. Back of themselves in this critical historic juncture the Turks feel the sympathy of all Mussulmans. This inspires a hopeful tenacity and is likely to tell heavily in the field if the Balkan States force a war.

One glimmer of a promise of peace is found in the surmise that all the warlike proceedings along the Turkish frontier may be intended to frighten the Ottoman government into rapid preparation for the enforcement of a large programme of reforms in Macedonia and elsewhere. It is suggested in some quarters that the great powers understand the nature of the Balkan demonstration, and sympathize with it as calculated to make the Turks sink their sovereignty into a "quagmire of local autonomies."

MAY CUT OFF FUNDS TO PREVENT WAR

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The French diplomatic representatives in the Balkan States have received instructions from the French government to exercise all possible proper influences in order to prevent war between the Balkan States and Turkey.

It is understood that French banking interests will refuse all requests for loans made by States which eventually may become belligerents and the Balkan nations are to be informed.

COALITION.

No collective plan of the great powers to bring about a peaceful solution of the crisis is in sight. Bulgaria, Servia, Greece and Montenegro have agreed to mobilize their armies and act together against Turkey, according to a statement made today by Dr. Stancioff, the Bulgarian Minister here, in an interview in the Temps. He said that Bulgaria's financial situation was good and that the funds in the treasury were ample to sustain a war.

Dr. Stancioff added that twelve Bulgarian officers who are studying in French military schools had been ordered to rejoin the colors.

The Greek and Servian ministers confirmed the accord and said their countrymen would no longer stand the aggression of Turkey. They were ready to make any sacrifice to help their Christian brethren under Ottoman domination.

TURKEY RESOLUTE.

The Turkish Ambassador to France, Rifaat Pacha, said:

"Turkey has no intention of permitting the Balkan States to interfere in its internal affairs, and it cannot be overawed by mobilizations."

DIPLOMATS STRIVE FOR PEACE IN THE BALKANS.

Representatives of All the Great European Powers Are Using Utmost Efforts to Prevent the Threatened Outbreak — Turkey Warned to Make Promises Good. Situation Likened to Proverbial Powder Magazine.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The most urgent and categorical representations in favor of the preservation of peace in the Balkans have been made to Sofia by the Russian Foreign Minister, Sergius Sazonoff.

The other members of the triple entente, France and Great Britain, are likewise using their good influences, while the members of the triple alliance, Germany, Austria and Italy, are just as determined to prevent the outbreak of hostilities.

The powers have again brought before the Porte in the most friendly manner the urgent necessity for the introduction of reforms in Macedonia.

GREEKS ACTIVE.

The Greek Minister here received a telegram today from the Greek Premier and War Minister, Venezelos, stating that the Hellenic government had decided to mobilize its land and sea forces in concert with the other states. The mobilization orders of the four kingdoms go into force instantly, and men liable to serve must join the colors within twenty-four hours. The orders also apply to subjects living abroad.

The Balkan situation caused an unsteady opening in most sections of the stock exchange here today and when weak continental advices arrived with numerous selling orders, the market became flat all around.

Everything, according to the dispatches from the disturbed centers, seems ripe for the long-expected conflagration in the Near East.

PREPARE FOR WAR.

The armies of the Balkan States are preparing for war with feverish activity. The mobilization order given out yesterday is being put into effect with all speed, according to dispatches received here.

The various nations concerned appear to believe that the longed-for moment has at last arrived when they will be called upon to march against Turkey.

The Turkish government, diplomats assert, would like to find an easy way out of the present war with Italy, and thinks a war in the Balkans would give the Ottoman government the outlet. The Balkan States, at the same time, are anxious to get at their big neighbor while she is involved with one of the great powers.

There still remain but two points in regard to which diplomats can continue to maintain optimism. The first of these is the fact that winter is approaching, and will render active war operations difficult, while the second is that the European powers are working in accord and have warned the belligerent little States that, whatever might be the outcome of a war, they would not be allowed to extend any of their borders so as to take in a portion of Macedonia.

WORK FOR DIPLOMATS.

At present there appears to be no reason why any of the European powers should become involved if war breaks out, although it is recognized by the diplomats of every country that it would take very little to draw them in once the trouble is started.

Austria, it is believed here, will be forced to mobilize a few of her army corps in Bosnia so as to prevent Servians from entering the Sanjak of Novipazar, which is a part of old Servia, and which that country is anxious to recapture. In fact, it is understood the possibility of securing that addition to her territory is the inducement for Servia to join forces with her neighbors against Turkey.

With the Austrian army thus partly mobilized, Russia, it is argued, may think it necessary to do likewise, as she particularly desires to prevent a repetition of the situation which occurred during the preceding crisis, when she was compelled, under the threat of Germany, to change her Balkan policy because of her unpreparedness to protect Poland against the armies of Germany.

Besides their natural hatred of Turkey and their desire to extend their territory, all the Balkan States, it is pointed out, have quarrels with Turkey arising out of the chronic disorder in Macedonia and Albania. There have been frequent outrages against the subjects of the Balkan States on Turkish territory and along all the frontiers the guards have been at each other's throats at every opportunity.

Besides Servia's desire to annex the Sanjak of Novipazar, Bulgaria, diplomats aver, wants a slice of Macedonia, Greece wishes for Crete, and Montenegro has designs on Albania. All the four Balkan States have said they would be satisfied with the introduction of reforms in Macedonia. Turkey has promised reforms, but they have never materialized.

The Balkan difficulties have developed with alarming rapidity to a point where only a spark is needed to set the whole of Southeastern Europe aflame. Three of the Balkan States by common consent have ordered the simultaneous mobilization of their armies and are making every preparation for immediate hostilities.

Two possible explanations are offered, the first that a coalition of the Balkan states exists for the purpose of demanding from Turkey, before she has time to conclude peace with Italy, the grant of complete autonomy to the Macedonian provinces; the second, that fearing Turkey will seek an issue from her difficulties at home and abroad, in war, they are preparing themselves for a possible attack.

Today's developments appear fully to confirm the existence of a military understanding between Bulgaria, Servia, Greece and Montenegro directed against Turkey.

Russian and British representatives at Constantinople are energetically urging upon the Porte the necessity of carrying into execution her promised reforms in Macedonia and are applying pressure to induce Turkey to modify her provocable military preparations in the Adrianople district.

A Sofia dispatch to the Times says the mobilization raises the Bulgarian army to a strength of 400,000 men. Martial law has been declared in the districts of Philippopolis and Burgas, and the Sobranje has been convoked in extraordinary session for national independence day, October 5.

UNJUST PLIGHT OF AMERICAN.

Rancher Sentenced in Mexico for Killing Robber.

State Department Gets Busy in Nichols Case.

Idle Threat to Land Marines Nettles Officials.

BY FITZGERALD SLOCUM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TIMES BUREAU, NO. 77 DE LA 6A. CALLE DEL FACTOR, MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Intense excitement was caused by the report that Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had threatened to land marines from the cruiser Des Moines at Tampico unless W. C. Nichols, an American citizen, sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for murder, is released.

Within an hour rumors were current that the United States had seized upon this case as a pretext for intervention and that the process of absorbing Mexico was about to begin.

Despite all attempts to keep the matter quiet, it is known that Nichols was arrested on his ranch near Tampico, charged with having killed a bandit who resisted when caught on the ranch in the act of robbery. At the same moment that Nichols fired, a Mexican fired at the band and the question of who killed the bandit has remained a mystery.

Nichols subsequently was arrested and sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary on the charge of second degree murder, but owing to ill health remained in the prison hospital while an appeal was pending.

WILSON TAKES HAND.

During the negotiations between the American State Department and the Department of Relations at Mexico, it is asserted that Ambassador Wilson had occasion to communicate with Gov. Guerra of Tamaulipas without first having sent his communication through the regular diplomatic channels. As both the Governor of Tamaulipas and the Federal government acknowledged that the conviction of the American ranchman was beyond reason and justice, the Mexican government considered setting the prisoner free, when the charges of indiscretion were made against the American Ambassador. An investigation proved that Ambassador Wilson had no intention of ordering the landing of American marines.

RANK INJUSTICE.

The conviction of this ranchman is additional proof that some Mexican judicial authorities are every ready to punish any American who happens to get into the courts, but in this case, the injustice was so apparent that the higher officials were ready to admit the error and to do justice.

The publication of false reports led to ill feeling which caused the postponement of the prisoner's prompt release.

Meanwhile, a petition signed by several hundred business men of all nationalities has been presented to the State officials asking that Nichols be released.

No attempt has been made to land the marines in Tampico, but the United States government has asked for a stay of execution until the Department of State can make a full investigation.

Asks Mexico Not to Shoot J. N. Carson Until State Department Can Investigate Charges.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The State Department requested today the Mexican government to stay the execution of J. N. Carson of Kingsland, Tex., under sentence to be shot at Tampico, Mex., pending a full investigation of the charges against him.

Carson's alleged offense is not known to State Department officials.

REBELS ARE BEATEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MUZQUIZ (Mex.) Sept. 30.—(Delayed in transmission.) Heavy loss was inflicted on the rebels by Col. Guardiola and the Federal troops in a battle fought near here today when the rebels attempted to cut Gen. Aurelio Blanquet's line of communications. The Federals lost five men killed and twenty men and three officers, including Guardiola, wounded. After several hours fighting the rebels retired.

The rebels, when they left Babia ranch, which was their base of operations, took with them Manuel Traveno, a nephew of Gen. Geronimo Traveno, and are holding him for ransom.

A convoy of stores and ammunition belonging to the Federals fell today into the hands of the rebels on the way to Santo Domine, an outlaying post, owing to the disloyalty of the escort, consisting of 100 rurale guards. All but one officer and eight men of the escort mutinied, and, cheering for Orozco, went to join Marielo Caravero, the rebel field commander.

ITALY'S FLEET TO HOLD TURKS IN ASIA MINOR.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Oct. 1.—Italy's programme in event of war in the Balkans has not been mapped out. It is known, however, that the Italian navy will play a prominent role, indirectly aiding the Balkan coalition by preventing Turkey from moving troops out of Asia Minor. To this end, the Italian fleet will keep its full strength in the vicinity of the Aegean Sea.

PETITION FLAW MAY BAR BULL MOOSE ELECTORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—The status of the Roosevelt Presidential elector petitions received today by Secretary of State Jordan from City Clerk Lelande of Los Angeles has been referred by Jordan to Atty.-Gen. Webb.

The reason for Jordan's unwillingness to accept the petitions as filed is that City Clerk Lelande, in his certificate, failed to state that the names signed to the petitions as required by law are those of citizens who took no part in the primaries or in the State conventions, and who signed none of the nomination petitions for candidates at the primaries.

Under the law, these signatures must be those only of voters who have not participated in any way in the primaries or in any of the preliminaries provided for the nomination of candidates at those primaries, and the failure of the City Clerk of Los Angeles definitely to state that this is true of the signers on the petitions he sent, causes the doubt in the mind of Jordan as to their validity.

There are 12,035 names upon the Los Angeles petition. This is almost the whole of the Roosevelt petition. The invalidating of these names would prevent the Roosevelt electors from being printed upon the ballot by petition, as it is now too late to obtain new signatures.

WILL RESIGN PRESIDENCY.

Dr. Jordan Will Retire from Stanford.

The First and Only Executive of University.

Cause of Peace to Command Future Efforts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 1.—David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford University, will resign in 1915 to work for international peace. Announcement to this effect was made on the campus today during the celebration of the twenty-first birthday of the university. By resolution of the Board of Trustees, presidents of Stanford are automatically retired at the age of 65. President Jordan was 61 last January.

FIRST PRESIDENT.

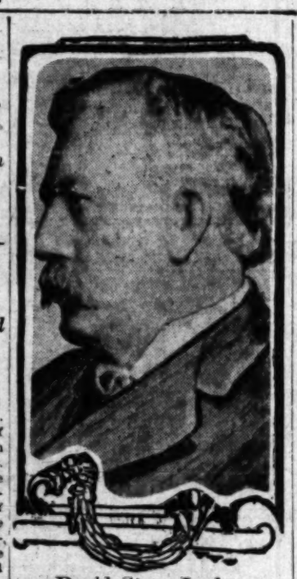
Dr. Jordan has been the first and only president of Stanford. Born in Gainesville, N. Y., he came to California from Indiana University where he was first professor of zoology and later president. His greatest interest of late years has been international peace.

NOT YET.

He had not seen the afternoon papers today, with their menace of war in the Balkans, when he said in announcing his resignation:

"I believe the world's peace is already largely accomplished, so far as the larger nations of Europe go—in part through the weakness produced by expenditures, in part through international relations.

"I am ready to step down at any time that the best interests of the university demand it. My time will then be devoted to the furtherance of international peace and arbitration."



David Starr Jordan,

The first, and thus far, the only president of Leland Stanford University, who yesterday announced that he will resign the presidency of the institution in 1915, and will after that give his time to the cause of international arbitration and peace.

SELLS PART OF HARBOR BONDS.

NO PREMIUM IS OFFERED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the $2,000,000 San Francisco harbor and improvement bonds were sold today by State Treasurer Roberts. These bonds are for the improvement of the San Francisco water front by the construction of wharves and docks by the State.

The bonds were sold in several parcels, as follows: Fifty thousand dollars to the Capital National Bank of Sacramento, $50,000 to N. W. Halsey & Co. of San Francisco, $50,000 to the State Board of Control, $100,000 to the State Board of Control, and the following parcels to the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco, $50,000, $100,000, $250,000 and $100,000.

While the sale was not completed and only three-quarters of a million dollars worth sold, the results are considered to be satisfactory because at this time the bond and money market is tight. These bonds carry 4 per cent. interest and in every case the bid was for par and accrued interest. No premiums were offered by any bidder.

OFFER FOR STATE BONDS.

Biggest Deal in History of California if Highway and Harbor Securities Are Awarded to Bidder.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] State Treasurer E. D. Roberts announced this afternoon that he has a proposition on hand for the sale of $23,650,000 State Bonds, $16,400,000 of which are State highway bonds, and $7,250,000 harbor bonds, or all of the remaining unsold bonds of the State of California to one concern at par and accrued interest to date of delivery, delivery to be made on sixty-day notice as the money is required. If this deal is put through, and it is subject to the approval of the Governor, the State Highway Commission and the advisory board to the Department of Engineering, it will be the largest deal ever put through in the State of California, if not in the entire West.

Roberts announced this afternoon that he will recommend this action so far as it concerns the State highway bonds, but feels that the harbor board bonds should bring a premium as they are long-term bonds, running until 1985, bearing 4 per cent., maturing by lots after 1950. Roberts, for obvious reasons, refuses to divulge the name of the proposed purchaser.

Out of Commission.

PORT TOWNSEND (Wash.) Oct. 1.—[By A. P. Sacramento Jurist Sentences Three Men to Serve Terms in Prison at San Quentin.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—Blaming liquor for their downfall, Superior Judge Hughes this morning sentenced Harry J. Brown to four years in San Quentin Prison for grand larceny and Manuel Vallez to two years in Folsom for burglary. Brown, on forty-eight hours' leave of absence from the Presidio at San Francisco, admitted that while intoxicated he had snatched a purse containing $30 from a stranger.

Vogli Desolvis was sentenced to two years in San Quentin for stealing a barrel of copper. He gave his age as 18.

Court Straightens Out a Bad Divorce Tangle.

[BY A. P.-NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—Four convicts were pardoned today by Acting Governor Wallace. In every case the pardon was accompanied by recommendations for the act by the warden of the prison and the authorities who prosecuted the prisoners.

H. A. George, shot in the hip during the "grub" riot at San Quentin last June, was pardoned, and the Governor in issuing the pardon announces that the District Attorney of Siskiyou county, where George was sentenced, recommend the pardon, as well as Warden Hoyle of San Quentin. George was shot while trying to get out of the range of trouble. He was serving eighteen months for falsifying a check.

Edward Cole, sentenced to three years in San Quentin for burglary committed in San Joaquin county in April of this year, was also pardoned. Cole is 18 years old. He stole a suit of clothes and $1.50.

It is shown that he is not expected to live long, being a sufferer from chronic heart disease.

Henry Hagemeister, printer, sentenced to fifteen years in San Quentin for arson at Lodi, who is now 19 years old, now out on parole, was pardoned because he has made good.

The fourth man paroled was Thomas Fiveland, sentenced to four years for burglary from Merced in 1908. He was paroled in August, 1910, and has made good. His sentence expired in January of this year and the parole was issued for the purpose of making it possible for him to become a citizen of this country. He is foreign born.

It is charged the Reclamation Service and the power company have entered into a secret contract, conspiring to monopolize the power resources of the lake with damage to the lake's scenic beauty.

CUPID COMES BACK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON (Cal.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Surrounded by a maze of obstacles, including the strong arm of the law, Dan Cupid today showed in a superb way his ability to "come back" by bringing together in happy wedlock Mrs. Emma B. Ramsden and Edward Waldo, both of this city. The entire romance, covering a period of one year, was fraught with a multiplicity of barriers. A divorce court in King county, an illegal marriage here, a charge of bigamy, a criminal prosecution and a plea of guilty, combine to form a rather dark background for today's happy union, but the couple declare they are willing to forget the gloomy past and look only to the future.

Mrs. Ramsden and her husband, W. Ramsden, a hotel proprietor of this city, lived together happily for some years, and finally an estrangement occurred and it was followed by a divorce. It was then that Waldo appeared on the scene to press his suit. Mrs. Ramsden received his advances with favor and eventually they were married. It happened, however, that they did not wait for a final decree. Ramsden then made a blunder that came near sending his former wife to prison. He also applied for a marriage license before the final decree and when it was refused he promptly told of his former wife's achievement. She was arrested, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation. Yesterday the court was entreated to grant Mrs. Ramsden and Waldo permission to marry, and it finally yielded. The license was issued today. The final decree was granted about two weeks ago.

San Jose Court Grants a Divorce to Woman Whose Husband Dissipated a Fortune.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge J. E. Richards today granted a final decree of divorce to Eva Belle Becar from Noel Joseph Becar, who is said to have dissipated a fortune of $50,000 on a woman designated as Jane Doe, in a chase across the continent, with his wife as pursuer, in 1911. The interlocutory decree was granted more than a year ago, Mrs. Becar obtaining the custody of her 10-year-old son. Property rights were settled out of court.

Mrs. Becar was given $48,000 outright, but is said to have since returned $3000 to her husband, who was virtually penniless.

The woman who figured throughout the case as Jane Doe killed herself when Becar's fortune was gone, in Salt Lake City.

MUST GIVE JOINT RATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The State Railway Commission returned an opinion today ordering the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company to establish a through route for passenger and freight traffic on all points of the line of the Central California Traction Company, which runs from Sacramento to Stockton.

The opinion was given to decide an action brought before the commission by the traction company, asking for the establishment of the through route. The petitioners contended that farmers and shippers on the line of their road had been put to great inconvenience and expense in hauling their products to the lines of the Western Pacific and Southern Pacific railways, which are located from five to ten miles from the line of the complainant, by reason of the failure of the defendant to establish joint rates.

After setting forth in the opinion the conclusion that a joint rate would result in general public good, the commission issued an order, which is in part as follows:

"A through route for passenger and freight traffic is hereby established between all points on the line of the Central California Traction Company, north of Stockton, to and including Sacramento, and points on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad in the State of California, to and from which points on this railway routes are maintained in connection with the Western Pacific Company.

"Joint fares for passenger traffic and joint rates for freight traffic are hereby established.

"Through checking of baggage over the joint route and through billing of freight shall be accorded passengers and shippers.

"This order to be effective on or before the 20th day of October, 1912, and the parties to this proceeding will agree upon a proper division of the joint rates and joint fares herein established."

HUNT WHERE YOU PLEASE SUPREME COURT RULES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Navigable waters of California are open to all hunters and fishermen, regardless of the ownership of the land through which they flow. This was established in a decision handed down here today by the State Supreme Court in the case of Elvin H. Forestier vs. Frank Johnson, which has been in the courts six years.

Forestier owns land on the Napa River which at high tide is covered by water and is known as Fly's Bay. Johnson, who went on the land to hunt and fish, was driven off by Forestier. Forestier sought an injunction in the Superior Court to keep Johnson off the land, but his petition was refused on the ground that he was not the owner of the "so-called property," although his patents to the land under the water were conceded.

An appeal was taken to the District Court of Appeal, and the decision of the lower court was reversed. Attorney Ray Benjamin, who represented Johnson, carried the case to the Supreme Court.

In rendering the decision in favor of Johnson, Justice Shaw, who wrote the opinion, said:

"The United States has paramount right to control navigable waters within the several States, so far as may be necessary for the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce. The State can make no disposition of the soil beneath that will impair the right and power of the United States.

"The defendants have the privilege of hunting and fishing on these waters while exercising the public right of navigation over them."

Justices Angelotti, Sloss, Melvin and Lorigan concurred.

PACIFIC MAIL TO CUT LOOSE.

Panama Canal Legislation Suggests Change.

Hamburg and Japan Merger Officially Denied.

Reorganization of Company Is Foreshadowed.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] At the New York offices of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company official denial was given today to reported offers by the Hamburg-American company and a Japanese steamship concern for the controlling interest now held by the Harriman lines. This was confirmed by officials of the Southern Pacific Company and by the personal representative of R. P. Schwerin, now in New York. For Schwerin it was stated that his business here has absolutely no connection with outside offers for the Pacific Mail control. From equally authoritative sources it was learned that while no deal concerning the Pacific Mail has been perfected a reorganization is certain.

"So long as the Panama Canal act remains on the statute books," an authority stated, "it is obvious the Southern Pacific Railroad interests are shut out from any benefit. It is therefore a matter of certainty that a reorganization will be effected. While an offer from either the Hamburg-American company, or, say the Toyo Yusen Kaisha, might be considered, I am perfectly sure no such offer has been made, and I am equally sure that it would not be likely to find acceptance. It is far more probable that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will be cut loose and run as an independent concern, so as to secure whatever advantages may accrue from the opening of the canal in round-the-world traffic."

REPEATED DENIALS.

Various reports as to the future of the Pacific Mail fleet have been under discussion here within the past few weeks. One after the other they have been denied when brought to the attention of representatives of the Harriman lines. The arrival of Schwerin in the East was taken as lending color to speculations that some important deals are under consideration. It is still the impression that Schwerin is not in New York on any routine business.

Today at his offices, his secretary, Deans, was busy denying rumors of sale of control and explaining that Schwerin is simply paying one of his periodical visits and consulting with heads of the Harriman lines in the East.

It is the general opinion, however, among the best informed railroad and shipping people here that the Hamburg-American Company will inaugurate its present service in the Far East, amplifying the Hamburg, Yokohama and Singapore, Manila, Australians auxiliary service, with a new fleet of fast Pacific Ocean ships.

"This matter has been under consideration for some time," it was stated today. "But never in connection with an offer for the Pacific Mail fleet."

BIG MERGER.

It seems to be accepted that the reported offers for the Pacific Mail control were based on another big shipping merger, which is said to be almost perfected. News received within the last twenty-four hours predicts the junction under one management of the Peninsular and Occidental Company and the Cunard Steamship Company.

It was admitted by an official who is in a position to speak with assurance that "such a merger would very probably influence the future of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, "but," he added, "so many circumstances have to be taken into account and the heavy handicaps under which American ocean-going shipping is conducted are so discouraging apart altogether from Congressional Legislation, it is very hard to say what may happen. Even men who have been studying the potential possibilities of round the world cruises for passengers and freight through the Panama Canal—which is unquestionably the main purpose of the P. & O.-Cunard merger—admit that they are very considerably up in the air."

CALVE ON MARRIAGE.

Prima Donna Thinks the Wedded State a Blessed Thing, Especially for the Men.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Mme. Emma Calve arrived yesterday on the steamship Martha Washington. She was accompanied by her husband, M. Gasparri, an Italian, and the pianist, Emilino Renaud of the Boston Operahouse.

Mme. Calve was asked her opinion of marriages. Her answer was: "Well, I am married. I think that marriage is one of the most blessed gifts and institutions of heaven, especially for the men."

The singer then announced that her present concert plans included a tour to the Pacific Coast.

NO MORE ABSINTHE.

A Government Order Excludes Popular French Beverage From Importation Into This Country.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—An order prohibiting the importation of absinthe into this country went into effect today, according to an announcement at the Customs House, and the drinking of absinthe will cease in America as soon as the present stock is exhausted. The available supply, it is said, will not last more than two months. Importers say there will be no attempt to fight or evade the law, as the volume of business is not worth it. Customs records show that about 25,000 cases were brought in each year on which the government collected $212,500 in duties.

The Department of Agriculture holds that any food or drug, the traffic in which is restricted in the country of its manufacture, shall be refused entry into this country. Also that absinthe contains drugs "injurious to the health of the people of the United States."

REVOLUTION REFUSES TO DIE.

Nicaragua Is Still Swept by Insurrection.

Rebels Are Active Despite Capture of Leader.

Uncle Sam's Marines Are Guarding Foreigners.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The revolution in Nicaragua, which was supposed to have collapsed with the surrender the exile of Gen. Mena, its principal leader, continues with a great deal of vitality in the section south of Managua, and midway between that place and the lake port of Granada.

Both Managua and Granada are garrisoned by American bluejackets and marines. There was an active bombardment all day Sunday of the town of Masaya by a rebel force under Gen. Zeledon, with no definite results.

American Minister Weitzel expresses the opinion that the present trouble will not continue more than two weeks. However, cases of abuse and mistreatment of Americans and other foreigners by the rebels are being reported to the State Department, and although most of these occurred several days or weeks ago, it appears there will be work for American forces for some time in protecting foreigners.

LOAN FOR CHINA.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A Brussels dispatch to the Daily Mail, says that a contract was signed Saturday for a $50,000,000 loan to China by a Belgian syndicate. This money will be expended on the extension of the Kifeng-Honan Fu Railroad into Kansu.

Los Orientales.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

THE GREAT EVENT.

BATTLE FOR WORLD'S PENNANT.

[Boston Globe, Oct. 1.:] The battle between the Red Sox and the Giants for the world's pennant, while it lasts, will absorb more attention than the Presidential contest. The whole country will be interested in it. The graphic reports by hundreds of special writers will be read eagerly wherever there are baseball enthusiasts, and that means in each city and town in the forty-eight States of the Union.

Speculation as to the merits of the players in this series will continue until they face one another on the diamond. The ardent supporters of each team cannot now see how their club can lose. This is not surprising, for the clubs are nearly evenly matched in many respects.

BACKSET FOR ANARCHY.

PROTEST STRIKE FAILS.

[New York Herald, Oct. 1.] In the mill district centering around Lawrence, Mass., the smoke from the flaming torch of anarchy has for two days been commingling with the smoke of busy mills.

The strike inaugurated there by the Industrial Workers of the World against the imprisonment of two of their number for being concerned in the killing of a girl during the mill disorders several months ago, is the first application on a large scale of that demonstration now so deplorably common in Europe. "The protest strike."

This movement, combined with the endless chain of agitation against existing conditions of all kinds by political charlatans, constitutes a great danger to the country.

There is just one hopeful sign: This is that Haywood and his associates have thus far not been able to exercise the control of which they boasted over hundreds of thousands of deluded workingmen in various parts of the country. It would thus seem that the hold of the Industrial Workers of the World has been loosened and that respect for order has gained ground in consequence of yesterday's fiasco.

LIGHTNING BUGS.

ROOSEVELT'S AFTERTHOUGHT.

[Baltimore American, Oct. 1.:] Purely from policy and not from principle, Col. Roosevelt, after having thrown his hat into the ring, began to advocate female suffrage, although previously he had publicly ridiculed the idea.

Now, in accordance with the doctrine of "The eternal fitness of things," a bright woman—Miss Helen Varick Boswell of the Women's National Taft League, was invited to address the recent New York State Republican convention at Syracuse, and in closing her address, she neatly and appropriately rechristened the Progressive party by reciting the following lines:

The lightning bug is brilliant;
But he hasn't any mind.
He wanders through creation,
With his headlight on behind.

So now we may regard Col. Roosevelt as the boss lightning bug, his party as the lightning bug party, and its members as lightning bugs.

TWO PRACTICAL MEN.

ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN.

[New York Sun, Oct. 1.:] The political intimacy between President Roosevelt and the late Edward H. Harriman during the campaign of 1904, is further illustrated by the letters and dispatches produced yesterday afternoon at Washington by the former private secretary of Harriman. Without adding direct evidence of sensational importance, they strengthen the theory of this highly interesting relation that has been generally entertained since the first publication of a letter to Sidney Webster. Mr. Tegethorf further testified of his own that Mr. Harriman, in the winter of 1908, informed him of the $250,000 transaction four years earlier, and attributed it to conferences between himself and President Roosevelt.

The main question, of course, is as to the possibility of an expected consideration for this expected pecuniary support. This is not yet positively settled, if it ever is to be settled.

THE HERALD TO THE TIMES.

A TRIUMPH OF PRINCIPLE.

[New York Herald, Oct. 2:] The Herald presents its compliments to Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, proprietor of its prosperous and courageous contemporary on the Pacific Coast, the Los Angeles Times.

Two years, almost to the hour from the time its plant was blown up by dynamite, the most astounding outrage of organized labor ever perpetrated in this country, The Times was issued yesterday from its new building. Its initiative resulted largely in bringing the perpetrators to justice and confession and its enterprise has placed it in the front rank of journalism and given it a home second to none in the world in equipment and modern advantage.

PITH OF THE DAY'S NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Chicago enjoyed another hazy Indian-summer day, with temperature slightly warmer, due to an erratic six-mile-an-hour wind from the southeast, which brought up some of the heat from the Ohio Valley. The East and South tonight show an approximate change of five deg. cooler than heretofore, while West Central States show rising temperature. Rain or cloudy weather prevails over practically all the Gulf Coast country and portions of Canada. The maximum temperature was 80 deg. and the minimum 46 deg. Other temperatures:

PREDICTS A LAND MONOPOLY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Francis Neilson, member of the British Parliament, declared in a speech before the City Club last night that the most alarming outlook for the United States that he had been able to observe was the prospect for a land monopoly worse than that which prevails in England. He also declared that socialism prevailed here more strongly than in his native country. "You believe here that your country is so big that land will always be plentiful," he said. "We used to think the same thing in England. You will repeat our experience unless you do something to prevent it." Mr. Neilson reached Chicago yesterday after a trip through the Northwest.

JOINS UNCLE'S FAMILY.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] The Rev. William Carson Shaw, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Belmont avenue, became an American citizen yesterday after twenty years of residence in the United States. The minister who was called to St. Peter's Church from Walla Walla, Wash., two years ago, renounced his allegiance to King George of England before Federal Judge Carpenter with nearly a hundred foreigners. He is a native of Ontario. "I thought it about time to connect myself formally with the American government," said the Rev. Mr. Shaw. "I have occupied pulpits here for [illegible]"

GREAT IMPERIAL VALLEY, THEME OF W. H. HOLABIRD.

Los Angeles Business Man Tells Irrigation Congress Story of the Miracle Wrought With Waters of Colorado in Southeastern California—San Francisco Asks for Convention in Exposition Year.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] W. H. Holabird of Los Angeles today addressed the twentieth irrigation congress on the "Imperial Valley, a Modern Miracle, by Irrigation," speaking as follows:

"I believe you will all agree with me that the redemption of an absolute desert of 250,000 acres within a period of ten years, causing nearly all the beneficial plants to grow where nothing grew before, is indeed a miracle.

"To nearly all interested in irrigation matters it is generally well known that Imperial Valley is in the extreme southeastern portion of the State of California.

"My object is to tell irrigators some of the problems Imperial Valley has had to contend with and how these problems have been solved. I will not go into the history of the appropriation of the waters of the Colorado River, nor the great disaster of 1905-1907, where man conquered the ugliest as well as one of the mightiest rivers in the world. All this has passed into the history of irrigation in the United States and can be found in Senate Document No. 246, "Irrigation in Imperial Valley, California," by C. E. Tait, and in Senate Document No. 212, containing the message of the President of the United States and important correspondence relating to the control of the Colorado River and the protection of Imperial Valley. These documents should be part of the library of all irrigation managers and engineers.

SILT PROBLEM.

"The problems that I have had to confront as receiver and general manager of the original water company (called the California Development Company,) for nearly three years, come under the head of maintenance and operation.

"The water flowing in the Colorado River carries a variable quantity of silt, ranging, according to the Arizona Experiment Station, from 84 to 3363 parts in 100,000 parts of water by weight. An acre foot (which is water one foot deep over one acre of land,) of Colorado River water contains an average of 9.62 tons of silt. This silt while of immense value as a fertilizer, is a great source of expense and trouble to the irrigation engineer and manager.

"Trouble begins at our intake canal, which is 2000 feet in length, then comes the concrete controlling gates, then fifty-six miles of main canal in an old natural waterway, before we come to the first controlling structure for the diversion of water to the main laterals.

"It has taken years and bitter experiences to learn how to combat the deposition of silt and guard against the extreme discharges of the river.

FLOOD CONTROL.

"I have told you of the percentage of silt and now let me tell you that at low water in the early spring, the total discharge as measured at Yuma (eight miles above our point of diversion,) has been as low as 3500 second feet, while in June of each year, generally between the 22rd and 25th of that month, comes the annual summer floods. The discharge reached a maximum of 149,000 second feet in 1909 and 145,000 second feet in 1912. These tremendous fluctuations, from 3500 to 149,000 second feet, produce very often unexpected results, but, that I may put an end to erroneous impressions, let me remark that in 1910 I built a protective levee, running east and west on the watershed between the Gulf of California and the Salton Sea, that has withstood the floods and since that time the general government, by the advice of our great President, William H. Taft, has greatly strengthened this and other levees, so that the flood of this year has been like a summer shower in its effects upon our embankments and canals. There has been no loss, nor suggestion of loss by floods since 1907, and by intelligent maintenance of protective work we never expect any trouble. The river spreads like the rays of a fan after it passes our heading, and finds its way in numerous deltas to the Gulf of California.

DREDGING.

"But I was speaking of silt and got off on the flotsam and jetsam of the flood of the Great Yellow River of the West.

"The first deposition is of fine sand, eroded from the walls of the mighty gorge called in these later days "The Grand Canon of Arizona."

"Until 1911 there was no tool to use in fighting this great danger. As soon as I got the money in hand two suction dredges were built, one with a fifteen-inch pump and the other with a ten-inch pump. One in the intake and the other below the concrete gate. These dredges, working day and night during the flood period, have kept the floor of the canal down as low as the sill of the gate. The cost of operation of the fifteen-inch dredge is $100 per day; ten-inch dredge is $50 per day. I use petroleum for fuel.

"In summer, for four months, the heat is intense, 120 deg. in the shade is not uncommon, while from October 1 to June 1 it is a heavenly climate.

"Our discharge through the main canal ranges from 827 to 3206 second feet, the low discharge being during the non-irrigating season.

"When the discharge is in excess of the demands we sluice the soft silt through a great waste way from the great pool where all our main diversion structures are situated, the waste discharge going into the Alamo. This is a very helpful and economical method of getting rid of millions of tons of silt.

WOOD AND CONCRETE.

"As receiver I have been unable to build structures of concrete save in a few instances, which is to be regretted. We have learned the life of wooden structures in Imperial Valley to be ten years. In three years of my administration I have expended $134,000 in new structures and $584,000 in ordinary maintenance and operation; $40,000 for dredges and dredging machinery, $105,000 in constructing protective levees and in raising and strengthening others, $47,000 on temporary dams for diverting water from the Colorado River, $7000 on [illegible], $23,000 on new canals, laterals, etc. Seven dredges are operated, same being located at various points throughout the system. Two of our dredges being portable half-yard clam shell type, built after my own ideas to meet the demand for a cheap dredge to relieve the canals of silt and keep the water running. These dredges have been of very great service and are being ordered by our mutual water companies and by some of the irrigation projects of the U.S.R.S.

MARVELOUS GROWTH.

"The increase in the demands for water has been astonishing. A good illustration is shown in the August earnings for the years—

1908	38,000	$19,000
1909	32,000	16,000
1910	42,000	21,000
1911	72,000	36,000
1912	92,000	46,000

"For nearly two years there has been no shortage of water, the entire valley getting all they demanded at all times and, I regret to say, with the wasteful method of continuous flow in all the canals, subject to call without more than twenty-four hours' notice.

DUTY OF WATER.

"Some time I believe a schedule will be adopted when the duty of water will be greatly increased, the present duty being 128 acres to one second foot.

"Until eighteen months ago all water had been delivered and measured by the antique weir method. Today, with the exception of a few ditches where metering flumes must be built, I use the meter system, containing the weir measurements for checking purposes. The hydrographers, who meter the water, use motorcycles in visiting the different meter stations.

"Meter measurement has caused more or less friction, or did cause, until I proved the accuracy of the meter system of measuring water.

METERS.

"It will interest managers when I tell them the income by use of meters has increased about $30,000 per year. The vendor is justly entitled to full compensation, particularly where he delivers the cheapest irrigation water to the richest farming region in the State of California. The consumers of water have organized an irrigation district and expect to own and operate their water supply system.

CULTIVATION AND CROPS.

"It is estimated that there are about 40,000 acres of corn, which brings the total cultivated area up to nearly 260,000 acres. Following are the Assessor's figures:

"Live stock—Cattle, 42,230; sheep, 21,508; hogs, 52,320; mules, 1714; horses, 7503; poultry, 4541.

FROM POVERTY TO AUTOS.

"Where due caution is exercised the health of the people will compare with any section of America. The people came to the land poor and in old, rameshackle wagons. They ride in automobiles today.

"For one, I am thankful that the tiller of the soil is coming into his own, and remember, my friends, in all this talk about high cost of living, 60 per cent. of the increase goes to the farmer.

"I have photographs of tools and structures that I would like to show to those interested in such matters, but let me remind you, I have no land to sell, am not interested in any colonization scheme, am merely here because I have had the distinguished honor to be made a delegate by the most beautiful, the most prosperous, the most wonderful section of the State in all the list of States and have had the great satisfaction of taking hold of the biggest going irrigation system in the United States irrigating 260,000 acres, when it was running in the hole to the extent of thousands of dollars per month, and bringing it to pay a net revenue of about $100,000 per year. It has been interesting and really worth while.

"No one appreciates the lessons in irrigation, taught by the pioneers of this magnificent State of Utah, more than I do. They were real prophets in those days, when, in place of the sandy plain and desert waste they saw smiling fields of waving grain and fruitful orchards, and brave were the men and women of Utah when they brought into existence all the prophets had foretold.

FARM UNIT.

"Our farm unit in Imperial Valley is entirely too large. The more closely I observe the operations of farms under irrigation, the more convinced I become that the desert entry should be limited by law to forty acres."

CALIFORNIA INVITATION.

San Francisco Wants Irrigation Congress in Exposition Year and San Diego Asks Reclamation Exhibit.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1.—Delegates to the twentieth International Irrigation Congress listened today to numerous addresses, most of which were technical, on irrigation. Congressman W. R. Smith of Texas, chairman of the House Committee on Irrigation, spoke on "reclamation legislation" and said that closer co-operation between the settlers and the reclamation service was necessary for successful production.

Colvin B. Brown, on behalf of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, invited the congress to meet in San Francisco in 1915, and Douglas White, on behalf of the Panama-California Exposition, introduced a resolution providing that the congress have an irrigation exhibit on an extensive scale at the exposition in San Diego.

GOOD ROADS.

Joseph E. Caine of this city read a paper on the relation of good roads to irrigation development in which he said that it was as much to the interest of the cities as to the rural districts that the farmers have good highways to transport his products to market.

RECLAMATION LAW.

Representative Smith, in his address on reclamation legislation, said in part:

"The original reclamation law passed ten years ago is only a skeleton law, as is all original legislation. It is now time to learn if it is adjusted to the present needs of the water users' ability to reclaim his land, build his home and support his family. It is no more than a common-sense business question.

"It has been said that there has not been sufficient co-operation between water users and the reclamation service. The users are entitled to full publicity and information as to every move contemplated by the service and they should be consulted to the fullest extent as their views are bound to be valuable in bringing about the best results from the soil."

IMPERIAL VALLEY.

W. H. Holabird of California spoke on the reclamation of the Imperial Valley in Southern California from a desert waste to a district of immense productiveness.

PANAMA CANAL.

John A. Fox of California said that the irrigated States had much to look forward to in the opening of the Panama Canal as it would not only bring cheaper transportation rates, but would create new markets.

WATER HOGS.

Judge Kinney, speaking on "beneficial use as the basis for greater uniformity of State laws governing water," said:

"The time has passed in the history of irrigation and water rights when an appropriator can lawfully claim all the water in sight by virtue of his appropriation. Even though prior in time, unless all of the water claimed is actually applied economically and without waste to the beneficial use for which it is claimed, it is not held, in most jurisdictions that as to the surplus not so used there is no appropriation. So, where you see a water hog who would rather raise tules than alfalfa, cat-tails than grain, goose grass than potatoes, while others on the same stream are suffering for want of water, take the tip that he is claiming and using more water than he is entitled to, and go and claim a portion of it and see how readily the courts will grant your contention. The ultimate question for the court to determinate in such a case is not how much water the prior appropriator required to properly irrigate his land, not the quality of water covered by his claim, not the carrying capacity of his ditch, but what amount he had actually applied, economically and without waste for a term of years prior to the time the subsequent locator made his claim."

HOMES RATHER THAN GUNS.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1.—"We need fewer battleships and more money spent to develop homes for the American people," declared J. B. Case of Abilene, Kan., before the National Irrigation Congress today. "This nation needs homes more than it needs fighting floating forts." Mr. Case is vice-president of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress. He said:

"The national Congress should spend part of the money it is putting into battleships and make it possible for our farmers to live on irrigated farms as well as they can in King George's dominion.

"The cold fact is, that no amount of patriotism or sentiment can regulate the movement of population. Men go where they think they can improve their condition, regardless of what orators or newspapers or statesmen may say. The renter class moves on where land is cheap.

"The farmer and stockman possess the best business occupation in the nation today.

"The government has done much for irrigation, but only a trifle compared with its assistance in other directions. The farmers and stockmen of the West should unite to impress on their Congressmen and Senators the necessity of greater activity in developing the semi-arid lands, and making homes for the teeming millions at our doors."

ALMOST ALL AGAINST STRIKE.

Miners and Mill Men of Nevada Consolidated at Public Meeting, Vote Down Sympathy Walk-Out.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELY (Nev.) Oct. 1.—The labor situation was a little more hopeful this morning. At a public meeting at McGill last night attended by several hundred miners and mill men, the expression against a strike was almost unanimous. The steam shovel men's union has a meeting scheduled for tonight at which definite action is likely to be taken. President Moyer of the federation, refused to make a statement this morning.

The following resolution was among those adopted at the McGill meeting, largely composed of Nevada Consolidated employees:

"That it is the sense of this meeting and shall be the duty and obligation of all concerned for our common good to use every legitimate and honorable means in our power to the end that operations at company plants will not in any way be suspended, either temporarily or indefinitely, and thereby cut off our means of sustenance for a time."

MINES MAY RESUME.

Impression Prevails at Bingham That Strike of Copper Men Will Soon Be at End.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BINGHAM (Utah) Oct. 1.—While nothing definite is known here, the opinion was expressed freely tonight that a settlement of the miners' strike will be effected soon. It was reported today from an apparently authenticated source that all the mining companies in the district would resume operations within the next two days. Mine officials said today that a majority of the strikers were anxious to return to work. The leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, however, deny this and say that the position of the strikers is growing stronger each day.

The first of the month found no change in the strike situation. The union officials are anxiously awaiting news from other quarters.

The names of 150 Japanese laborers were placed on the pay roll of the Utah Copper Company today. This action was taken to stop the exodus from the camp of Japanese laborers. Fifteen carpenters' assistants, who have been drawing time checks since the beginning of the strike, were dropped from the company's pay roll today. No reason was given. Reports are persistent that workmen are being brought into camp, but those in a position to know emphatically deny such rumors.

The Drinking Man's Main Object in Life

Is to Always Have a Plentiful Supply of Liquor on Hand When the Saloons Close.

The greatest fear in the mind of the excessive drinker is that he will not be able to get his regular supply of liquor and will suffer torture from the gnawing, nervous craving for the temporary relief afforded by alcohol.

When a man realizes he is in this condition and that the craving for drink is stronger than the will power to resist he should take medical treatment which will remove the desire for false stimulants.

The regular drinker must have his drink before breakfast, dinner and supper and before going to bed at night. If he does not have it he suffers greatly and is unfit for business or pleasure. Contrast this condition with that of the temperate man who arises in the morning with a clear brain, healthy appetite, steady nerves and ability to do either mental or physical work up to the limit, feeling comfortable and satisfied all the time. All drinking men may be in this healthy, vigorous condition by spending three days at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, and taking the Neal Drink Habit Treatment which is a harmless, vegetable remedy—painful, dangerous hypodermic injections are never used.

Fifty-three Neal Institutes in the principal cities of the United States, Canada and Australia are annually changing thousands of drink craving men into sober, healthy, capable men—perfect masters of themselves.

PATRONIZING OLD FRIENDS.

STANDARD USES SUBSIDIARIES, SAYS WITNESS.

Oil Bought from Same Sources and Is Shipped in Cars of Union Tank Line Just as Before Dissolution, According to Evidence in Hearing at Chicago.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana still purchases its crude oil from the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Ohio Oil Company and ships its refined product in cars of the Union Tank Line, both former subsidiary corporations of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the same as before the separation of the corporations by order of the United States Supreme Court. Such was the evidence brought out today at the hearing here in the fight waged by H. Clay Pierce against stockholders of the Standard Oil Company for control of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

The hearing will be resumed Thursday at New York. John D. Archbold, vice-president of the corporation, will be called as a witness before the conclusion of the hearing in New York.

NO NEW STATIONS.

It was brought out by witnesses that the company since its separation from the parent corporation has not established any new stations in territory outside the ten States previously covered by he Indiana concern.

President W. P. Cowan of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, denied, however, that John D. Archbold, or other directors of the old corporation, have had any connection with the management of the Indiana corporation since the order of dissolution.

EXPLAINS DIVIDEND.

President Cowan explained that the $29,000,000 stock dividend distributed after the reorganization of the company, represented property owned by the corporation and was made after the capital stock had been increased from $1,000,000 to $30,000,000.

L. J. Drake, vice-president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said he was in charge of the marketing of the company's product and that there was no agreement or understanding in regard to prices or territory with any of the former subsidiary corporations of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

W. M. Burton, in charge of the manufacturing branch of the business of the Indiana company, said the price of crude oil had increased 25 cents a barrel since the distribution of the company's stock last December.

HIGH PRICES FARMER'S GAIN.

Beef Cattle, Veal Calves, Hogs, Sheep, Lambs and Horses Bring More Than Year Ago.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Beef, cattle, veal, calves, hogs, sheep, lambs, milch cows and horses brought substantially higher prices to the producers on September 15, last, than a year before, though hogs and sheep brought less than two years ago. This showing, indicative of the relation of agriculture to the high cost of living, was made in a report of the Department of Agriculture issued today on the average price of agricultural products. Fruit brought a slightly decreased price and vegetable average prices fluctuated.

Beef cattle per 100 pounds brought $5.35 this month, $4.43 a year ago, and $4.65 in 1910; veal calves respectively $6.83, $6.11 and $6.43; hogs, $7.47, $6.53 and $8.27; sheep, $4.11, $3.91 and $4.81; lambs, $5.49, $5.02 and $5.85. Milch cows and horses brought $46.79 and $141 respectively, each against $42.22 and $139 respectively a year ago.

GOMPERS'S TIRADE.

Federation Chief Denounces Judge Wright, the Man Who Sentenced Him to a Term in Jail.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE (Md.) Oct. 1.—In a speech before the convention of the International Union of Cigarmakers, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said he was told a month before announcement of the decision of Judge Wright of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, reaffirming jail sentence for Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison, that the judge was "showing it to every Tom, Dick and Harry." He gave the president of the Washington Typographical Union as his authority.

---why I bought a 10-acre citrus grove

By E. K. HOAK.

—one of the dreams of my life has always been, to some day own and live in an orange grove.

—The very aroma of an orange skin always suggested peace and plenty to me.

—and when I recently had occasion to visit the groves of a well-known large citrus project in the interests of a monthly magazine, I became actually feverish with the desire to become an orange grove owner.

—the project I investigated is some fifty miles east of Los Angeles.

—it occupies one of the highest elevations on the entire "citrus belt" lying between Los Angeles and San Bernardino.

—I saw a grape fruit grove that was netting the owner over $1000 per acre yearly.

—I saw 20 acres of orange trees for which the owner refused a cash offer of $50,000.00.

—I saw dozens of young groves owned by people who are living in various parts of the United States.

—these young orchards are kept in the pink of condition by the citrus experts of the Fontana Company at a small monthly charge.

—I learned that these absent owners were buying their groves on a six-year purchasing plan.

—that 6-year-old groves in this district have sold for as high as $1750 per acre.

—that the crops of the 4th, 5th and 6th years would actually pay for a large part of the investment.

—I found out that the Fontana Company actually invested from the very start MORE MONEY in every planted acre they sold, than they received from the purchaser during the FIRST THREE YEARS.

—that was enough for me—I took a long breath, pulled out my check book and made my first payment on 10 acres.

—I ordered five acres planted to Washington navels, 2½ acres to Valencias and the balance to Eureka lemons.

—I believe I have the safest type of "life insurance" on earth. In four or five years I'll have a generous income and an ideal home amid orange blossoms. I'll have the highest type of neighbors—former bankers, lawyers and retired business men.

—the lands where my grove is located are known as the Fontana holdings and are watered from the great water shed on the north side of "Old Baldy."

—the water flows into Lytle Creek and through a costly covered concrete pipe system down to these rich lands.

—one of the features that thoroughly impressed me was the gravity irrigation system.

—other features were the desirable elevation, the climatic and soil advantages, the sweet, rich-flavored fruit produced in the district and the large returns per acre which I found that even comparatively young groves were yielding.

—other advantages are perfect transportation to the city (steam and electric,) the latter in a short time.

—while my grove is maturing the entire responsibility of caring for it is entirely off my hands. I'll be glad to talk personally with anyone who wants further information relative to my citrus grove.

—the Company has some splendid year-old groves at $550 and up an acre; undeveloped land under the same water system may be purchased at $300 per acre, or acreage will be planted to any variety of citrus fruit at $450 an acre.

—however complete information relative to Fontana groves may be obtained from the Fontana Company—Thomas D. Campbell & Company, general sales agents at 625 So. Hill St.

—the Fontana district appeals to me strongly from a home standpoint. There is every social and educational advantage. The extension of the Pacific Electric Railway will go directly through the Fontana townsite. The mountain scenery in this district is wonderful. Good hunting and fishing is afforded in close-by canyons.

—I am looking forward eagerly to the time when I can make my grove my permanent home.

CLANCY AND TVEITMOE PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

Two Score and More Men Charged With Complicity in Dynamiting Plots Are Placed on Trial in Federal Court in Indianapolis—Their Case Known as "Consolidated No. 8."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—Stationed within a rail in the small courtroom where they occupied [illegible] half the space, the defendants charged with complicity in the McNamara "dynamite plots," were placed on trial today before Federal Judge Albert B. Anderson, who ordered called "consolidated case No. 3, the United States vs. Frank M. Ryan, et al."

At the outset Ortie E. McManigal pleaded guilty.

Eugene A. Clancy and Olaf A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco pleaded not guilty.

All the other defendants at their arraignment last March had pleaded not guilty.

Daniel J. Brophy, Brooklyn, a former executive board member of the International Union of Bridge an Structural Ironworkers, was reported unable to appear on account of a broken leg. His absence left fifty men to be tried.

A motion to set aside the order consolidating the cases, made on behalf of the defendants, was sustained. This separated the various indictments but left the defendants to be tried together.

M'MANIGAL ENTERS.

McManigal, aged about 40, short, chubby and of a florid complexion entered the courtroom. His eyes twinkled keenly as he glanced at the other defendants. He closely scrutinized one by one the men with whom, he asserts, he once was associated, but against whom he now is arrayed as a prosecuting witness.

As he looked not a sign of recognition other than McManigal's inscrutable grin passed between them.

"Ortie E. McManigal, do you plead guilty or not guilty to the charges against you?" asked Judge Anderson.

McManigal rubbed the back of his hand across his chin.

"I plead guilty, Your Honor," he said.

McManigal's plea qualified him as a witness for the government, for which purpose he had been imprisoned eighteen months. But it occasioned no surprise, for he already had confessed to his operations as a member of the McNamara "dynamiting crew."

On motion of the government the cases against J. W. Irwin, Peoria, Ill.; Andrew J. Kavanaugh, Springfield, Ill., and Patrick H. Ryan, Chicago, were dismissed. The government announced it had no evidence against them to warrant their trial. All of the men had been identified with the ironworkers' union.

FOR SEPARATE TRIALS.

"We ask for a separate trial for each of the defendants," announced Attorney Hovey.

"What reasons have you for that?" asked Judge Anderson.

"Because some defendants are charged with overt acts of carrying dynamite and nitro-glycerin and some with aiding and abetting McManigal."

"Overruled," said the court.

Another motion by Dist.-Atty. Miller for a reconsolidation of the cases was sustained with the understanding that the government select a definite number of counts which were to stand, dismissing all the other counts.

Mr. Miller said the government would elect to try the defendants each on these counts:

Five counts charging conspiracy.

Fifty counts charging direct violation.

The work of selecting a jury then began.

"I want to find out if there is a lot of perjury here," said Dist.-Atty. Miller, after counsel for the defense had objected to questions asked the talesmen.

Several talesmen had said they were convinced the defendants were guilty and one admitted he wanted to get off jury service "pretty bad."

"I will not permit any qualified man to evade service. It is their duty to serve," said Judge Anderson.

Clayton B. Hunt, Richmond, Ind., in reply to questions said:

"Yes, sir; to my mind these men stand guilty now."

It was announced by the defense that Senator Kern would take up the examination of talesmen. In the first two hours of the examination none had been accepted as jurors and neither side had used any peremptory challenges.

Whoever participated with the McNamara brothers in the series of dynamite and nitro-glycerin explosions which preceded and followed the wrecking of the Los Angeles Times Building, October 1, 1910, when twenty persons were killed, the government hopes to disclose in the trial which begins today before Judge A. B. Anderson, of fifty-one men.

AT THE HEAD OF THE LIST.

At the head of the list of defendants, who thus are brought into court exactly two years after the Los Angeles disaster, are:

Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers.

Ortie E. McManigal, once known as "J. W. McGraw" on the Pacific Coast, a confessed dynamiter and accomplice of the McNamara brothers, who has been kept in custody as a witness for the prosecution ever since his arrest in Detroit a year ago last April.

Herbert S. Hockin, successor of John J. McNamara as secretary-treasurer of the union, whom McManigal accuses of being the organizer of the "dynamiting crew," and one of the originators of the alarm clock scheme by which explosions were set off several hours after the mine was placed.

Most of the other defendants are present or former union officials whom the government charges were linked together in a conspiracy by an extensive correspondence from 1905 to 1911, during which time more than 100 explosions in States scattered from Massachusetts to California occurred in works under construction by employers of non-union labor.

FIFTY-FOUR INDICTED.

Fifty-four men were indicted last February, but John J. McCray, Wheeling, W. Va., never has been located and the McNamara brothers are in prison in California.

The courtroom, which probably for weeks will be the scene of the trial, has long been ready. Every precaution has been taken to secure quiet. The windows of the small room, located on an outside corner of the second floor of the Federal building, have been heavily curtained to exclude the daylight. Recently Judge Anderson had the walls and ceiling thickly padded with felt to improve the sound conditions.

United States Senator John W. Kern has been retained as counsel for the defendants, while the government will be represented by Dist.-Atty. Charles W. Miller and his assistant.

Sixteen defendants were placed under $10,000 bonds each, to appear for trial and the others each under $5000 bonds, making an aggregate in bonds of $350,000.

Witnesses are to be called from many parts of the country. While it is not the intention of the government to go thoroughly into the cases which resulted in the imprisonment of the McNamaras, all that part of the evidence of the Pacific Coast explosions as pertains to the illegal Interstate shipment of explosives has been made available to Dist.-Atty. Miller.

Each of the thirty-two indictments returned last February contains charges against all of the defendants, and the charges are embraced in three groups. They are:

Transporting dynamite and nitro-glycerin in passenger trains from one State to another; as Ortie E. McManigal confessed was done when these explosives were carried in suitcases from hiding places at Muncie, Ind.; Rochester, Pa.; Tiffin, O., and Indianapolis to cities where "jobs" were to be blown up.

Conspiring to violate interstate regulations relative to explosives.

Concealing knowledge of the conspiracy or abetting the illegal transportation of explosives.

Most of the explosions of which the government has made a record were directed against members of the National Erectors' Association, an organization of constructors who had broken off relations with the union and were conducting "open shops." The first explosion or attempt recorded was at Miller's Falls, Mass., in the summer of 1905, and the last October 16, 1911 when, at 2 a.m., near Santa Barbara, Cal., thirty-nine sticks of dynamite with a fuse were found beneath a bridge just before a special train, bearing President Taft, passed over. Twenty of the explosions occurred in Ohio.

McManigal's confession was the basis upon which the government founded its case before the Federal grand jury which returned the indictments. And it is expected to figure prominently in the present trial.

IN THE CONFESSION.

In it McManigal confessed:

That Hockin came to him in Detroit in 1907 and induced him to blow up a "job" there, afterward paying him a regular fee of $125 for each job. McManigal had worked in a stone quarry and, he said, it was because of his familiarity with explosives that he was selected.

That Hockin accompanied him on trips and pointed out works that were to be blown up, afterwards introducing him to James B. McNamara, who became McManigal's "teammate" in the dynamiting business.

That on instructions from Hockin he met Michael J. Young, a member of the executive board, in Boston and Frank C. Webb in New York, about jobs that were to be blown up near those cities.

That Hockin wired him at Chicago to return to Indianapolis in February, 1910, where he, Hockin and J. J. McNamara talked over a "new invention," which consisted of using an ordinary alarm clock as a timer for fuses. "It was a scheme by which we could set a bomb and then be miles away when the explosion occurred and so prove an alibi," said McManigal.

McManigal also confessed that explosives were hidden in various parts of the country and carried in suitcases on passenger trains, that he met various business agents about "jobs" and that he received a fee of from $125 to $250 for each "job."

THE DEFENDANTS.

Following is the government's list of the defendants in the dynamite cases:

Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers; residence, Chicago; headquarters, Indianapolis.

Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer of the union.

John T. Butler, Buffalo, N. Y.; first vice-president.

Eugene A. Clancy, former member executive board and former business agent at San Francisco.

Henry W. Legleitner, Denver, Col.; former member executive board.

Daniel J. Brophy, Brooklyn; former member executive board.

Michael J. Young, Boston; member executive board.

Phillip A. Cooley, New Orleans, member executive board.

Charles N. Beum, Milwaukee; former member executive board.

Michael J. Cunnane, Philadelphia, former business agent local union.

James Conney, Chicago, former business agent local union.

Richard H. Houlihan, Chicago; financial secretary local union.

Edward Clark, Cincinnati; former president local union.

William E. Reddin, Milwaukee; former official local union.

Paul J. Morrin, St. Louis; former president local union.

W. Bert Brown, Kansas City, Mo.; former business agent.

Edward Smyths, Peoria, Ill.; former secretary and business agent.

Frank K. Tainter, Omaha, Neb.; former business agent.

Peter J. Smith, Cleveland; business agent.

Herman G. Seiffert, Milwaukee; business agent.

J. E. Munsey, Salt Lake City, Utah; former business agent; named in indictment also as "Jack Bright," who is alleged to have harbored J. B. McNamara after the Los Angeles disaster.

Michael J. Hannon, Scranton, Pa.; former business agent.

John A. Carroll, Syracuse, N. Y.; local union.

Edward E. Phillips, Syracuse, N. Y.; local union.

William Bernhardt, Cincinnati; former financial secretary, local union.

Fred Mooney, Duluth, Minn.; former financial secretary local union.

William Shupe, Chicago; former business agent.

James Coughlin, Chicago; former business agent.

Frank J. Higgins, Boston; New England organizer in 1910.

Ernest G. W. Basey, Indianapolis; former business agent.

Frank J. Murphy, Detroit; former business agent.

M. H. Davis, West Chester, Pa.; former member executive board.

George Anderson, Cleveland; business agent.

Olaf A. Tveitmoe, secretary of Building Trades Council of California.

Clarence E. Dowd, Detroit; former organizer International Association of Machinists.

Fred Sherman, Indianapolis; former business agent ironworkers.

Spurgeon P. Meadows, Indianapolis, business agent of the Association of Carpenters and Joiners Union; Hiram Cline, Muncie, Ind., organizer for carpenters; Ortie E. McManigal, confessed dynamiter and accomplice of the McNamaras, held a prisoner as chief witness for the government.

John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the ironworkers, now a prisoner in San Quentin Prison, Cal., on his plea of guilty in having blown up the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles on Christmas Day, 1910.

James B. McNamara, his brother, also in the same prison, on his plea of guilt for having blown up the Los Angeles Times Building, at 1:07 a.m., October 1, 1910, when twenty-one persons were killed.

Although fifty-four men were indicted, only fifty-one of them were to appear for trial, because the McNamaras already are in prison and McCray never has been located since the indictments were returned last February.

Chronology of the alleged dynamite conspiracy:

Summer 1905, first explosion (railroad bridge) Miller's Falls, Mass., thirteen sticks of dynamite discovered.

October 1, 1910, Los Angeles Times Building was blown up, twenty-one persons killed.

April 12, 1911, James B. McNamara and Ortie E. McManigal arrested at Detroit.

April 22, 1911, John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of International Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, arrested at his office in Indianapolis.

December 1, 1911, McNamaras plead guilty at Los Angeles, John J. to murder in the first degree in blowing up the Los Angeles Times Building, and James B. to having blown up the Llewellyn Iron Works. Both sentenced later.

February 6, 1912, Federal grand jury at Indianapolis returns thirty-two indictments charging fifty-four men with having participated in a conspiracy illegally to transport dynamite.

February 14, almost all the defendants arrested within a few hours at a signal, telegraphed to many parts of the country.

March 12, defendants arraigned and plead not guilty.

October 1, exactly two years after the Los Angeles disaster, the trial before a Federal Court begins.

NEW CASTLE (N. S. W.) Oct. 1.—Boubonic plague has broken out on the ship Bella Isle, which trades between New Castle and Hamburg, and which is lying at a wharf here. One apprentice is dead and two others of the crew are afflicated.

The health authorities have quarantined the Bella Isle and the wharf. Every precaution is being taken to see that the plague does not spread.

Science Understands the Stomach

Treating Indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is an Exact Science. They Give Quick Relief.

Medical men have learned more about the stomach than perhaps any other vital organ. They have discovered why the stomach rebels at certain conditions—what causes the formation of gases—what causes flatulency, heartburn, dyspepsia, burning sensation, brash, and all the other disorders of the stomach.

They have gone further. They have found remedies for all these afflictions, these results of improper digestion. They have learned that pepsin, hydrochloric acid and fruit salts are powerful digestants that relieve quickly and surely all the troubles to which the stomach is subject. They have discovered that one grain of these properties will digest 3000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a medicine. They are a scientific compound that supplies the stomach with the digestive agents which it is itself unable to provide. When your stomach is sick and not working right—when it fails to give out enough of the digestive juices to properly take care of the food you eat, these tablets will make up the deficiency. You will have no indigestion. Your food will digest thoroughly.

You never can tell just when your stomach is going back on you. It gives no warning. If you eat a big meal, if you eat hurriedly, take one of these little tablets. You will avoid a lot of pain and misery.

Some of the most prominent men carry these tablets in their vest pockets when they attend banquets, etc., and never fail to take them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 50c a box.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF—GROWS HAIR

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

CONVINCED OF GUILT.

"Did you ever read McManigal's confession in which he implicates these defendants as being associated with him in carrying dynamite and nitro-glycerine about the country?" Charles W. Johnson, a farmer, was asked.

"Yes, I read it, and together with the fact that the grand jury found indictments here convinced me these men are guilty," he answered.

James H. Hurst, another farmer, said: "The government wouldn't have to introduce any evidence to convince me these men are guilty. I am convinced already."

WRECKED CARS BURN.

Express Messenger Is Cremated, but Passengers, Including a California Woman, Escape Death.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Oct. 1.—Two Pullman sleeping cars, four day coaches and two express cars broke away from a rapidly moving Louisville and Nashville train near Elkmont, Ala., early today, plunged down an embankment, then caught fire and burned, but every passenger escaped death and less than a score received minor injuries. An express messenger, caught in the wreckage of his car, was cremated.

The flames spread so rapidly that occupants of the Pullmans were compelled to flee in their night clothing, abandoning all their baggage.

It is believed a broken rail caused the accident.

Among the injured was Mrs. Bertha H. Henney of East Highlands, Cal.

Trades Council Asks City Council of Duluth to Take Street Car Property by Force.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DULUTH (Minn.) Oct. 1.—Three hundred members of the local trades assembly turned away disappointed from the Common Council last night when that body failed to pass a resolution favoring taking over the Duluth street railway company lines by force unless the strike is settled. The measure was framed and presented by the unionists.

The Aldermen's action was based on the advice of City Attorney Carmichael, who said that the measure, should it be adopted, would be of no avail.

The City Council passed resolutions requiring motormen to pass tests and obtain licenses from the city before moving cars, and appointed a committee to attempt arbitration of the strike.

Bowel complaint is sure to be prevalent during the fruit season. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy gives prompt relief.—[Adv.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] That he is seriously considering the institution of a crusade against gambling in Wall Street and on the Stock Exchange was the statement made by George Graham Rice, alias Jacob Herzig, when he came up for his discharge in bankruptcy before Judge Mayer in the United States District Court yesterday.

Rice was sentenced by Judge Ray in the United States Federal Court last January after pleading guilty to a charge of using the mails to defraud through fake mining schemes promoted by B. F. Scheftels & Company, with which firm he was connected.

Rice said that he had received two tempting offers from societies interested in the suppression of gambling to take charge of a crusade to stop gambling in stock exchanges and in Wall Street. He said these offers were backed by a promise of substantial remuneration.

Suburban to Los Angeles.

I've delved deep into their relative advantages. And by an elimination process—by sifting—sorting and analyzing, I've centered on what I believe to be the best living place suburban to this city.

Best from every desirable residential point of view — beauty, quiet, exclusiveness, scenic features, unique costly improvements, proper elevation — freedom from fogs, frost, dust, mud and other undesirable elements.

Best from a value giving and investment standpoint (villa sites 90x200 at $1500.)

I refer to "Michillinda"—out on Huntington Drive—in the midst of an environment that appeals to even the most discriminating millionaires.

Only 26 minutes out (via Monrovia or Glendora flyers.)

Mr. Henry E. Huntington has chosen this district for his several million dollar suburban estate.

The beauty of Michillinda with its hundreds of orange and walnut trees, stately oaks and sycamores, its broad winding drives, wonderful landscape effects, multi-colored foliage, picturesque water garden, private parks, tennis courts, etc.—will captivate you.

Visit everything suburban to Los Angeles—study everything from every standpoint—sift it all out to the very last analysis.

Then go out to Michillinda.

You'll find the home advantages of this picturesque spot superior to those of any property offered in or near Los Angeles at double our prices.

I realize that I am writing pretty strong talk over my signature — but my property will prove up.

Let me give you the names of recent buyers.

If this little monologue has interested you—run out to Michillinda today and become as enthusiastic as I am.

Roosevelt's Chum.

COMMERCIALIZED POLITICS WITH FLINN AT THE HEAD.

"Boss of Pittsburgh" Tells of a Scandalous "Agreement" to Divide Patronage in Keystone State—Denies He Signed the Telegram Demanding of Standard Oil Company that They Give Him "Matt" Quay's Toga.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The total expenditures of William Flinn in the 1912 Progressive campaign have been $144,806, according to a statement he gave to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee today. The total "Roosevelt expenditures" covering Flinn's personal activity as Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania were $99,384. But the statement showed an additional $9030, expended by John S. Weller, treasurer of the Roosevelt League.

Other amounts expended by Flinn came under the head of expenditures in Republican and Progressive organization work which Flinn did not characterize as "Roosevelt expenditures."

Flinn said the contributions other than his own did not aggregate more than $20,000.

"I was not ask for any contributions," he said. "I did not know what the bill was going to cost, but I was perfectly willing to pay it."

Flinn said he had contributed $1000 to the Roosevelt campaign in Massachusetts. He also admitted a contribution of $1000 to Senator La Follette's campaign.

"It was before I was a Roosevelt man," he added, and a general laugh went around.

FLINN WROTE IT.

Senator Pomerene produced a copy of what was said to be an agreement between the late Senator Quay, Mr. Flinn and J. O. Brown, under which political affairs in Pennsylvania were to have been apportioned between them.

"Did you write that agreement?" the Senator demanded.

"Yes, I did; or, rather, I wrote an agreement something like that," said Flinn.

The agreement purported to provide that the three men named should divide city and Federal patronage equally and work together politically. It already has been published.

Flinn said he had framed the agreement to allay the opposition of Senator Quay to the Republican candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh; that he had never signed it and never intended to sign it, but had written it to "gain time" from Quay.

"You recognize that it is about as vicious an agreement as could be made, don't you?" demanded Senator Pomerene.

Flinn said he never intended it should be effective.

GOLD-BRICK MAN.

"I sold the Senator a gold brick," said Flinn.

"Did you accomplish your purpose?" asked Pomerene.

"I did when I secured the election of the Republican Mayor."

Senator Oliver took up the question of Flinn's activity in politics, and Flinn asked Oliver if he remembered working with him for a State ticket a number of years ago.

"The combined salaries of the positions were $70,000, and do you recollect we spent $110,000?" asked Flinn.

"No, I don't remember anything of the kind," replied Mr. Oliver.

"My memory is excellent on it," said Flinn.

Flinn testified that he had personally contributed 90 per cent. of the money for Col. Roosevelt's primary campaign in Pennsylvania. He gave $102,000 to the fund, of which $28,000 was spent in Pittsburgh.

WANTED A TOGA, TOO.

Flinn declared he would produce to the committee J. G. Splain, a man who, without his authority, had signed Flinn's name to a telegram to the Standard Oil Company, asking support for a seat in the Senate. This was one of the telegrams produced by Senator Penrose when he made his sensational charges.

Flinn repeated that the telegram sent to the Standard Oil Company asking assistance in Flinn's canvass to succeed the late Senator Quay had been sent by J. G. Splain without his authority.

"IN OUR COUNTY."

Flinn said the "Taft people had spent $95,000 in our county."

"I think the money was all spent legitimately," he added, "but it was wasteful."

Senator Clapp called Flinn's attention to Senator Penrose's charge in the Senate that Mr. Flinn had made a fortune out of municipal deals, and had offered $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 to Senator Penrose and Israel W. Durham to get the seat of former Senator Quay in 1906.

CALLS HIM LIAR.

"Under oath, I will say that if Senator Penrose made any such statement as that he lied," snapped Flinn. "Neither did I authorize any other man to make such an offer for me."

Mr. Flinn said he had never talked to Senator Penrose or Mr. Durham about the Senate. He declared he had brought a witness with him who had talked with Senator Penrose about the Senatorial place.

"I have also a man here who signed my name to a telegram appealing to the Standard Oil Company for assistance," said Mr. Flinn. "I did not authorize him to send the telegram.

"He had worked for the Standard Oil Company and said he believed he could help me and I told him to go ahead in his own way; that I would be very glad of any help he could give me."

The man who signed the telegram, he said, was J. G. Splain. Mr. Flinn declared he had not received any telegram from John D. Archbold in reply.

"The Standard Oil Company is very strong in our State," he added; "no Senator has been elected from Pennsylvania in years, in which the voice of the Standard Oil Company was not potential."

"When I received specific information from Mr. Frick that they had settled on Mr. Knox, was through," said Flinn.

Senator Oliver said Mr. Flinn's statements did not include all his contributions for local officers and members of the Legislature and the Senator wanted to know the total.

"Does the committee want to know," demanded Flinn, "how much money I spent for all political purposes this year?"

"Yes," said Senator Clapp.

"All right," exclaimed the witness, and turning to his lawyer and associates he said: "Where are the papers?"

A recess was then taken.

SPLAIN TESTIFIED.

Splain, testifying, said he went to New York June 7, 1904, and asked Mr. Archbold for Standard Oil influence in behalf of Mr. Flinn, and that Mr. Archbold said he could not do anything for Mr. Flynn.

ALMOST SURE.

Mr. Splain was "pretty sure" he signed the telegram sent to Mr. Archbold and which bore the signature of William Flinn. He also thought he received a cipher telegram from Archbold to "William Flinn" expressing disappointment that the "telephone had worked so badly."

ROOSEVELT'S TREASURER.

T. H. Hooker, treasurer of the "progressive" party, told the committee Charles R. Crane of Chicago had contributed $70,000 to Senator La Follette's campaign fund and $40,000 to Gov. Wilson's fund prior to the Baltimore convention, practically at the same time.

Mr. Hooker said he had acted informally as national treasurer of the Roosevelt organization in the pre-convention campaign. He placed in evidence a statement of all receipts and expenditures in the Roosevelt primary campaign in New York City.

"The Secretary of State of New York," said Mr. Hooker, "said this was the most complete statement ever filed by a political committee."

The statement was made public at the time it was filed. It showed that $59,126.35 had been contributed and $52,606.52 spent in the primary campaign in New York. The balance, $6,519.83, was turned over to the national primary campaign fund.

Mr. Hooker also filed a statement of receipts and expenditures of the national primary campaign conducted by Senator Dixon. Senator Paynter took the statement and announced that George W. Perkins was shown to have contributed $15,000 to the New York campaign and $22,500 to the national campaign, and Frank A. Munsey "about the same."

"How many votes did you get in the New York primaries?" asked Senator Pomerene.

"About 30,000—as many as Taft got," said Hooker, "but they were not counted."

TWO DOLLARS A VOTE.

Senator Pomerene observed that the primary expenditure was at the rate "of about $2 a vote."

Mr. Hooker vigorously resented any inference that any money was expended in an improper way.

AND CHEAP, TOO.

"I believe that this national primary campaign was the most economical ever conducted," he said. "More economical than any, except the Taft primary campaign in New York this fall."

The statement filed by Mr. Hooker, covering the national expenses of the Roosevelt primary campaign, showed a total of $141,657.64 in the fight preceding the Chicago convention. The greatest expenditure by the national organization was in Massachusetts, to which $52,000 was sent for the primary fight.

The Hooker statement showed total receipts of $143,599.62 and total expenditures of $141,657.64 for all national primary campaign expenses up to September 7, 1912.

THE ANGELS.

Frank A. Munsey, $19,000; George W. Perkins, $22,500; W. Emelen Roosevelt, $10,000; D. R. Hanna, $25,000; H. L. Stoddard, $4000; Alexander S. Cochrane, $10,000; W. Barbour, $7500; Charles S. Bird, $5500; Oscar L. Straus, $500; E. D. Brandegee, $1000; Hamilton Fish, $1000; Frederick Whiteridge, $1000; Herman Fraech, $1000; Frank B. Keech, $1000; J. D. Larkins, $1000; Olivia M. Cutting, $2000; Dr. Albert Shaw, $2000; Everett Colby, $150; Douglas Robinson, $5000; E. H. Hooker and Blanche Ferry Hooker, $5000; Roosevelt committee of the city of New York, $6,519.83.

HOOKER'S SUMMARY.

The expenses summarized in Mr. Hooker's statement were as follows:

Printing and advertising, $17,000; salaries to employees, $4000; telegraph and telephone $4000; traveling expenses, including Roosevelt and Beveridge western trips, $17,000; postage and mailing, $3000; national headquarters, $4577; "sent to Senator Dixon for the Washington headquarters, $7500."

TO THE STATES.

The amounts sent to the various State campaign committees were given as follows:

Massachusetts, $52,000.
Maryland, $5000.
Maine, $3500.
Vermont, $2500.
Illinois, $13,500.
Oklahoma, $2500.
Recount in Massachusetts, $475.
Recount in Vermont, $94.

Senator Clapp asked whether Mr. Hooker had any further information to give the committee.

"Yes, I know of one $70,000 contribution to Senator La Follette's campaign fund."

"Who gave it?" asked Senator Clapp.

"Charles R. Crane. I also know that he gave the same amount to Gov. Wilson's fund. Mr. Crane himself told me," said the witness, "that he was making these contributions at the same time."

Mr. Hooker said Mr. Crane was a "very public-spirited citizen, and was helping both men on in their work he was in sympathy with because he believed they were progressives," said Mr. Hooker. He said he had talked with Mr. Crane at the Chicago Club "in March or April."

"Tell us what he said," demanded Senator Pomerene.

"He said that he had already given $70,000 and was contributing $4000 a week to keep the campaign going," replied the witness. "He said it was very expensive."

Mr. Tegethoff, when recalled, said he had no telegram in his possession nor had he ever seen any in which Roosevelt asked Mr. Harriman to look out for the selection of a good man for United States Senator in California.

"Information came to me to that effect and that is the reason I asked," explained Senator Pomerene.

"Bill" Flinn,

A Pittsburgh contractor and political boss, described by Roosevelt as his best friend, and who yesterday made amazing disclosures of commercialism of politics by Roosevelt. According to Flinn, the Roosevelt slush fund to provoke sentiment for the Bull Moose amounted to millions. Over a hundred thousand dollars, he said, was spent in one State.

ROOSEVELT SLUSH FUND.

mitted that his friend, J. E. Splain of Pittsburgh, wrote them and signed his name. He says Splain told him that he, Splain, had influence with the Standard Oil Company, but it was not made clear why, if that were so, he used the potent name of Flinn as the signature to the telegrams.

It was made quite clear by Flinn himself in his testimony that the biggest expenditures in the Roosevelt campaign were made by the State Committees and expenditures from the National campaign fund fixed at $141,657.64 by Treasurer Hooker's previous testimony, was the merest drop in the bucket.

AMOUNTS TO MILLIONS.

If there was expended in other States anything like that was spent in Pennsylvania, the cost of the Roosevelt campaign for the Republican nomination must have been well up in the millions. In one effort to evade in telling the total amount of his contribution to the big slush fund, Flinn squirmed and twisted like an eel. He pretended that he did not understand the questions of committeemen, argued that he had not been called to tell the total amount, and that he proposed to go on record with the statement he had filed, showing, by an odd system of book-keeping, that only a part of his expenses came within the scope of the resolution of investigation introduced by Senator Penrose.

TO MAKE FLINN TALK.

Even Senator Clapp, the close friend of Col. Roosevelt, was forced to join in the general effort to make Flinn get down to brass tacks and tell how much his contributions aggregated. He was not, however, forced to tell how much he had contributed to Roosevelt's present campaign as the head of the third party and he heaved a sigh of relief for this concession.

Mr. Flinn has always maintained that he believed solely in the free and untrammeled expression of the people's will, but strangely enough he admitted today that in Philadelphia, where he spent only $14,000, President Taft won at the primaries, while in the portions of the State where he spent the rest of $144,000 Roosevelt won.

A lively tilt between Senator Pomerene and Flinn occurred when the Senator read into the record the "mutual agreement" between Quay, Flinn and H. O. Brown, at that time director of the Pittsburgh Department of Public Safety.

"Where did you get that?" snapped Flinn to the Senator.

"I am not on the witness stand," replied Senator Pomerene.

A MATCH FOR HIM.

Pomerene proved more than a match for Flinn, and on two or three occasions, when Flinn attempted to evade pertinent questions by interrogating the members of the committee, he was promptly called to time by Senator Clapp, the chairman.

The list of contributors presented by "Bull Moose" Hooker was very illuminating. It disclosed that the two men who gave the largest amounts to the national Roosevelt organization were Dan R. Hanna, who was indicted under the Taft administration for rebating, and George W. Perkins, the organizer of the harvester trust.

Apparently Boss Flinn was left unhampered to devote his large fortune to conversion of his own State, although thousands of it were sent to other States. Presumably the same was true of Roosevelt leaders in other States.

Mr. Hooker also testified that Charles R. Crane of Chicago, recalled by President Taft as Minister to China, before he reached his post, had contributed $70,000 to the La Follette campaign and $70,000 to the Wilson campaign before the Democratic National Convention, an apparent example of "destructive" political maneuvering at which the most seasoned campaigners were amazed.

PLATONISM IN CHICAGO.

One-Legged Pigeon Tells the Hour and Also Day of Week.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Plato" is the name of a one-legged pigeon, who lives among the high loop buildings, and who can tell the time of day and the day of the week. Miss Emma Bents, a stenographer, vouches for this. She says: "It has only one leg and can't fight for its food with the others. So every day, at exactly 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, it comes to the sixth-story window and waits for its meal. It is never late—never too early, always exactly at 2:30 o'clock. The only exception to this rule, and this is how I know it can tell the time, is on Saturday. I feed it but it knows I have a half holiday on Saturdays, so every Saturday it comes at 11:45 never late, never early, always exactly on the minute."

WORST STOMACH TROUBLE ENDED

THOUSANDS OF LOS ANGELES FOLKS ARE CURED.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

HOW REJECTED MEN ASSAIL THE PRESIDENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—William Flinn of Pittsburgh, Roosevelt leader and Progressive national committeeman, in Pennsylvania, and Elon H. Hooker, of New York, treasurer of the Progressive National Committee, gave the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee some inside facts about the primary expenses of the Roosevelt campaign for the Republican nomination at Chicago.

Mr. Flinn answered the charges Senator Penrose had made last August that Mr. Flinn offered $1,000,000 to him and Israel W. Durham, in 1906, for the Pennsylvania Senatorial appointment to succeed M. S. Quay; and that in the same fight Mr. Flinn exchanged telegrams with John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Company, asking his support.

The Pittsburgh man said that if Senator Penrose made the first statement "he lied." As to the other, he produced J. G. Splain of Pittsburgh, who testified that he "thought" he had signed Mr. Flinn's name to the telegram to Mr. Archbold, June 7, 1904; and that he, and not Mr. Flinn, had handled the telegrams with Mr. Archbold, and had attempted to secure the Standard Oil influence in Mr. Flinn's support.

Prodded by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, who demanded a specific answer, Mr. Flinn admitted having written an agreement in January, 1896, in which Senator Quay, J. O. Brown and Mr. Flinn proposed to divide the Federal and local patronage of Pennsylvania. He declared he had "gold-bricked" Senator Quay; that he had never signed or intended to sign the agreement; and that he had written it only to allay Senator Quay's opposition to the Republican candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh.

The investigation brought out that Mr. Flinn has contributed $144,308.29 to the Roosevelt, the Republican and the Progressive campaigns in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Hooker, who preceded him on the witness stand, produced records to show that the Roosevelt National Committee had spent $141,657.44 in the entire national primary campaign preceding the Chicago convention. More than $52,000 of this sum went to Massachusetts.

Mr. Hooker also produced the records of the New York primary campaign, where the Roosevelt forces spent $52,606.52. The records showed that George W. Perkins had given $15,000 to the New York, and $22,500 to the national campaign; Frank A. Munsey, $15,000 to the New York, and $19,000 to the national campaign; and D. R. Hanna, $25,000 to the national campaign.

Mr. Flinn apportioned but $99,384.18 as "Roosevelt expenditures" in the statement he gave the committee of the sums he has contributed this year. Other items given for the election of delegates brought the total of his Roosevelt contributions to $102,000; and he admitted that he had contributed 90 per cent. of the money spent to carry the State for Roosevelt in the primaries.

JOHNSON IN YORK STATE.

UTICA (N. Y.) Oct. 1.—In this, the home city of Vice-President James S. Sherman, Gov. Johnson of California today opened his five days' New York campaign with a severe criticism of the manner in which the Republican national candidates were chosen, and declared that the first aim of the new party was to drive bosses from politics.

UNION PACIFIC NOW HAS ALTON.

Changes in Three Directors at Annual Meeting.

T. P. Shonts and Associates Resign from Board.

Veteran of Southern Pacific Is New President.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Union Pacific interests have once more assumed control of the Chicago and Alton Railroad. This change was made today when R. S. Lovett, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Union Pacific; Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation of the company, and J. J. Spence, director of traffic of the same line, were elected members of the board of directors of the Alton.

Their election took place at the annual meeting of the Alton's stockholders in the Railway Exchange building. They will fill vacancies caused by the resignations of T. P. Shonts, H. E. Huntington and F. B. Frasier. The following directors of the company were re-elected: W. G. Beale, John J. Mitchell and Edward Tilden.

There were 341,863 shares of stock voted at the meeting. The annual report of the company will be issued within a short time. It was announced some time ago that Union Pacific interests were seeking control of the management of the Alton. The Union Pacific owns more than $10,000,000 of the preferred stock of the road. One of the first changes in management was noted several weeks ago when B. A. Worthington was chosen president of the road. Mr. Worthington was associated with both the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific lines for many years.

MURPHY PLAYS 'POSSUM.

He Lets on as If the New York Democratic Convention Is Really Going to Be Unbossed.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] The Democratic State Convention opened today with every indication that it was to be as nearly unbossed as any convention can be. Charles F. Murphy and the other bosses have apparently seen the light. They have, it is said, even gone so far as to notify their followers that the unit rule is of no effect in this convention and every delegate may vote as he sees fit. Under the unit rule Murphy and his allies would control.

With Murphy refusing to do more than vote personally for Dix, it seems certain Dix is eliminated.

In opening the convention Martin H. Glynn of Albany, the temporary chairman, made a rattling speech and tonight is talked of as a gubernatorial possibility.

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 1.—Gov. The Governor replied his objection was to the passage of troops at Marathon, not at Del Rio.

Ambassador Wilson Resents Suggestion of Mexican Government Organ that Claims Be Withdrawn.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1.—Ambassador Wilson last night repudiated as unauthorized and gratuitous the suggestion made in the Nueva Era, a government organ, that claims for indemnities by Americans should be withdrawn.

"The embassy regards an expression of this kind," said the Ambassador, "in particularly bad taste as emanating from a newspaper supposedly representative of the opinion of the government of Mexico. Some of these claims lack just or legal foundation in international precedent and their payment will not be urged by the United States. Others are just and well-founded, either in international practice or on the ground of international amity.

"The government of the United States expects and in due season will diplomatically insist that all claims for damages, which come either within clear precedent or the precedents growing out of amicable considerations, shall be dealt with justly and generously by the Mexican government."

PALO ALTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—The board of directors of the Palo Alto Mutual Building and Loan Association in a long session behind closed doors today decided to appoint a committe investigate the title to securities turned over by State Senator Marshall Black, secretary of the association, to cover a shortage of $106,000 in his accounts.

Charles Cushing, an attorney of San Francisco, was empowered to employ an expert to examine the books of the various corporations in which Black was interested. The equities of the Cressey tract, amounting to about $170,000, will be experted to ascertain their present worth.

H. C. Hoover, an alumnus of Stanford University, guaranteed to secure the loan of $11,030 made by the Stanford union to the building and loan association.

Senior Ohio Senator Goes With Tariff Special to Refute Gov. Woodrow Wilson's Argument.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] United States Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, will be the chief speaker on the list of those who, under the auspices of the Republican National Committee, will trail Gov. Wilson on his forthcoming western tour.

"The tariff special" will start from Indianapolis Thursday and will keep twenty-four hours behind Gov. Wilson with a view to demonstrating that when the Democratic candidate said, in his recent speeches in the West, that the Republican party is seeking to abandon the tariff as a campaign issue he misunderstood the situation.

RUSSIA MOBILIZES RESERVES IN POLAND.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 1.—An imperial ukase is published today calling to the colors the reservists in twenty-two districts in Poland as a test of mobilization. The call, it is calculated, applies to 394,650 men. The ukase is dated at Borodino, and states that the reserves are called simply to test the percentage of arrivals and the time consumed, after which they may depart for home.

An official note explains that the trial mobilization was decided upon this spring, and has no reference to the tense situation in the Near East. The note points out that there is no mobilization of horses and wagons.

Building Is Active in
MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION
PARK SQUARE.
Of the very best class, too.

The reasons: MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE is especially well located and artistically laid out. Lots are large, all street improvements are in and the aspect is that of a finished product, merely awaiting YOUR coming and making your home here to be entirely complete.

Fine educational advantages in immediate vicinity, and exceedingly good car service the year round.

Seven car lines; 2½-minute service; 30-minute ride.

Exposition Park faces the tract on the north. This fresh air and beauty spot is the center of the best residential section of the city adds immensely to the value of all lots in the tract.

No one can fail to see that an investment in MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE would be a paying one. The value is there and the enormous crowds of tourists with appreciative eastern eyes will surely not overlook an opportunity to get a homesite where surroundings, neighbors, restrictions and terms are JUST RIGHT!

FOR SALE—

BEAUMONT VALLEY.
2000 Feet
Red Apple.
Greatest fruit land proposition in Southern California. Five acres will make you independent—ten to twenty acres will make you rich. Full bearing apple groves yield $600 to $1000 per acre per year. Rich, deep soil, abundant pure water—perfect climate.
APPLE LANDS,
$375 PER ACRE.
In our "Highland Home" tract. Far superior to other districts, where prices are higher. We can prove it. Altitude high enough to give apples the velvety, dark red color and fine flavor that mean "fancy" prices. Low enough to be free from the late frost danger that prevails in higher altitudes. This is a real opportunity. Investigation will convince you it's what you are looking for.
See samples of fruit at our office. Maps and folders on request.

FOR SALE—Country Property.

FOR SALE—I CAN DELIVER 1624 ACRES frostless foothill citrus land at Box Springs, six miles southeast of Riverside, at a price so low I am not permitted to advertise it.
This fine tract lies at an elevation of 1580 feet above sea level, 280 feet above the business center of Riverside, and 430 feet above the Gage Canal. It slopes south at the proper grade to irrigate, on the Box Springs Mountain foothills.
The soil is a deep rich disintegrated granite, easily worked. A 12-year-old orange grove demonstrates the frostless conditions. The owner guarantees 200 inches of water with the land. You deposit your cash payment of one-fourth in escrow, to be delivered when he produces the water.
Railroad and boulevard to Perris run within a city block; electric power line passing, will supply your light and power cheap. Traffic of entire valley passes close by. Easy and cheap tract to market, because of location.
I spend my entire time on citrus properties. I cannot find anything so good as this tract, to make money quick. You will have the other fellows at a standstill until you sell out, because you can undersell them all and yet make a big margin.
I have this for only a few days at the special confidential price which I am not permitted to advertise. I want you to see me and let me surprise you with the figures. No telephone information on this.

LISSNER DEALS DEATH BLOW TO MUNICIPAL ROAD.

WORKING until an early hour this morning putting the finishing touches on the proposed new city charter, the Board of Freeholders made a number of important eleventh-hour changes.

Chief among these was a change of a single word in the amortization clause of the public franchise section which Commissioner Locke declared last night will prove a deathblow to the hopes of municipal railroads in this city. The amendment proposed by Commissioner Lissner changed "shall" to "may" provide an amortization or sinking fund for the future purchase by the city of public utilities. Locke made a long, hard fight against the amendment, but was alone in his opposition and the amendment went through very quickly by a vote of 8 to 5, Commissioners Bryant, Locke, Reynolds and Haynes voting against it.

It was decided to make peddlers of all food products exempt from city license provisions instead of only peddlers of fruit, vegetables, farm and dairy products. This change was made upon advice of City Prosecutor Guy Eddie to avoid a ruling by the courts in future that it is class legislation.

Miss Beasie Stoddart, president of the Playground Commission, by a brief talk to the freeholders, succeeded in having the title of the department of "parks and libraries" changed to the department of "parks, libraries and recreations," so as to include playgrounds and recreation centers. Several other women present, however, were not so successful. Miss Mary A. Veeder, a member of the Housing Commission, pleaded for the establishment in the charter of a housing or tenement commission, but was told that her suggestion came too late. Mrs. H. R. Boynton of the Civic Association wanted the public libraries put into a separate department instead of combining them with the park department, but was politely turned down.

G. M. Giffen, a member of the Board of Library Directors, asked to have a separate tax levy fixed in the charter for the benefit of the library funds. He received the thanks of the commission for his interest, but nothing else.

As representing the artistic element of the city, F. P. Evans, Martin J. Jackson, M. D. Scott and C. Grunenfeld presented a letter to the freeholders asking that the Municipal Art Commission, instead of being composed of nine members, as at present, should include all the architects, sculptors and painters of the city, to meet once a month and discuss and plan the artistic building, with an executive board of nine members to carry out the practical details. Their letter was politely laid on the table and the section already drafted was adopted. Mr. Evans, as spokesman, declared the members of the Art Commission at present represent the financial and not the artistic side of city building and pleaded for a recognition of the art circles of the city.

The possibility of the city sometime in the future granting a franchise to a railroad to operate in the bed of the Los Angeles River, to be purchased later by the city was indicated by an amendment offered by Lewis Works, making the granting of such a franchise possible after being voted upon by the people.

For the first time the office of Chief Electrical Engineer was established in the charter. This office exists at present but is appointive and merely subordinate.

Senator Leslie Hewitt, T. E. Gibbon and Frank Gregson, secretary of the Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles, addressed the commission at some length upon the terms which the city should exact in leasing tidelands at the harbor for industrial and factory sites.

Chairman Haynes, Secretary Hamilton and the Law Committee will spend most of today engrossing the finished charter for signature by the members of the Board of Freeholders so that it may be filed with the City Clerk before 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, which will be the last of the 120 days provided by law in which the freeholders must draft the charter. After the filing of the charter the board dies automatically.

NOT ENOUGH LOCAL TALENT?

Library Board Wants Residence Restriction Removed on Ground That Service Would Be Bettered.

Is it true that there is not to be found in Los Angeles a sufficient number of young women capable of holding responsible positions in the public library? This question was raised last night at a meeting of the Library Board, upon the suggestion that the Civil Service commissioners be asked to remove the residence restriction so that outside help might be obtained.

Librarian Perry, in advocating the removal of the restriction by the Civil Service Commission, said that such a step would be a real concession and would aid materially in bettering the service. In response to the inquiry of one of the board members as to whether the necessary appointees could not be secured in Los Angeles, the librarian said: "We ought to consider ourselves lucky to get them anywhere." The board instructed the librarian to present the matter to the proper authorities with the recommendation of the board that the restriction be removed.

Tentative plans for the proposed Garvanza branch library, with an up-to-date open-air reading-room, were considered by the board, but no action was taken. An additional feature proposed for the new building is the installation of clustered lights about the outside. Under the plan submitted, the building would cost approximately $35,000.

After Oct. 5, Shares 37½c—Buy Shares NOW, 35c. The value of the Wiesendanger properties, now belonging to the Conservative Investment Co., all centrally located, will go to $10,000,000 by the time Los Angeles has a population of 1,000,000. Already the company has an income from rentals alone of over $140,000 a year, insuring large dividends, immediate, certain. Other sources of profit are from the sale of houses and lots; and from the increase in land values and our earnings from Subdivisions and Building Operations. Act NOW. YOU WON'T MAKE A MISTAKE
When you are in need of a little ready money on short notice, you won't make any mistake by coming to us and getting our terms first. You will find our rates the lowest in the city. Our specialty is loans from $10 to $300, on household goods, pianos, wagons and livestock. The security to remain in your possession. There is no need of asking your friends or relatives to help you when you can borrow from an old established company without any publicity on such reasonable terms. Our offices are private, but if you are unable to call, send word to us by mail, or phone and we will send an agent to talk the matter over with you.

A LOAN FROM US
Saves Money.
If you want money on FURNITURE, PIANO, horses, wagons, live stock or other personal property, without giving up the possession or use of same,
BORROW FROM US AND SAVE MONEY.
Our plan gives you a definite amount to pay each month, including both principal and interest, and you know just where you stand at all times, and if you find that you can pay before the loan expires, you will receive a substantial rebate on the total cost. In this way a loan can be paid off much quicker and cost much less than the customary loan providing for payment of interest only. The reputation we have is firmly established with those who know us is A SQUARE DEAL, ALL THE TIME.

LISSNER DEALS DEATH BLOW TO MUNICIPAL ROAD.

WORKING until an early hour this morning putting the finishing touches on the proposed new city charter, the Board of Freeholders made a number of important eleventh-hour changes.

Chief among these was a change of a single word in the amortization clause of the public franchise section which Commissioner Locke declared last night will prove a deathblow to the hopes of municipal railroads in this city. The amendment proposed by Commissioner Lissner changed "shall" to "may" provide an amortization or sinking fund for the future purchase by the city of public utilities. Locke made a long, hard fight against the amendment, but was alone in his opposition and the amendment went through very quickly by a vote of 8 to 5, Commissioners Bryant, Locke, Reynolds and Haynes voting against it.

It was decided to make peddlers of all food products exempt from city license provisions instead of only peddlers of fruit, vegetables, farm and dairy products. This change was made upon advice of City Prosecutor Guy Eddie to avoid a ruling by the courts in future that it is class legislation.

Miss Bessie Stoddart, president of the Playground Commission, by a brief talk to the freeholders, succeeded in having the title of the department of "parks and libraries" changed to the department of "parks, libraries and recreations," so as to include playgrounds and recreation centers. Several other women present, however, were not so successful. Miss Mary A. Veeder, a member of the Housing Commission, pleaded for the establishment in the charter of a housing or tenement commission, but was told that her suggestion came too late. Mrs. H. R. Boynton of the Civic Association wanted the public libraries put into a separate department instead of combining them with the park department, but was politely turned down.

G. M. Giffen, a member of the Board of Library Directors, asked to have a separate tax levy fixed in the charter for the benefit of the library funds. He received the thanks of the commission for his interest, but nothing else.

As representing the artistic element of the city, F. P. Evans, Martin J. Jackson, M. D. Scott and C. Grunenfeld presented a letter to the freeholders asking that the Municipal Art Commission, instead of being composed of nine members, as at present, should include all the architects, sculptors and painters of the city, to meet once a month and discuss and plan the artistic building, with an executive board of nine members to carry out the practical details. Their letter was politely laid on the table and the section already drafted was adopted. Mr. Evans, as spokesman, declared the members of the Art Commission at present represent the financial and not the artistic side of city building and pleaded for a recognition of the art circles of the city.

The possibility of the city sometime in the future granting a franchise to a railroad to operate in the bed of the Los Angeles River, to be purchased later by the city was indicated by an amendment offered by Lewis Works, making the granting of such a franchise possible after being voted upon by the people.

For the first time the office of Chief Electrical Engineer was established in the charter. This office exists at present but is appointive and merely subordinate.

Senator Leslie Hewitt, T. E. Gibbon and Frank Gregson, secretary of the Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles, addressed the commission at some length upon the terms which the city should exact in leasing tidelands at the harbor for industrial and factory sites.

Chairman Haynes, Secretary Hamilton and the Law Committee will spend most of today engrossing the finished charter for signature by the members of the Board of Freeholders so that it may be filed with the City Clerk before 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, which will be the last of the 120 days provided by law in which the freeholders must draft the charter. After the filing of the charter the board dies automatically.

NOT ENOUGH LOCAL TALENT?

Is it true that there is not to be found in Los Angeles a sufficient number of young women capable of holding responsible positions in the public library? This question was raised last night at a meeting of the Library Board, upon the suggestion that the Civil Service commissioners be asked to remove the residence restriction so that outside help might be obtained.

Librarian Perry, in advocating the removal of the restriction by the Civil Service Commission, said that such a step would be a real concession and would aid materially in bettering the service. In response to the inquiry of one of the board members as to whether the necessary appointees could not be secured in Los Angeles, the librarian said: "We ought to consider ourselves lucky to get them anywhere." The board instructed the librarian to present the matter to the proper authorities with the recommendation of the board that the restriction be removed.

Tentative plans for the proposed Garvanza branch library, with an up-to-date open-air reading-room, were considered by the board, but no action was taken. An additional feature proposed for the new building is the installation of clustered lights about the outside. Under the plan submitted, the building would cost approximately $35,000.

Garments for Charity.

A meeting of the presidents of the local sections of the Needle-work Guild is called for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Friday Morning Clubhouse. At this time arrangements will be made to take up the annual gathering of garments for the poor, the distribution to be made at Kramer's Hall on November 4.

Credit Men's Luncheon.

The Los Angeles Credit Men's Association will hold a luncheon at the Hollenbeck Hotel today at 12:15 sharp. F. B. McComas, who has just returned from a meeting of the directorate of the National Association in New York, will speak upon the policy of the National Association as to the establishment of a national prosecution fund, management of adjustment bureau and other points of vital interest to credit men.

Still Fighting That Conservatory.

The fight against the completion of the Eastlake Park conservatory by the Park Commission is to be continued. The committee appointed at a recent meeting of the Los Angeles Horticultural Society to protest against the erection of the two unfinished units of the building on the present basis was continued last night by a unanimous vote of the society. Under the present plans of the Park Commission the conservatory is to be completed at a cost of $50,000.

Wagner for the Teachers.

The first of a series of lectures and papers in a Wagnerian course for the benefit of the City Teachers' Club will be given this afternoon at Blanchard Hall at 3:45 o'clock. Prof. R. R. Baumgardt will lecture on the "Life and Aims of Richard Wagner," and will illustrate his talk with photographs taken for the purpose. The lecture is preliminary to a series of four readings of the operas composing "The Ring," to be given by Miss Ida Leonard on the 30th inst, November 27, January 2 and January 29. These will be followed by a Wagnerian concert by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, February 21.

To Avoid Crossing Tracks.

A tract comprising 450 acres east of South Pasadena was transferred from the South Pasadena elementary school district to the Alhambra city district yesterday because County Superintendent Keppel, before whom the hearing was held, maintained that it was dangerous to oblige young children to cross the four-track Pacific Electric right-of-way and the automobile boulevard on the way to school. Twenty delegates from both districts attended the hearing. The Alhambra representatives admitted the weight of the argument, but announced that they will later ask that a slice of South Pasadena territory be given them on the same premises.

"Blind Pig" Money for County.

Detective Duni of the District Attorney's office yesterday submitted a report to Deputy District Attorney Keetch concerning fines collected in gambling and blind pig cases in the county since May 1, when the two were put in charge of eradicating these pests by Capt. Fredericks. According to the report the fines have aggregated $3965, and the expenses total $2912.70, leaving the county a balance of $1052.30. There are cases pending which are expected to add $1000 to this amount. Duni and Keetch maintain that the county is now more free from gambling and the illicit selling of liquor than at any time in years.

Two Injured by Accidents.

Harold Crawford, a lineman for the Sunset Telephone Company, who lives at No. 506 South Hill street, slipped from a pole on South Spring street, between Fourth and Fifth yesterday, when he accidentally touched a live wire, and fell to the sidewalk. He sustained a broken right hip and burns on his hands. He was taken to the California Hospital. Contusions of the back, and body lacerations, were sustained by Myran Collins, 10 years old, No. 111 West Fourteenth street, when knocked down yesterday by a Pacific Electric train at Fifteenth and Hill streets. It appears the boy tried to cross the tracks in front of the train and miscalculated the distance.

Atzereth-Feast of Conclusion.

The cycle of Jewish festivals for the year ends with the twenty-second day of the seventh month of the Hebrew calendar, which falls upon the third of October. Services in celebration of this closing day of the fall-festivals will be held at Temple B'nai B'rith this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 10.

Dr. Hecht will conduct both services and preach tonight on "Strength and Courage, the Motto of the Atzereth."

In the morning he will review the impressions of the holy season that began with the 12th of September. Appropriate music will be rendered by the Temple Choir.

The school for religious instruction, connected with Temple B'nai B'rith, will begin its work on Sunday, October 6 at 10 a.m. and continue regularly every Sunday until the end of June.

The Juvenile Sabbath services will be resumed on Saturday, October 5th next at 9:45 a.m., and all other activities of the congregation will be taken up during the first days of this month.

BREVITIES.

Small women and misses—the sizes sometimes so hard to fit—will find special preparations made for them at Harris & Frank's. A full range of sizes in new fall coats, suits and dresses in their store at 437 South Spring street.

The Calvert, an exclusive family hotel, is now nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy on or about October 8. The Calvert is situated in the heart of the Westlake district and about ten minutes from the business center; convenient to many car lines. It is the aim of the management of the Hotel Calvert to conduct this hotel upon the most modern American plan and to insure guests the comforts and conveniences of a home. It will be luxuriously furnished. Rates most reasonable. For reservations, address Mrs. A. Conn, 743 Beacon st., or phone 10279, Wilshire 24.

WELLS, BUT LITTLE WATER.

Antelope Valley Homestead Project Figures in Complaint Heard in United States Court.

The result of experiments made in Antelope Valley in 1909-10 to secure water for those who had invested in the desert lands of the National Homestead Association, was told in a hearing of the complaint against E. C. Redman, president of the organization, in the United States District Court yesterday.

Circulars and letters sent broadcast throughout the country to induce investment alleged that there was an abundance of flowing water on the land for irrigation purposes.

P. D. Finch, living in the Antelope Valley, and a professional well driver, testified that at the request of the defendant, Redman, he had sunk a number of wells in different sections and that none of them had a flow exceeding seven inches of water.

A. S. Gear, who was for some months in 1908 allied with the National Homestead Association in the position of secretary, declared that he had been ousted from his position by Redman. He testified that when the first issue of the booklet of the association was sent out, in which it was stated that the Title Guaranty and Trust Company would guarantee the title to the lands Redman was trying to sell, a large number of the books had to be destroyed for the reason that the corporation would not guarantee title to the lands.

SETS ASIDE DEFAULT.

Judge Wellborn set aside yesterday the default entered recently in the case brought by the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company of New York against the Wallace Concrete Machinery Company of this city for an alleged infringement of patent of concrete appliances. The order of default was made through a misapprehension, the court being informed that the local concern had not made reply within the legal period, but it was afterward learned that the reply had been filed.

GLASSES ARE NOT A LUXURY

They are a necessity. Nobody wears them unless they have to. But if they have to, then it is their duty to get the best.
OUR GLASSES are as near perfection as will and skill can make them.
OUR TESTS of the eyes are more thorough than is usually made, and insure as nearly a perfect fit as can be obtained anywhere.
The TORIC and KRYPTOK LENSES cannot be duplicated for comfort and seeing qualities. It is impossible for anyone to make better fitting lenses.
HIGHLY-FITTED GLASSES are a great aid in the preservation of healthy nerves, because of the serious nerve drain that results from Eyestrain. To neglect to have the eyes properly attended to when they begin to go wrong is criminal neglect. To wait till they are irreparably injured is too late. Prompt attention saves many later troubles, and perhaps the blindness that results from cataracts which are the products of Eyestrain.

DEATH'S HEAD FOR A SIGNET.

Mrs. Atherton Flays Piracy of the "Progressives."

Novelist Grills Roosevelt to a Crisp Brown.

"Poser, Demagogue, False Prophet," She Says.

Theodore Roosevelt, founder and star member of the Ananias Club, was nominated for its presidency by Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, novelist and lecturer, immediately upon her arrival in Los Angeles yesterday morning.

Mrs. Atherton, who is touring California in the interest of Woodrow Wilson and Marshall, was welcomed at the Arcade Depot by Miss Mary Foy, president of the Women's Democratic League, and escorted to the Alexandria, where an informal reception was given in her honor by a number of leading women Democrats.

"I hope that I will not be tempted to call Mr. Roosevelt a liar," Mrs Atherton said, "but since he is the founder of the Ananias Club I think it is high time he assumed the presidency of that organization. Roosevelt today looks like a cave man. He doesn't look like a man who ought to be leading anything, let alone a 'progressive' movement—but that 'progressive' name is simply a fancy word for Roosevelt."

She declared that every look, every idea, every principle of the so-called "Progressive" party is Roosevelt's. "Don't be misled," she said, "it is the Roosevelt party, not the true 'Progressive' party."

DENOUNCES ROOSEVELT.

She characterized the Bull Moose candidate as an eleventh-hour reformer, poser, false prophet and demagogue of the deepest hue. She said that she was amazed and disappointed in California women to find so many of them hoodwinked by Roosevelt and Johnson. She bitterly attacked Hiram Johnson for referring to President Taft as the "most humiliating spectacle in American history." She said the statement shows Johnson's real caliber and stamps him as a man unworthy of the respect of his fellow-citizens.

"Woman is not to be misled by the Roosevelt declaration that everything is wrong," she said. "One look backward will serve to rob her of any belief in an instant panacea." Mrs. Atherton further said that Roosevelt had been introduced to the people of California as the man who gave California the Panama Canal. "It's one thing to project a castle in Spain," she said, "and another to timber it. Roosevelt declared for woman's suffrage a few days before the Bull Moose convention because he realized that it would mean tens of thousands of votes to his ticket. When he was campaigning in Ohio and Michigan, where the women were fighting for the ballot, he never opened his mouth on the subject."

"FLAG OF PIRACY."

"Never has the black flag of piracy floated above the political seas as now; never was it saluted with so much honor. A party that opens its political meetings with prayer and sings 'Onward Christian Soldiers' and claims to be the embodiment of pure politics and clean Americanism, ought Novelist and lecturer now in this city, who yesterday nominated Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency of the Ananias Club. She is touring California in the interest of Woodrow Wilson.

MORE LONG ROAD MONEY.

Two Subscriptions of Hundred Dollars Each Received Yesterday. More Directors of the Work.

Two hundred dollars in subscriptions to the ocean-to-ocean highway fund was reported yesterday—$100 from the Fitzgerald Music Company and $100 from Ben R. Meyer.

C. K. Clark, under whose report and advice the highway is to be constructed to Yuma, will be chief engineer and the following-named will act as advisory board of consulting engineers:

George E. Pillsbury, chief engineer Pacific Electric Railway Company; Ivory B. Noble, County Surveyor; F. H. Joyner, chief engineer County Highway Commission, and J. B. Lippincott, assistant chief engineer Los Angeles aqueduct.

All highway building will be under control of the construction committee, composed of Stoddard Jess, chairman; Paul Shoup, Ralph C. Hamlin, John J. Jenkins, C. H. Bigelow and John S. Mitchell. This committee will direct work and audit construction bills. No work will be done without its approval.

C. H. Bigelow will be in charge of road work and George R. Wade will be his assistant.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Colegrove Celebrate Interesting Event Surrounded by Many Old Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ami L. Davis celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary last night at the Young Women's Christian Association. Their daughter, Miss Lillian Davis, their only child, arranged the affair, to which she had invited between fifty and sixty of the relatives and friends, many of them having been intimate with the family in Illinois. They were married in Princeton, Ill., in 1857, and came to California about twelve years ago, and make their home at Colegrove. One of the novelties of the evening was Miss Davis wearing her mother's wedding gown of brilliant plaid silk, which has been carefully preserved and gives no evidence of age except in the fullness of the skirt. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are an exceptionally well-preserved couple and greatly enjoyed the evening with their friends.

FOR PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Four-Year Course Arranged by President of University of Southern California.

President Bovard of the University of Southern California is preparing to establish a four-year course in physical education leading to the degree of "bachelor of science in physical education."

The new class will begin its work within a few weeks, and considerable interest is already manifested in it. Dr. Bovard believes it to be a line of educational endeavor so important that it cannot be longer ignored by leading institutions of learning.

The course will include the study of anatomy, physiology and hygiene. He expects that expert teachers, playground workers and physical instructors will be turned out and that much good will result from the class, not only to the students, but eventually to the public at large.

Announcement of the completed plans and the selection of the faculty for the work will be made in the November Bulletin.

UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

The Federal grand jury began an investigation yesterday of the affairs of the Sunset Grocery Company, involving W. H. Allen, Claude Allen, Herbert Allen, N. Earnest Whitman, Nellie Allen and Frankie Whitman, charged with having conspired to conceal the assets of the corporation from their creditors. Nellie Allen and Frankie Whitman are at liberty on their own recognizance, and some of the other defendants are in the County Jail and others are out on $3500 bail.

A Sell?

COURT ACTION OVER NORMAL?

City's Bid Accepted, Other Bidder Protests.

Offers Ten Thousand More, Says Hotel Site.

Flaw in Check, According to the Trustees.

The sale of the State Normal School site is to be carried into the courts.

It was awarded to a syndicate of Los Angeles banks and other concerns for, $600,000 yesterday by the Board of Trustees with the understanding that it is to be turned over to the city at the same figure by December 1, 1915, for public buildings purposes.

Representatives of L. S. Adams & Co. bid $610,000 for the property. The bid was rejected on the ground that the $10,000 check proffered to bind the deal was technically imperfect.

An injunction to prevent the State turning the property over to the purchasers will be sought today, according to a statement made last night by L. S. Adams, and redress will be demanded. He and his attorneys declare the sale of the property to other than the highest bidder was illegal, that the check offered by his concern was in compliance with technical requirements, and that the case will be carried to the highest court in the land if necessary.

Adams stated last night that he represents eastern and several western capitalists who desire the site as a foundation for a $1,000,000 tourist hotel. He said that in compliance with their wishes he could not make their names public at this time. The site is Fifth street and Grand avenue.

The property was auctioned on the steps of the Normal building. The City Council yesterday morning authorized the purchase for the city by the Normal Site Company, an organization made up by local business men to buy it for the municipality following the Los Angeles Investment Company's report that it would not bid more than $500,000 for the property. Councilmen Andrews and Lusk voted against the purchase.

Immediately after the purchase was authorized M. S. Hellman, first vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, and State Senator L. H. Roseberry, his counsel, representing the Normal Site Company, left the City Hall for the Normal and there tendered Secretary J. F. Millspaugh of the Board of Trustees a certified $10,000 check, as required by the terms of the auction.

HIS CHECK REFUSED.

When President Richard Melrose of the board announced the sale on, Hellman bid $600,000. This was the only bid expected. Immediately, however, Adams offered $610,000 and proffered a $10,000 check, made out to the Board of Trustees. President Melrose said it was not properly indorsed. Adams indorsed it and again offered it. Again it was refused on technical grounds, and the bid of the municipality accepted. Adams protested the sale.

Ignoring the protest Melrose, Millspaugh, Earl, Letts and Scherer, members of the Board of Trustees, at a meeting in the afternoon in the school building, unanimously ratified the sale in a resolution to the effect that there was no other legal bid.

Secretary Millspaugh was authorized to procure the certificate of sale and deliver it to the purchasers upon receipt of 10 per cent. of the purchase price, or $60,000. It is to prevent this that the first legal step will be taken by L. S. Adams & Co. today, according to Adams.

Attorneys representing L. S. Adams & Co. spent the afternoon and part of the evening in discussing the legal status of their contention and reached the decision that their case is a perfect one, said Adams. "We shall start pro-

WORK FOR THE MAIL MAN.

More Than Half Million Letters Misdirected or Lacking Complete Address Handled Last Month.

The September receipts of the postoffice amounted to $136,432.19. For the corresponding month of last year the amount was $127,861.64, an increase of .067 per cent.

The number of pieces of mail reaching the office during the past month, either misdirected or not addressed to street and number, was 595,671. These were disposed of as follows: Correct address found and forwarded to points outside of the city, 65,912; delivered by city letter carriers, 189,265; sent to the general delivery to await call, 340,494; average number of pieces searched through the directories daily, 19,856; number of callers at the general delivery for the month, 175,916; number of changes of address filed in the office, during the month, 28,671.

FILIBUSTERS PUNISHED.

Ringleaders Sentenced to Eleven Months in San Diego County Jail, Others to Five Months.

The outcome of a filibustering expedition that was frustrated by the government when Peter Shea, A. Johnson, Robert Rea, H. Gorley, Sam Rosenberg, Edward Rooney and Leonard Vann were apprehended in the act of smuggling arms and ammunition into Mexico, was read in the Federal Court yesterday when Shea and Johnson were sentenced to eleven months in the San Diego County Jail and the others to five months' imprisonment.

The men were captured at El Cajon. They had traveled from San Diego in a powerful automobile and carried seven rifles, 700 rounds of ammunition and several empty bombs.

The evidence showed this expedition was one of a series that had set out to join Gen. De la Tobo in Mexico.

In passing sentence, Judge Wellborn declared everything possible will be done to stop the harrassing of the Mexican government. It was shown that during the trial of the Magons in this city for conspiracy De la Tobo was in communication with the revolutionary junta here.

Automatics.

HONK-HONK TO EXACT SCIENCE.

World's First University Auto Course Started.

College Degrees for Ability to Make 'Er Go.

Academic history was made yesterday afternoon when the first university course ever given in automobile history, operation, repairs, good roads and allied subjects was opened at the University of Southern California by Prof. Stanley W. Smith, C.E.

No longer will the luckless homemade chauffeur be covered with remorse and held up to contumely and ridicule, when his machine balks far from garage or vulcanizer. No longer will he futilely unscrew 798 varieties of nuts, bolts and hoods in a hopeless hope that he may accidentally do the right thing. No longer is the auto owner to be a dependent, shrinking appurtenance to that superior person whom he is forced to employ and pay perfectly good money for juggling a wrench about the vitals of the machine. No longer will any of these things or a lot of others like them come to pass if the public takes advantage of its opportunities.

Seventy-seven young men, including three Japanese, and twenty-eight enthusiastic young women have matriculated for a degree in "automatics," for the course is made a regular part of the university's curriculum, and

Too Much for Him.

BACHELOR OR GRANDPA? YOUNG MAN NOT SURE.

Is He a Bachelor or a Grandfather?

Karl Eugene Kolbe of Los Angeles, who says he is single, and Mrs. Lydia Emma Fyke of St. Louis, who claims him as her husband. The St. Louis authorities say that the couple were married. Kolbe does not recall it.

KARL EUGENE KOLBE, 35 years old, of No. 714 Wall street, went to sleep a few nights ago firm in the belief that he was a confirmed bachelor. He awakened the next morning and learned that for several years he has been a married man, and that he not only has a wife living, but is also a grandfather.

This astounding piece of intelligence came to him through the County Recorder of St. Louis county, Missouri, who insists that Kolbe was granted a license to marry Lydia Emma Fyke and that Justice R. H. Stevens of that county performed the marriage ceremony. This state of affairs was confirmed by Mrs. Fyke, or Mrs. Kolbe, who says they were married New Year's night, 1905.

The bachelor husband does not make a flat denial, but says he has no recollection of such a marriage, and that in any event he has never been informed of it before. His story is to the effect that Mrs. Fyke was his landlady for three years in St. Louis.

"Mrs. Fyke said she was going to adopt me as her son," Kolbe said last night. "I called her mother, and her daughter, Bernadine, I called sister, and while I did not object to being adopted as a son I do most seriously object to being adopted as a husband. I have not seen or heard from them since leaving St. Louis six years ago. I understand the daughter is now a widow with a 4-year-old son, but that does not change my relationship to her or to her mother. This is my first intimation that I was a married man, and the thing has been a shock in more ways than one."

Kolbe, who has been engaged in the restaurant and cigar business, says he is a son of Col. Karl Eugene Theodore Kolbe, a wealthy retired German army officer living at Zoppot, in West Prussia. According to his story he is a graduate of a military school and a deserter from the German army. While a very young man he went to England on a furlough, got into fast company, and when his time was up found himself unable to get back to his regiment. He appealed to his father, but the stern old colonel refused to help him. Fearing court-martial he fled to America, and has been here since.

"I was going a pretty fast gait in St. Louis," he said last night, "drinking a great deal and all that. Of course, it is possible that I may have married this woman, who is almost twice my age, during one of my sprees, but she certainly never made any claim that she was my wife. I advertised in the St. Louis papers and located the mother and daughter in the hopes that I might receive keepsakes I had left with them. Imagine my surprise when I received a letter from Mrs. Fyke, claiming me as her husband, and wanting to come to Los Angeles. I investigated her assertion, and it is borne out by the records of St. Louis county, according to advices from there. I don't know what I will do or what steps I will take, but in my heart she is not my wife, and I will not consent to any such arrangement.

Must Give Service.

TURNING THE NOZZLE ON WATER HUMBUG.

THE State Railroad Commission was asked yesterday to help the District Attorney regulate small water companies supplying limited tracts throughout this county. The request was made by Chief Deputy Hanna, who states that the number of complaints about inferior service have been so numerous that he wishes to put the matter into the hands of the State authorities.

About twenty companies will be affected by the commission's action, Hanna states. They supply water to many thousands of persons. Exorbitant rates, discrimination between users and such unreliable service as to menace the public health are the main indictments against the companies. Most of these water systems were organized by promoters with tracts to sell, who advertised cheap water from an individual plant as an inducement to investors. Hanna's letter says:

"In many cases, after the promoters sold their land, they have neglected the water plants or have sold them out to other parties who furnish a very poor service to the residents at exorbitant rates. In many instances, where the owners have continued to hold the plants, they have not made the necessary repairs to keep the plants in good working order; and, inasmuch as they have no further interest in the land itself, will not expend the necessary money to give good service to the public. The result is that the pipe lines very often break and are not repaired. The plants are shut down sometimes for days at a time, leaving the householders without necessary water for household use, and, in many instances, jeopardizing the health of the community by the unsanitary conditions that ensue. Not only this, but discriminations are made in the rates, and, in general, the business is run on a basis to get as much money as possible and put as little in as possible."

Hanna asks the commission to take up the matter of rate regulation throughout the county at the earliest possible moment. Local regulation cannot succeed, he says, because it appears, "from a careful perusal of the constitutional amendment and statute under which your commission is organized that the Board of Supervisors no longer has jurisdiction to establish rates for water companies doing business in this county."

The question of service is believed to be of paramount importance because "in several sections of Los Angeles county where the water companies have discontinued service at various times for periods of several days, epidemics of typhoid fever have become prevalent and the health of the community has been seriously endangered. . . . The residents do not have time, when the water is shut off, to file a complaint with your commission and await the necessary hearing, because, in the meantime, they are without water and suffer great hardship."

The consumers can go into court, Hanna continues, but most of the people are of a meager means and shrink from the expense and bother of a law suit against a corporation.

Hanna is also seeking for some law under which the companies can be prosecuted criminally for discontinuing service without permission of the commission.

"My office has been deluged with complaints," said Hanna yesterday. "The tract promoters put in a second-hand system and let it rot. Or they boost rates unmercifully, or charge exorbitantly for meters. I know of one community in which the people carried pails of water four or five blocks for weeks. We want to stop all that in a single sweep."

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

Summary of the Day.

The City Council instructed the City Engineer yesterday to prepare an ordinance of intention to change the name of Santa Monica avenue to Exposition boulevard, thus settling a street-name wrangle affecting two widely separated parts of the city.

An ordinance of intention was ordered by the City Council yesterday to open up a new street in the rear of the Times Building for an outlet from New High street through Franklin Court and to North Broadway.

After weeks of delay while repairs were made, the paving of Slauson avenue, from Central avenue to the old westerly city limits, was accepted by the City Council yesterday.

To acquaint the jurors with the ground involved in an orange land suit they will be taken to Old Baldy today by a Superior Court judge, accompanied by engineers and attorneys. The land involved is valued at $15,000,000.

GETS BIG NAME BY A CHANGE.

SANTA MONICA AVENUE TO BE EXPOSITION BOULEVARD.

City Council Finds Way of Amicably Settling Long Controversy Over Duplication of Appellations for Highways, and Property Owners of Both Districts Are Pleased.

The squabbling over the proposed change of name of Santa Monica boulevard, through the northwestern part of the city and passing through Colegrove to Santa Monica, appears ended. The City Council yesterday hit upon a solution that it believes will be final and acceptable to property owners in the districts affected.

Santa Monica avenue, in the southern part of the city, along the north side of Exposition Park, is to be known ax Exposition boulevard, and take on new diginity that will expand it into an important thoroughfare. Santa Monica boulevard, in the northwestern part of the city, will retain its name, and the proponents of the change to Colegrove avenue can retire.

Several thousand persons are directly interested in the change of name in the one case and retention of an old name in the other.

NEW STREET.
OUTLET TO BROADWAY.

Another direct outlet to North Broadway for the traffic on New High street is to be secured if the plans accepted by the City Council yesterday are carried through. The Council adopted the recommendations of the Streets and Boulevards Committee that the City Engineer be instructed to prepare an ordinance of intention to open a street through from the southerly end of New High by using Franklin Court and land located north of The Times Building, extending westerly to North Broadway. This ordinance will be presented at the next meeting of the City Council. It is declared that the opening of this new street will greatly relieve the traffic congestion on New High and Franklin streets.

BETKOUSKI PROTESTS AGAINST TREASURY RAIDS.

Several minor sums were represented in the requests made by various city officials, including the Mayor, of the City Council yesterday for appropriations from the reserve fund. It roused the ire of Councilman Betkouski, who was exceedingly vigorous in expressing his attitude and scoding the city officials for what he declared constant attempts to get a pull at the reserve.

"All the city officials have their eyes on this reserve fund," said Betkouski," and it seems they all want to get a grab at it before it melts away. Even the Mayor cannot resist the temptation to try to dig into it; but the Budget Committee was in session for two months or more, studying the needs of each department, and making provision for them. We have but little more than completed this work when the requests begin to pour in for raids of the reserve, and we've got to put a stop to it. That fund is our bulwark for the 'dry' months and I give notice that we must protect it against raids."

Accepts Slauson Avenue.

After weeks of delay and protests on the part of property owners, the City Council yesterday, only Councilman Andrews dissenting, accepted the paving work on Slauson avenue from Central avenue to the old city limits.

The rock used as a base is rhyolite and it is so hard that it would not bind well with the other materials. The property owners objected and also declared that the street was not up to specifications in regard to the thickness of the paving. Contractor Oswald's money to the extent of about $100,000 was held up by the Council until he made extensive repairs, but the condition of the street was reported satisfactory yesterday to all but Andrews, who declared:

"The way this Council does in condoning faulty work in streets is simply the means of breeding similar cases. I'm as much opposed to whitewashing a street improvement that is faulty as an individual who is delinquent. I charge no graft, but I do say that our method is wrong, and that the city should do the street work itself and eliminate the opportunities for inferior work under the contract system."

Public Comfort Stations.

The City Council at yesterday's session decided to authorize the Park Commission to proceed as soon as possible with the construction of a public comfort station at the junction of Ninth and Main streets. Provision is made in this year's budget for this station and also one at the Federal building. The work is to be placed in the hands of the Park Commission on account of its previous experience and good results in this line of work.

City Hall Brevities.

City Assessor Mallard was granted $100 by the City Council yesterday, to pay the expenses of a deputy from his office on a trip to Sacramento for gathering information to be used in the city's suit against the State over the reduction of Mallard's assessments by the State Board of Equalization.

The City Council referred to the Legislation Committee yesterday an ordinance framed for the purpose of suppressing unnecessary use of automobile horns and providing for a series of horn signals, so pedestrians may know exactly what they indicate.

Upon the insistence of Councilman Reed, who has been absent from the city two weeks, the Council yesterday postponed action for a week on the proposition to override the recommendation of the Board of Public Utilities and grant franchises legalizing the four spur tracks at the Union Hardware and Metal Company's plant and adjacent points. These tracks have been in use for years, their location having been permitted by a former City Council, but the Board of Public Utilities holds that they cannot be legally used as places for the standing or loading and unloading of cars. Reed will make an inspection of the spurs today, in company with a member of the Board of Public Utilities.

With the consent of the donor and of the City Council, the sum of $1000 is to be diverted from the donation of C. A. Canfield for improvements at the athletic field in Exposition Park, to build a temporary grandstand for the Stanford-U.S.C. football game the 19th inst.

A $4000 lift was given Exposition Park by the City Council yesterday when it voted to transfer that amount from the general fund for maintenance. The $10,000 appropriated for this park in the budget is to be used entirely for improvements, hence the demand for a fund for maintenance.

CAMPING TRIP FOR JURORS.

NIGHT ON OLD BALDY PART OF OFFICIAL BUSINESS.

Together With Judge, Engineers and Attorneys, They Will Be Made Acquainted With Land Valued at Fifteen Millions — Hard Fight Ahead.

After clearing the ground for the voluminous evidence to be submitted in the suit to quiet title brought by the Irrigation Company of Pomona against the San Antonio Water Company, Judge Conrey adjourned court yesterday until Friday. Judge, jury, engineers and attorneys will leave for Pomona this morning for a two-days' inspection of the field covered by the famous suit.

Camp will be made on Old Baldy tonight and the inspection will be finished tomorrow. The object of the trip is to familiarize the jury with the ground, the wells owned by the ranchmen and the source of supply. The work of presenting the evidence will thus be simplified.

Although the trial of the suit has been set for six weeks, the attorneys engaged in the case say it will not be completed in twelve. The scene covers Pomona and Claremont and involves orange lands valued at $15,-000,000.

The index map showing the various locations, the wells and the claims of the plaintiff was submitted in court yesterday; the explanations having been given by Willis S. Jones, the engineer who drafted the map. The plaintiff has engaged as engineering experts to testify in the trial, in addition to Jones, Arthur Sanderreger and A. H. Koebig. The defendants' experts are F. E. Trask, F. C. Finkle and M. Saunders of Pomona. The attorneys are Stephens & Stephens and Haas & Dunnigan for the plaintiff, J. W. McKinley, E. R. Jollisse of Ontario; Howard Burr of San Bernardino, and O'Melveny, Stevens & Millikin.

SUITS PILE UP.
FAMILY TROUBLES AIRED.

A singular piling up of suits marks the troubles of Fanny Briggs Carr-King. Following a personal encounter between Mrs. Carr and her husband, M. Adrian King, she brought suit for divorce. When the interlocutory decree was granted, the court gave her possession of sixteen acres in Glendale, valued at $25,000.

King has a lien of $500 against the property; Court Reporter Coulter has a lien for writing the transcript of the suit, and Edward Payne, the referee in the divorce action, has a lien for his fees.

Mrs. Carr, as she is known, filed a suit to quiet title against the Carr Company, the business of which was given to King by the court. King filed a cross-complaint, alleging title to the business by adverse possession. King brought an action in the name of the Carr Company against the Western Wholesale Drug Company to restrain it from selling preparations packed in packages similar to those sold by the Carr Company. It will appear from the evidence when the suit is tried, according to Mrs. Carr, who is a beauty doctor, that King's aim is in reality to prevent the sale of the goods she manufactures.

Mrs. Carr sued the Carr Company, the Cucumber Creme Company, King and others to enjoin them from sending out circulars intimating that her preparations are imitations of King's and for damages. The Carr Company and King are represented by Attorney Burnell. Appel & Beardsley are counsel for Mrs. Carr.

WATTS AROUSED.
PROPERTY OWNERS FILE SUIT.

The improvement of Melvin avenue, between Main street and Shorb avenue, Watts, at a cost of $11,221.77 resulted in a suit being filed yesterday by Isaac Fields and twenty-three other property owners against City Treasurer Sarah A. Smith, and the Municipal Securities Company, which bonded her, in which an alleged discrimination in favor of the Pacific Electric forms the pivotal point.

The Board of Trustees adopted an ordinance of intention in 1909 for grading and graveling Melvin avenue and awarded the contract to the Patillo Construction Company. The city agreed to pay a part of the expense and issue bonds against the property involved for the balance.

It seems that the Pacific Electric agreed to contribute $1500 for the improvement of the west side, along which runs its right of way. After the work had been finished the city levied an assessment and a protest was made and denied.

It appeared that while the property owners were assessed $7624 for the improvement of the east side, the Pacific Electric obligated itself to pay only $1500, while the expense to the City of Watts was only $2574. The difference as against the property owners is $3550.

The court is asked to enjoin Treasurer Smith from collecting the assessment from the property owners and selling the bonds issued on their lots.

PART OF DAY'S WORK.
TO DETERMINE COMPETENCY.

Judge Rives is called on to determine whether or not Mrs. Anna E. Holman is competent in order to decide whether or not a guardian should be appointed for her. Two petitions have been filed, in both of which Mrs. Holman is alleged having become incompetent from the use of drugs and intoxicants. In each case the petitioner is anxious to have the property she owns safeguarded, it is asserted.

The petitions were before the Probate Court yesterday and Judge Rives took the matter under submission.

According to the petitions, Mrs. Holman, who is worth $40 000 and receives an allowance of $20,000 a year from her brother, Col. Oliver S. Hershman of Pittsburgh, contracted the drug habit while in ill health, opiate first having been given her by a physician. She came to Los Angeles in the hopes of benefiting her health. If a guardian is to be appointed she favors Judge Frank Shanley of Anaheim, who is a life-long friend. She opposes the petition of P. E. Hatch of Long Beach, who is recommended by her husband, Guy W. Holman. This is thought to be due to the differences between Mrs. Holman and her husband, which were aired in the Divorce Court.

Mrs. Holman owns property in Orange and Fresno counties, the land in the latter comprising eighty acres, and a cottage at Long Beach. Her mother is Mrs. Lucy Hershman.

NEIGHS AND BRAYS.
DISCORDANT NOTES TABOOED.

An ordinance passed by the Board of Trustees of the city of Whittier and particularly directed against a stallion and a jackass used for breeding purposes by the Whittier Breeders' Association, was upheld by Judge Craig yesterday in a suit brought by W. S. Keen to prohibit the enforcement of the ordinance on the ground that it is discriminatory and therefore invalid. Emmet Wilson, who represents Keen, will appeal.

Under the provisions of the ordinance no stallion or jackass may be stabled within 900 feet of a church, schoolhouse, residence or business block. The reason assigned is that these animals by their loud neighing and braying annoy school children, housewives and the clients of business men. Keen, who is a member of the association, and attacked the ordinance in the interest of the association, hears nothing unmusical, apparently, in the neighing and braying and does not admit the weird sounds constitute a nuisance.

The ordinance followed by the suit has created a stir in Whittier, and on the part of horsemen it is feared more drastic legislation may be passed. Pending the appeal the ordinance will be inoperative.

ACTION DELAYED.
BITTER FIGHT OVER WILL.

Because neither side was ready when the case was called in Judge Rives's court yesterday, the attack of Mrs. Caroline F. Ford, on the will of her husband, Albert P. Ford, late president of the Merchants' Fire Dispatch, was continued until December 30.

Under the will of Ford, who was fatally shot by his wife, no provision was made for her. The shooting occurred April 27, 1911. Ford drew the will two days later and died the following day. He left an estate worth $20,000, naming H. J. Coates, now president of the Merchants' Fire Dispatch, executor.

Mrs. Ford was tried for the slaying of her husband and acquitted on the ground of temporary insanity. After that she supported herself by housework and later provision was made for her by the court. She now alleges Ford was incompetent to make a will, that he was under undue influence, and that the instrument he left was not properly executed. Her claim is for a half interest in the estate. The fight between the legal representatives, R. W. Kemp for the executor and John Steely for Mrs. Ford, promises to be bitter.

APPEALS TO COURT.
SEEKS WEALTHY UNCLE'S HELP

Mercedes Figueroa, who is charged with rioting at the time her father and others were sentenced in the Federal Court for having violated the neutrality laws, sought the permission of the Juvenile Court yesterday to go to Arizona to enlist her uncle, a wealthy stockman, in furnishing funds to defend herself and sixteen others against the charge in the Police Court, November 12.

The application was made by Mrs. Aurelia J. Corker, who is interested in Mercedes and the cause she represents. Mercedes is a ward of the court and cannot leave the county without an order. She alleges her uncle asked her to visit him, following a letter she wrote him in which he was implored to come to the aid of the alleged rioters.

The demonstration occurred at the Federal building and later at the County Jail, and Mercedes took an active part, according to witnesses, in denouncing the officials. The rioters will ask for separate trials.

FIGURING LAND VALUE.
BOYER HEIRS DISSATISFIED.

The claim of Sophia M. Boyer, that her land on Bellona road, which the county sought to condemn, is more valuable than the $2500 allowed her by referees appointed by the Board of Supervisors, is in the hands of Deputy District Attorney Joos and Attorney S. W. Odell, to adjust out of court. The strip desired extends from Bellona road to Walnut drive. The defendants are the heirs of Isaac N. Boyer.

The county wanted to have a road on both sides of the Pacific Electric line to Venice. The matter was before the Board of Supervisors in 1910. When the referees made their award Mrs. Boyer objected, asserting that the land was worth more than $8000. A hearing was set for Judge Bordwell's court yesterday, but could not be heard owing to a damage action then being tried.

BEQUEST IS VOID.
HEIRS ARE CHARITABLE.

A bequest of several thousand dollars to Throop Polytechnic School in the will of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hall is void under section 1313, on the ground that the bequest was made within thirty days prior to the death of Mrs. Hall.

The heirs, who filed a contest, stipulated in the Probate Court yesterday that the school should be given $1690.51, but inasmuch as the bequest was void, Judge Rives would not consent unless it was a gift. This was agreed to.

The sum originally intended was to found a scholarship. Mrs. Hall drew her will June 13, 1911, and died twelve days later.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

FORECLOSURE SUITS. Suits to foreclose on property given to secure two promissory notes of $30,000 and $10,000 were filed by the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company against Ora Buckley, Fielding J. Stilson and others yesterday. It is alleged in the complaints that the notes were signed by Ora Buckley May 17, 1910 and September 7, 1911, and indorsed by Fielding J. Stilson and Mary E. Stilson, and that they have not been paid.

LONG TERM. Twenty years at Folsom is the sentence imposed on Juan Lopez by Judge Finch yesterday for the murder of Frank S. Randolph at Castaic, July 1 last. Lopez was convicted by a jury of second degree homicide. The evidence showed that Randolph, a cattle buyer, was shot by Lopez on the Latour cattle ranch during an altercation.

LAND DAMAGES. When the City of Redondo Beach cut through Emerald and Guadalupe streets, two lots owned by Anna V. Galloway were fifteen feet above grade. She brought suit for $2500 damages, covering the cost of building a retaining wall. The action was heard by Judge Houser yesterday and he allowed the plaintiff $1100 damages.

ON THE BENCH. Judge E. P. Unangst of San Luis Obispo is sitting in Extra Sessions Two, and will assist the mill until it is time to return and attend his own court.

COURT'S CRITICISM. The evidence in the damage suit of Frank Montano against Paul Horn, growing out of an auto accident at Jefferson street and Grand avenue December 22 last, led Judge Wood to believe that Horn had exaggerated his injuries. He stated from the bench that it was the worst pumped up accident case he had ever heard, and found for Horn, Montano to recover the costs of the suit. Horn, it appeared, had given Montano $10 at the time the latter was struck. The court thought this was ample compensation.

Boyle Heights Poultry Fanciers Rush to Claim Broilers When Hen-Snatched Is Arrested.

James Bell was arraigned before Police Judge Chambers yesterday on a petty larceny complaint sworn to by Patrolman Cornwall. The latter arrested Bell earlier in the day on Mission road carrying a sack filled with chickens. The man was held under $100 bail for his trial this morning.

In the arrest of Bell the police think they have captured the mysterious chicken thief of Boyle Heights. For several months complaints have been received of hen roosts robbed. In several instances an auto was used to carry the broilers away.

After Bell had been apprehended half a dozen persons claimed some of the chickens in his sack. For half an hour Patrolman Cornwall was busy assorting the fowls and apportioning them among those who could prove their property.

War on Gambling.

With the hope of intimidating others from conducting gambling games the City Prosecutor's office preferred conspiracy charges yesterday against Robert Johnson and James Ritter, the alleged proprietors of the games raided in the Germain building Friday night.

Heretofore it has been the practice to charge such men with being the CONGESTION MUDDLE AROUSES COUNCILMEN.

ANOTHER round was given the San Pedro-street franchise discussion at yesterday's session of the City Council, when resolutions from the Municipal League, condemning any plan to grant a railroad franchise of any kind or to any one on San Pedro street, was read.

Councilman Topham moved that the Council call the attention of the Municipal League to its resolutions of January 13, last, in which it urged that the city build the road and grant franchises to the Pacific Electric for its use, and that the league be notified that while it has changed its attitude the Council has not changed its position.

"This Council should not be asked to change its mind whenever some organization decides to reverse itself," declared Topham.

Councilman Reed declared this would be highly discourteous to the Municipal League, and asked that the communication be referred to a committee for reply.

Councilman Betkouski declared present conditions must be changed as speedily as possible and that the Municipal League does not point out any adequate remedy. The use of Los Angeles street by the Pacific Electric, he said, would result in a congestion as bad as that on Main street, and the proposition to reroute the red cars through narrow streets and partially over steam lines is impracticable.

"We ought to grant that San Pedro-street franchise, and not be bluffed out by a lot of cranks," declared Betkouski. "It seems to me to be demagogism on the part of these people to try to block relief just because their theories are not accepted by this Council. Men come in here who never made a mark in the world, but who know just how everything ought to be run, and raise their hands in holy horror because we propose to do something for the relief of traffic conditions. If this subject ever gets to a vote of the people I believe they will overwhelmingly demand that the road shall go on San Pedro street."

Councilman Andrews supported the franchise proposition, declaring he is disgusted with delays and proposes to stand firm for the acceptance of the opportunity for traffic relief, regardless of demands by clubs or leagues. He paid particular respects to the Alembic Club, which has threatened a referendum should the franchise be sold.

"That Alembic Club is a crucible for the purpose of making Socialists," declared Andrews. "It is like Poe's raven, but instead of croaking 'Nevermore,' the croak of the Alembic Club is a wearisome repetition of 'Referendum, Referendum; Recall, Recall.' I believe the Council is too strong to be frightened by such noises."

The Municipal League resolutions were referred to the Legislative Committee.

The Oil Industry.

LOW PRICE FOR MIDWAY LAND.

Union Takes Over Hale-McLeod Holdings.

Obtain Option Before Value of Field is Known.

Prominent Geologist Takes Position in Mexico.

The Union has taken over 160 of the 320 acres held under option from the Hale-McLeod Company on section 34, 31-23. It is understood that the consideration was $200, which is now an extremely low price for land in this portion of the Midway district. However, the Union obtained its option several years ago, before the field had come into prominence. The Hale-McLeod Oil Company has also profited by the deal, as the holding was government land upon which a claim was filed.

At the time the Union made arrangements to work the property it had the choice either of taking an option, as was done, or of operating on a royalty basis.

On the remaining 160 acres the Union is drilling two wells, but the full transfer of the property has not been consummated, and probably will not be until the company brings in the wells.

On the 160 acres, which has been taken over, the Union has brought in two wells. One of these is a very large producer, the other is small. The latter came in first with a flow of about [illegible]00 barrels, and the former at the time it was brought in produced about 5000 barrels a day. Both wells are now shut in, while arrangements are being made to take care of the oil.

A pipe line has been constructed to the property, but before opening up the wells, the Union will wait until the Producers' Transportation Company finishes its new eight-inch line from Junction Station to Port Hartford. This line is being built very rapidly, and will, it is expected, be completed within a month. Connections have already been established between a number of the stations.

MUCH OIL SAND.

The Union Oil Company has cemented well No. 2, in La Habra Valley, preparatory to drilling through for production. Well No. 3 is now down 3233 feet and has had 217 feet of oil sand. No. 4 is also well into the sand at 3045 feet. The Bastanchury well, which has already passed through forty feet of oil formation is now down 4611 feet.

In the Santa Maria district, Newlove well No. 37 has fallen off in production to about 500 barrels per day. It is believed that the full flow of the well is being cut down by some obstruction, as no attempt has ever been made to clean out the hole. No. 21 well is still holding up to about 1000 barrels a day.

STOCKHOLDERS WILL MEET.

A stockholders' meeting of the Dome Oil Company and the Pinal Oil Company has been called for October 12 to vote on the voluntary dissolution of the companies. The Pinal Oil Company will hold its meeting at 10 a.m. and the Dome at 11. As previously reported, these companies have sold all their holdings to a new corporation called the Pinal-Dome Oil Company, which has been organized under the laws of California with a capitalization of $4,000,000, the par value of the stock being $1.

This new company is to pay for the property formerly owned by the old companies with 3,600,000 shares, fully paid. This leaves 400,000 shares in the treasury.

The officers of the new Pinal-Dome Oil Company are as follows: President and manager, J. F. Goodwin of Santa Maria, vice-president, J. W. Atkinson of San Francisco; secretary, G. P. Merritt; treasurer, Paul O. Tietzen of Santa Maria. Other directors are M. Fleischer of San Francisco, E. W. Clark of San Luis Obispo and Fritz Werner of Los Angeles.

Takes Position in Mexico.

COALINGA (Cal.) Sept. 28.—Dale Slusher, geologist for the K. T. and O., and assistant manager for the company in the Taft field, returned this morning from Taft and Los Angeles, where he went to prepare for his departure to Mexico, where he has accepted a position as field manager for the Oil Fields of Mexico Company, an English corporation.

About two weeks ago Percy Furber and Arthur Payne, of the Mexican company, toured the California oil fields and visited Coalinga. It was upon their visit here that they engaged the services of Slusher as their field manager.

The property of the company is located at Furbero, near Papantla, in the State of Vera Cruz, and covers a large acreage. Three wells are producing and the company expects to start immediately on new development work. The wells yield a twenty-seven gravity refining oil, which is shipped to the coast. From there it is sent to the Pearce refineries in tank steamers. The company owns its own pipe line and narrow-gauge railroad from the property to Tuxpam, the seaport, where the oil is transferred to tank steamers.

Slusher will be accompanied by one drilling crew which will be put to work immediately upon its arrival. In a short time four or five other crews from the California fields will be taken down to work on new operations.

Slusher is well known in Coalinga, as well as other fields in the State. He is a graduate of the '07 class of mining engineers and geologists of Stanford University and for five years has been in the employ of the K. T. and O. Company.

LARGE PRODUCER.

Well No. 7 of the K. T. and O. section 35, 19-15, was brought in a gusher yesterday, the oil flowing at the rate of 1000 barrels a day. The well was finished several days ago and put on the pump, but yesterday it started flowing, and the production is steadily increasing. Well No. 5, on the same section, came in as a gusher last week. Its production is now about 1200 barrels daily. The oil is twenty-two-gravity. Both wells were under control from the moment they started flowing.

LIONS IN THE PATH

BY NEETA MARQUIS.

Some of our residents do not have the sense of "belonging" with us. And they are consequently lacking in a sense of responsibility in the things which make for our civic weal or woe. They do not even think about such things unless they are forced upon their attention in the way of personal inconvenience or discomfort.

This is one of the difficulties in the way of social charity work. Many a man asked to contribute to the support of the Associated Charities here excuses himself on the plea that he contributes to his own association "back home," forgetful of all the local benefits by which he prospers.

Another thing which militates against the community mind is the restless, unsettled state of our western society. We have not yet outgrown pioneer conditions. An atmosphere of impermanency pervades much ob oth business and social life. Business firms frequently change names and locations. Men drift experimentally out of one business and into another. Families live in a new-built home just long enough to make an advantageous sale, when they proceed to build another and re-adjust themselves to altered surroundings. It is sometimes said that there is nothing in Los Angeles not on the market.

Around the few stationary persons, families, and institutions, there swirls an endless tide of restless-footed, almost nomadic, humanity. The ministers in the pulpits say they practically preach to a procession. The faces one meets on the street are kaleidoscopic in their constant changefulness.

All this throws difficulties in the way of the Associated Charities, which requires steady and unfluctuating support in order to minister effectively to the very needs these restless conditions help to create.

Another lion in the path is the enormous amount of relief work demanded of this organization, whereas its primary purpose is to facilitate the activities of the various specific benevolences co-operating with it, by means of its position as central bureau of information. In other words, the Associated Charities, which is designed as a relief-finding institution, is pushed into the position of a relief-giving institution.

This is largely because of the far fame of Los Angeles as a health resort. The lame, the halt, the blind, and particularly the tubercular, swarm here in vast numbers, apparently convinced that merely to breathe the air of Southern California will have all the potence of a magic draught. Following the will-o'-the-wisp of their own restless impulses, or directed to come by some conscienceless physician in their eastern homes, they often arrive without money to sustain them a week, and fall back inevitably upon the Associated Charities, not only for the medicaments the'r condition demands, but for the common necessities of life.

This tuberculosis situation alone presents an enormous problem. Francis H. McLean, field secretary for the National Associated Charities, says that for years the eyes of the associations in the eastern and middle-western cities have been drawn to our local association by reason of the heavy correspondence carried on over tubercular cases, in particular. It is enough work for one person today to take care of the local correspondence without turning his hand to another thing connected with the office.

These tubercular cases are often pitiful in the extreme. The Barlow sanatorium accepts no case it does not diagnose as curable, while the County Hospital is not open to non-residents.

The Associated Charities has to find private places for the sufferers. Often it puts two tubercular men in a little tent house erected for their use in some open, wind-cleansed spot, where together they can fight out the issue with their common foe.

For the men who are not ill, but who have arrived penniless, rich only in the belief that boundless opportunities for work are open here, the association industrial home forms a temporary refuge, and a stepping-stone to permanent employment.

Many of these cheerful travelers come to the headquarters on Main street direct from the depot, throwing themselves like children upon the bounty of the institution. Whole families arrive thus, having paid out their last cent for the shipment of furniture and baggage. The association has to redeem the baggage, rent a house, furnish a bill of groceries, and find the man a job. But once that constructive work is done, the family, probably worthy in every way, becomes self-sustaining, and of use in the community.

A specific case, illustrating the need of resourcefulness on the part of the Associated Charities' workers, is of a man who had been a wealthy cotton grower, but who had lost everything. He, his wife, and ten—count them—ten children arrived in the city one afternoon. They had even lost their bill of lading. One child had whooping cough. Another had some other child's disease. The association rented a house for them and took them to it. They borrowed a mattress, stove, kettle, and a few other necessaries in the neighborhood for that night, and the next morning another child was born. They secured work for the man, and got the family on its feet.

The people of Los Angeles are slow to realize that this work is philanthropic, not only on the side of the stranger. It is the means of protecting the smug and satisfied citizen himself, even as he criticizes the work, from countless individual pleas for aid which he has no way to prove either worthy or unworthy, even though he has the disposition to do so.

TRIAL TAKES LONG TIME.

Man Purporting to Be an Officer Takes Horse Out and Fails to Come Back.

Central Station detectives were asked yesterday by W. H. Reed, No. 1013 Maple avenue, to catch a horse thief.

A man wearing a star, now thought to have been a tin one, answered Reed's advertisement that he had a brown mare to sell by calling at his house. He said he was a deputy sheriff "from a northern county." His permission to try the animal was granted. The trial is evidently still under way, for Reed says that the alleged officer has not yet returned.

Mrs. C. B. Stewart, No. 3152 San Marino street, thinks the thief who forced an entrance into her home during her absence showed a very "peevish" disposition when he cut into shreds her purse when he found no money in it. The same man is thought to have tried to rob a residence at No. 917 Mariposa street, but was frightened away.

During the absence of Marie Clancy from her room, No. 649½ South Hill street, a sneak thief entered and stole a gold bracelet and $10 in currency.

IN THE WRONG COLOR.

Veteran Patrolman Shows Up in Blue Instead of Olive Green—Mixed on Inspection Date.

Henry Clay Walker, the second oldest member of the police force in point of continuous service, who wears patrolman's shield No. 2, "got mixed on his dates" yesterday, and appeared at the Central tSation attired in a new blue uniform. When informed by Capt. Murray that the semi-annual inspection will not take place until today, Walker was given sufficient time to return home and done his olive green.

Capt. Lehnhausen, commanding Boyle Heights division, recently appointed inspector of the police department in addition to his duties as drillmaster, said yesterday that he has arranged for the inspection of the officers of the several divisions today as follows:

Central and Hollywood, in the assembly-room at Central Station 1 p.m.

University division, at University Station at 4 p.m.

The traffic squad, which will include the mounted squad and the motorcycle squad, will be inspected tomorrow morning on Hill street between First and Second streets.

Capt. Lehnhausen said yesterday that the inspection will be thorough. The personal appearance, condition of clothing and equipment will be closely scrutinized.

APPARENTLY A LIVE ONE.

Swindler of a Washington Bank Believed to Be Confidence Man Who Jumped Bail Here.

Detectives Boyd and Jones, working out of Central Station, who assisted "Teddy" Adams, then head of the identification bureau at headquarters, in proving that the body of a man found floating in the San Pedro harbor about a year ago was not the remains of Clarence D. ("Con") Caddigan, check operator and confidence man, said yesterday that they are convinced the man under arrest in Washington, known there as C. B. Morse, alias A. C., alias C. D. Morse, is the one wanted here to answer to several felony complaints.

According to a circular received from Maj. Sylvester, head of the Washington police department, Caddigan fleeced a bank and a real estate firm out of $9800. He used a draft apparently drawn by the United States Bank at Aberdeen, dated July 13, 1912, upon the First National Bank of Seattle.

Boyd and Jones said yesterday that it was about the time that Caddigan got the money from the Washington bank that Mrs. Caddigan left this city. How Caddigan got out of Los Angeles after jumping his bail is not known to the local police authorities. Neither have they identified the body claimed by Mrs. Caddigan as that of her husband.

AS THE STING OF A VIPER.

Pseudo Friend From Home Town Turns Ingrate by Taking a Pin and a Watch.

Once upon a time James McMahon, a guest at the Belmont Hotel, thought that popular ballad, "Gee, but ain't it good to meet a friend from your home town," was about the prettiest piece of sentimentality ever written or sung.

But it's different now, according to a story he related to Central Station detectives yesterday. It's different because McMahon met that "friend," took him to his hotel, and during the night the "friend" from the "home town" decamped with his diamond stick pin valued at $175 and a gold watch and chain valued at $100.

McMahon told the detectives he was so overjoyed at meeting an acquaintance of his schoolboy days that he neglected to ask his name. For that reason McMahon was only able to give the detectives a description.

THE MAYOR'S DILEMMA.

Appeals to Council When His Appointee Fails to Conform to Civil Service Requirements.

Will the Civil Service Commission, always keen to add to the recruits who must submit to its examinations before they can hold city jobs, recede from its position sufficiently to exempt from its provisions the position of chief of the Bureau of Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, in order to "save the face" of the Mayor?

The Mayor has asked the Council to request the commission to make this exception, and it did so yesterday, with Councilman Reed strongly dissenting.

Trouble over filling this position has developed ever since the ordinance was adopted creating the post and taking the Bureau of Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph away from the fire department.

Paul Ost was favorably considered by some of the Councilmen, and especially by Councilman Reed. But the Mayor made another appointment. The Council took this under consideration for a week or more and refused its approval. Then the Mayor declared he would make no further appointment until the Council could agree upon a candidate who would be acceptable.

Finally, Frank O'Neill, a local electrician, was appointed and approved. Immediately thereafter the Civil Service Commission announced that it would hold an examination for candidates for the position. This examination was held last week, but O'Neil failed to make application.

Unless an exemption of the position can be secured from the Civil Service Commission, O'Neill's emergency appointment cannot avail against the certified list of the commission.

NO PROOFS.

An Indian died near San Jacinto who was 110 years old and who was considered the sage of his tribe. He must have known too much to talk about it.

A PLEASANT HABIT.

A woman won the Republican nomination for State School Superintendent in Washington. This is a becoming habit into which all equal suffrage States seem to fall.

HIS INSPIRATION.

A high school teacher in Chicago says that the American girl is the poorest cook in the world. Possibly his spite has been aroused by this unseemly agitation to tax innocent bachelors.

AN OBSERVATION.

A baseball astronomer taking his bearings among the diamond luminaries would probably come to the conclusion that Murphy of the Chicago Nationals is no longer willing to take a chance.

MONOTONOUS.

Bless us, if the Federals in Mexico have not located Orozco again! That irascible rebel seems to keep about as still as a California flea and to be as free from malice as a New Jersey mosquito.

WILL BEAR WATCHING.

Los Angeles boosters made an interesting visit to Long Beach and were royally treated down there. Let the Long Beach boosters come to Los Angeles and you bet this city will take in its infant industries at night.

A WONDER CITY.

It is now announced that the Llewellyn Iron Works will move to the industrial city on the Domingues ranch. This new town of Torrance is something to astonish. It is like Los Angeles, however, to establish a suburb of ten thousand persons and to locate ten million dollars in enterprises there within a period of six months.

AIRY, FAIRY LILIAN.

Lily Langtry finds men uninteresting and monotonous because they dress too somberly and alike. She wants them to wear pink trousers and green hats in order that one may tell them apart. Lilian is correct in assuming that, if any man in America dressed like this, he could easily be distinguished from his fellows and his address would be the nearest asylum.

VIVISECTION.

It is not, as suggested by Congressman Fairchild, that Roosevelt is inconsistent and untruthful that marks him as unfit for a third term, nor is it his fine appreciation of a Standard Oil campaign fund. No, it took the bluntness and candor of Lord Cranworth of British East Africa to put the kibosh on the man with the teeth. "The colonel," he says, "is too talkative and too large to successfully track the bongo." After this, what more could possibly be said?

AFTER RIGHTEOUSNESS—HUH!

The publication of the Roosevelt letters to the late Mr. Harriman has placed him irrevocably among the members of the Ananias Club and illustrated the proverb that "liars should have good memories." The colonel has for some time been seeking to impress upon his followers that what he most desires is "righteousness." He is determined to have it, though it shall compel him to require Bill Flinn to lead in prayer and Tim Woodruff to discard his speckled vest, and Hiram W. to discontinue the use of cuss words, and Elsie Gates to perform the grand kowtow of adoration three times a day before the pawnbroker.

It may not be denied that a great many young Republicans are intoxicated with Roosevelt. They have the Bull Moose jimjams. They see snakes wearing spectacles and jack rabbits arrayed in scarlet pajamas. They will get over it after election, but the object of their temporary adoration never will. He takes himself seriously, believes in himself utterly, and no force known to nature can disturb his good opinion of himself.

What he will do when the election returns shall be received in November may be easily predicted. He will probably say with Louis XIV when he lost a battle—"Has God then forgotten all that I have done for him?"

AN ACADEMIC CUSS.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson is described by an irreverent Tammany politician as an "academic cuss" who lived a tolerably virtuous life in which—

"Consideration like an angel came,
And whipp'd the offending Adam out of him;
Leaving his body as a Paradise,
To envelop and contain celestial spirits."

Suddenly he exclaimed with Colton, "To sentence a man of true genius to the drudgery of a school is to put a race horse in a mill." He erupted into practical politics and leaped into the Governorship of New Jersey. Before he was beguiled into eating the rattleweed of ambition he essayed the calm delights of authorship. In an essay which he was incautious enough to publish he said that Italians, and Hungarians, and Austrians, and Greeks, and Poles are far inferior to Chinamen. That statement is plaguing him now in the Dago wards of New York City and Chicago.

The Governor lacks the versatility of the three-time Democratic candidate. He cannot emulate Muley Al Hassan Bryan, who could turn seven flip-flops and end the performance by jumping down his own throat. Wilson does not, however, commit the indiscretion of taking back what he said about the Dagoes. He is maintaining a tumultuous silence on the subject. He is like the man who was arraigned in court for horse stealing. "If it please Your Honor," said he, "I don't wish to plead either guilty or not guilty. I simply want to let this matter drop."

The Governor's party friends are not enthusiastic concerning him. They accept him, however, because they believe him to be a liberating Moses who will lead the wilderness-wandering Democracy into a Canaan of Federal office holding. They forget that when the Israelites of old, after forty years of wandering and waiting, finally entered the Promised Land, Moses in the meantime had "passed in his checks," as Roosevelt would say in his slumgullion patois.

PRACTICAL DREAMERS.

Every dream is capable of fulfillment; where there is a way in there is a way out; there is a possible foundation for every air castle. This world is a prosaic, dry-as-dust, bread-and-butter prison house only to those who never dream dreams, never seek the way out, never build castles in Spain. All practical men have their visions, all great business managers have built air castles; with these the vision has been a suggestion and the air castle an inspiration. The failures are those who dream dreams that are only dreams, who build airy structures and allow them to blow away like soap bubbles, rainbow-hued—hollow—useless. The sick and despondent are those who have never founded any brave little colonies of dreams, never graduated as architects in air-castle land.

We have been so accustomed to separate the dreamers from the doers—as though they were two distinct classes like the goats and the sheep—that we have run into the error of confounding success with the material side of things. We are wrong. Not so do individuals or communities or nations grow up and prosper.

Why are the Americans today the most successful business people on the face of the earth? Because they are the most mathematical and scientific? Not at all. The French are more scientific, the British are more mathematical. Because they are thrifty and painstaking? But the Chinaman is more thrifty, the child of Nippon takes far more pains. Because then they have an aptitude for plodding perseverance? So have the Germans—and in a more marked degree.

No; the Americans have risen to a place of first importance among the peoples of the world because they are a nation of practical dreamers. When we build air castles we have an eye on the foundation.

Rousseau and Mirabeau dreamt of an ideal republic, free from all restraint and convention; France turned the vision into a ghastly nightmare, Robespierre made himself king of the castle, the only free institution was the guillotine; "liberty OR death" became distorted into liberty AND death. Might was the first instrument to the hand of man, but it failed; it was too practical. Socialism is a dream without a foundation in the last sleep from which there is no awaking.

Washington dreamt of an ideal republic in which every man should have an equal chance, where the only privilege should be that of superior effort and ability. America turned the vision into a practical working republic founded on a sensible charter of constitutional rights. Dreaming fantastic dreams brought disaster to the plans of De Lesseps; dreaming practical ones has given us the American Panama Canal.

The solid stone castles built by the nobles of Elizabethan England have crumbled into wasted ruins; the air castles woven from the imagination of a common play-actor—one, William Shakespeare—will live to delight unborn generations after the close of this twentieth century. "Hamlet" has a more solid foundation than the Tower of London.

Those who dream true dreams, noble dreams, practical dreams may not always themselves like to see the awakening. The best dreams are slow in their fulfillment. President Taft may not live to see his grand vision of universal peace become an accomplished fact; but since it is a noble, a worthy, a practical dream, that it will some day become a reality is as certain as the truths of Christianity itself.

Sometimes the most lasting success starts from material failure, sometimes material success ends in spiritual decay. Out of Nazareth once came a humble preacher, the son of a carpenter, the associate of poor fishermen, the friend of publicans and sinners. And he dreamed a dream so glorious that none but Divinity dared have entertained it, none but Divinity dared have pitted it against the material might of the Roman empire. In life his dream brought him only scorn and derision, the half-hearted support of twelve illiterate disciples, the opposition of the great Pharisee oligarchy in Jerusalem. Before his mission seemed hardly started he was condemned to a felon's death . . . while the imperial Caesars tightened their grasp on the kingdoms of the world.

The Roman empire has passed away. But the dream—it persists.

The Question's His!

THE EAGLE.

[From The Times, January 8, 1892.]

[Pending the approach of the occasion for elevating to its rocky perch on the top of the Times Building a great gilt eagle, with a seven-and-a-half-foot spread of wing, The Times reproduces James G. Percival's grand poem, entitled "The Eagle," than which the English language holds few finer things. This poem was first published, we believe, in 1827. Percival was born in Connecticut and died in Wisconsin. He was a poet of renown and a scholar of distinction, but if he had never written another line save his grand apostrophe to the typical bird of Freedom, he would deserve immortality.—Ed. Times.]

I.

Bird of the broad and sweeping wing,
Thy home is high in heaven,
Where wide the storms their banners fling,
And the tempest clouds are driven;
Thy throne is on the mountain top,
Thy field the boundless air;
And hoary peaks that proudly prop
The skies, thy dwellings are.

II.

Thou art perch'd aloft on the beetling crag
And the waves are white below,
And on, with a haste that can not lag,
They rush in an endless flow;
Again thou hast plumed thy wing for flight
To lands beyond the sea,
And away, like a spirit wreath'd in light,
Thou hurriest, wild and free.

III.

Lord of the boundless realm of air!
In thy imperial name
The hearts of the bold and ardent dare
The dangerous path of fame.
Beneath the shade of thy golden wings
The Roman legions bore
From the river of Egypt's cloudy springs
Their pride to the polar shore.

IV.

For thee they fought, for thee they fell,
And their oath on thee was laid;
To thee the clarions rais'd their swell,
And the dying warrior pray'd.
Thou wert, through an age of death and fears,
The image of pride and power,
Till the gather'd rage of a thousand years
Burst forth in one awful hour.

V.

And then, a deluge of wrath, it came,
And the nations shook with dread;
And it swept the earth till its fields were flame
And piled with the mingled dead.
Kings were rolled in the wasteful flood
With the low and crouching slave,
And together lay in a shroud of blood
The coward and the brave.

VI.

And where was then thy fearless flight?
"O'er the dark, mysterious sea.
To the land that caught the setting light,
The cradle of Liberty.
There on the silent and lonely shore,
For ages I watch'd alone,
And the world in its darkness ask'd no more
Where the glorious bird had flown.

VII.

"But then came a bold and hardy few,
And they breasted the unknown wave;
I saw from afar the wandering crew,
And I knew they were high and brave.
I wheel'd around the welcome bark
As it sought the desolate shore,
And up to heaven, like a joyous lark,
My quivering pinions bore.

VIII.

"And now that bold and hardy few
Are a nation wide and strong;
And danger and doubt I have led them through,
And they worship me in song;
And over their bright and glancing arms,
On field, and lake, and sea,
With an eye that fires and a spell that charms
I guide them to victory."

October 1, 1912—The Eagle, unscathed, once more holds his rocky perch on a turret of the New Times Building. It is well.

AN IMPUDENT DEMAND.

The miners in the employ of the copper companies at Ely, Nev., are out on a strike. They demanded 50 cents per diem more wages. The companies conceded this so long as the price of copper shall remain above 16 cents. Then the miners demanded that the union should be "recognized," meaning thereby that the companies should refuse employment to non-union miners, and that the officers of the unions should designate who should be employed by the companies. The companies would not stand for the last proposition. They conceded everything else, but would not consent that the walking delegates should select who should be employed. The indescribable impudence of the last demand is beyond comment.

Congress will be consulted in regard to conditions in Mexico and if intervention is to follow President Taft will have the backing of the constitutional authority to act. It is worth something to have a Chief Executive who observes the limitations of the Constitution.

Rather ungenerous for Woodrow Wilson to take a fall out of Tammany. He was glad enough to get the support of the organization at the Baltimore convention. But Wilson is making a grand-stand play against the bosses, and he must do many unpleasant things.

UNCLE WALT.

The Post Philosopher.

Oh, the sport awakes as the morning breaks, with a head like a load of brick; and his eyes are red in his aching head, and his poor old stomach's sick. His mouth is furred and he thinks some bird—a buzzard—has nested there; his throat is dry and he thinks he'll die, and there's free lunch in his hair. He notes with dread that he went to bed attired in his shoes and hat; and he sees a bear on his bedroom chair—but it's only the thomas cat. He groans and sighs as he tries to rise from his couch of misery. "This lets me out from the festal rout—it's never again," says he. To the joint he slinks for some saving drinks, the hair of the dog, you know; a few good jerks for his weakened works—he'll quit when the tremors go. But a slug of gin, when it's safe within, calls loud for a running mate; and the poor old sport takes another snort, and hits up the same old gait. And the sport awakes when the morning breaks as sick as a glandered horse; his eyes are red in his swollen head, his comrade is R. E. Morse. To fill your vat with the suds like that, to sleep in your hat and shoes: Do you call that fun, Oh, you sporty one, just getting the taste for booze?

AVALON DREAMS.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

Night.

Babette stands upon the body of a swordfish with dainty balance. Fishermen have cut off the sword, taking half the head with their trophy, and they have beheaded the tail as well. Dancing gleefully upon the dismembered pig Babette pretends not to notice the brutal delinquencies. I wince and turn to watch the moon swim from the misty sea and lift itself in a dull red chariot over the bay.

Babette calls, but I am asking myself a question and I do not answer the pretty challenge.

Now I put my question silently to the universe, why did Keats die so young? The question transposes itself with happy madness—Why do I always recall Keats and Lanier more purely than the rest and with a rarer affection of thought whenever I am newly drawn under the spell of some adorable loveliness?

Babette springs from the carcass of the day's best catch to swing by the huge steelyards with which its weight was taken. Then she pounces upon the cart in which the yellowtail and button fish were pulled over the dock to the scales and tries to startle me by rattling it down the pier. When I am not moved she lowers herself to the nearest float and trolls one wee slipper into the sea to tempt a shark or a seal. Foolish Babette not to know the seals are sleeping in their rocks three good miles to the east, and that the sharks are afraid of the lights.

(Did Keats really salt his throat with red pepper in order to make his claret seem colder and was Lanier actually compelled to abandon his beloved violin because he swooned with ecstacy when he played?)

"Geco ahoy," calls Babette as McAfee's Lady of the Sea swings bravely around the point and heads blithely our way. Her passengers are laughing and calling aloud in their excitement as its searchlight falls fantastically upon the flying fish leaping in fright before her swift prow. They make a trail of iridescence as they leave the water and another splash of flame follows their fall. I have seen witchery like that in dream pictures and I think it could be done in murals if only all of the palace were as right. Now the Geco lands at Babette's lighter and I go down to share the enthusiasm of its fares over their first night fishing without net and without hook.

Thus the evening passes for me.

And Babette? Pardon my rudeness. You should have been introduced before. Babette is Slavonian and six—a fisherman's daughter, I take it, and likewise a daughter of the sea.

When I go to my room the glory of the island lies upon my pillow—a white rose with slender stem and perfect foliage. Babette has robbed the garden of Bosch of its greatest treasure and at six one is not to be punished for love and its sacrifice. For Keats then and for Lanier I place my rose where the moon's light may softly lave it—may they still the lyre and hush the lute long enough to understand.

Day at Avalon.

This time there shall be no deception. Know then that the Lady is a truly princess and I have called her Lady only for an identity of charm which discloses nothing. Straight she walked from the noontime steamer to the end of the crescent waterfront and there she plucked a red nasturtium which was surely a sign to me.

"You have found one of the only two flowers on the island," I said, daring our Lady's high displeasure. She chose another—disdain, then silence.

"And you would lead me to the other," she mockingly impugned.

"Not so," I quickly disclaimed. "It is a secret."

Swift as the motion of beauty the Lady was my friend. "I know," she nodded gravely. "It is the Lady Gay. My gardener is always mysterious about that." I clapped my hands in surprised delight. Here indeed was a person of quality to be friends with the queen of all the roses, though yet a climber. For the climbing Testout and the stately Gainsborough are not so lovely as the Lady Gay.

"Who knows," I thought, "where a friendship thus begun may lead." "To deep water," I hear your mocking answer. Not so. It was to the shallow water where there is the slightest ripple of a tide that Charley Fletcher rowed us in his glass-bottom boat the better to see the wonder of the ocean, the marine garden. Still there is no knowing how we might have loved rather than quarreled had it not been for the sea cucumber and the jellyfish.

Charley Fletcher started it as a sort of seagod, giving us a doctrine of free will to choose between the two as the lowest order of animal life.

"I would rather be a jellyfish," I said with conviction.

"And live but for a week and fly to pieces at a touch," supplemented the Lady with scorn, "while, as a cucumber, I would lie in my cool sea cove a hundred times as long."

"But I would have the freedom of the waves," I defended, "and go flashing my colors in gladness as I crested the running tides. When I passed it would be to lie upon white sands looking the sun in the face. I would have lost the sea and have gained the earth and the stars instead."

"But I would live the longest" the Lady repeated with a persistence worthy of a better argument, and she could not see how the cucumber's one path to joy lay in the frail chance that a Japanese fisherman might lift it from the sea to be cured by sun and wind and to then be sold as a rare delicacy in China where, in the old days, it might have been food for the Emperor's bride and so perchance have transmuted into the blood of a reigning prince.

Now this is no longer within happening, for the republic is come, and besides I could not hint at all this to the Lady, for we keep some of our vagaries apart from a lady who is only 12 that the illusion may be all of her own making when she dreams her dream.

Stand with me therefore on the round, brown pebbles and we will flutter a white kerchief as our lady's boat fades in the mists of Nevermore.

BORINGS.

[Judge's Library:] A short pocket maketh a short temper.

Some gossip is too good to be true.

A man is not necessarily a philanderer who spends his time seeking rare jades.

The trouble with platonic love is that there is more play about it than tonic.

Be cautious in trying to castigate an enemy by mail. Just lick the stamp and let it go at that.

An old proverb tells us that a good surgeon must have an eagle's eye, a lion's heart and a lady's hand. Still, if he lacks these he can generally make both ends meet on a millionaire's leg and his own bill.

Oh, mercy me, see what beautiful bubbles Col. Roosevelt is blowing!

If side-whiskers are to become the thing in Los Angeles, will side-combs be used?

One of the features of the early State elections this year is that everybody is satisfied that the figures spell success for their organization. This is one of the peculiarities of politics.

The Rooseveltites in California declare that a regular Republican must be a Bull Mooser. This is equivalent to saying that, if a man wants to join the Odd Fellows, he must join the Elks.

Gov. Wilson says he does not like to see so many goods in this country marked "made in Germany." But if the free-trade notions of his party are crystallized into law he will see more of them.

Rumors of a great war between the powers are again in the air and the features of preparedness are more in evidence than in the ordinary war scare. If the trouble comes, look out for the partitioning of Persia among the other powers.

The Supreme Court of California has been appealed to in order that the friends of President Taft may have an opportunity of voting for electors pledged to his success. What must be thought of a disreputable political machine that seeks to deprive the majority of the people of the right of suffrage?

The candidates for office are working overtime trying to attend all of the picnics, family gatherings, meetings of State societies, etc. Politics is a strenuous game, and we should imagine that the aspirants for a job who profess to be working for the people would let the people do it without any suggestions from them.

The statement of Perry W. Weidner that 85 per cent. of charity funds is eaten up in salaries hits the nail exactly on the head. The way in which money intended for charitable uses is eaten up by those who charge for handling it is nothing less than a crime. It is so in Los Angeles, it is so in many other cities.

FLOOD TIDE.

God works His changes so sometimes,
'twixt noon and noon,
Not always through the weary length of days, of moon on moon,
But with a silent tide that floods the bays
And winding inlets, even to the river's mouth,
Submerges landmarks of an hour ago,
and lays

The Play.

CARTER, WIZ, AT PANTAGES.

DOES WITH BIG THINGS WHAT MALINI DID WITH LITTLE.

Cook and Stevens, a Monologue Duo, Who Pull a Little Variety in an Old and Worn Line—Programmes at Tally's New Broadway and Century Theaters.

Carter, at Pantages, does with big things what Malini, the Alexandria's kept magician, did with little things. Malini could make impossibilities possible when the impossibilities were small, and Carter seems possessed of the same talent as far as big things are concerned.

Edna Hibbard,
Of "Officer 666," at the Mason Opera-house next week.

time, down close to the footlights and in the full light, is perfectly impossible. You are interested in seeing him do it because you know it can't be done.

If you want humor, or little matters, you might ask Carter how he gets a perfectly good and lively guinea pig into a beer bottle, with the only release for the little animal in the careful shattering of the bottle—also close down, and right before your eyes.

"The Lion's Bride" is intended to thrill, and it does puzzle, though the thrill is somewhat to the red fire. There is considerable "Aida" music, a large and alluring quantity of false whiskers, a roaring and rampant lion, a poor young lady who doesn't wish to be thrown to the lion, a dreadful tragedy when she is thrown to the king of beasts and a fake young man in a lion's skin who wouldn't harm the lady at all, after all.

Better, for me, were Cook and Stevens, who get a bit of variety on the eternal and interminable monologue duo by making them a coon and a heathen Chinee. Some of their stuff was really very good.

Helen Schiller and Olive Hulbert, San Diego girls, I believe, though programmed from Los Angeles, are clever enough to have California proud to send them forth into her stage world. They call themselves "The Duo de Luxe on the Violin." And the title is not inappropriate.

Fred Zobedie, "refined athlete and equilibrist," as the announcement says, is all of that. He is really a genius in his line.

Miss Maybelle Fisher, lyric soprano, has a fair voice, and is an entertaining singer of popular and classical songs.

News pictures conclude the programme.

Gena Bella Hickok, "the littlest girl with the biggest voice," received the greatest ovation last night at Tally's New Broadway that has ever before been extended to any singer at this theater. Possessed of an unusual voice and a charming stage presence, her rendition of the "Hero Song" from "The Chocolate Soldier" was equal to any we have heard elsewhere. She undoubtedly won the hearts of the audience last night.

The pictures were very good, a Biograph with the little Biograph girl in the leading role being the most enjoyable. William Jaimison, who seems to have created a good impression among Tally's patrons, has only one song this change, but it's just out and better than the average popular song.

"As You Like It," a comedy by one William Shakespeare, is advertised for next week. Three full reels in the production and produced by the Biograph Company, with Rose Coghlan as Rosalind, it looks like a feature that will tax the capacity of Tally's New Broadway.

A packed house greeted A. H. Hallet and company and his associated players at the Century Theater last evening, and twelve curtain calls were accorded them in their excellent one-act playlet entitled "A Modern Socialist."

Eight big variety acts constitute the bill. Princess Indeta and her Hawaiian serenaders have a very pleasing and interesting number. The Princess sings in a mezzo soprano voice, which she uses to good advantage. The singing of the trio of "Aloha" with special scenic and electrical effects deserves special mention.

Fenner and Fox are two musical-comedy people, who have a line of dainty songs and dances that come in for an abundance of applause.

Greno and Platt, jugglers of the eccentric type, waste no time during the fourteen minutes that they are on the stage in displaying their ability as clever comedians.

Dunlap Brothers present an interesting musical novelty. One of them possesses the voice of a human canary, while the other acts as his accompanist. The latter renders an excellent baritone solo.

Miss Frances Archer is a quick-change artist. Miss Archer is a clever little woman and made a great hit with last evening's audience. The Animated Weekly and the Century Theater challenge orchestra complete an all-round excellent programme.

METHODISTS IN CONFERENCE.

WELCOMED WITH OPEN ARMS BY LONG BEACH FOLK.

First Business Session Will Be Held This Morning—Unusually Large Number of Applicants for the Ministry—Laymen Expected to Lend Spice to the Gathering.

Methodist ministers and their wives in great numbers arrived in Long Beach yesterday to attend the annual conference, which will be organized in the First Methodist Church this morning.

Last night the bishop's reception was held in the Hotel Virginia. Bishop Shepard and the visiting ministers and their wives being the guests of the occasion. The Reception Committee consisted of the members of the official boards of the churches, together with their wives and the presidents of the various auxiliary societies. The Municipal Band gave a concert in the lobby of the hotel while the guests assembled. C. J. Walker, chairman of the evening, introduced President Bonar of the City Council, who delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city. Rev. H. K. Booth welcomed the visitors on behalf of churches of other denominations. Stephen Townsend spoke for the Sunday-schools and Dr. H. I. Rasmus for the Methodist churches. Bishop Shepard responded for the conference and Rev. Will A. Knighten for the ministers and their wives.

The board of examiners of the conference met yesterday and received the applications of twenty men for admission to the conference on trial, this being an unusually large number.

The first session of the conference will be held this morning at 9 o'clock, opening with a celebration of the Lord's supper by Bishop Shepard, after which the body will be formally organized and the memorial service held for the ministers and ministers' wives who died during the past year. At 2:30 o'clock the anniversary of the Epworth League will be held and at 4 o'clock the Rev. T. S. Uren will preach a sermon marking his semi-centennial in the ministry. This evening the board of home missions and church extension will hold its anniversary, when an address will be delivered by Rev. C. M. Boswell, corresponding secretary.

In connection with the conference, the Lay Association will hold its annual meeting on Friday in the First Presbyterian Church. There is usually "something doing" in the lay meeting, and more or less interest centers in the three committees which will be appointed at the opening. They are the committees on credentials, resolutions and nominations. The forenoon will be devoted to hearing reports from the delegates to the last general conference, and in the afternoon Bishop Shepard will deliver an address. Benjamin F. Pearson of this city will speak on "The Church and Industrial Classes," and Hon. J. J. Gosper on "Christian Politeness."

I CURE PILES

Fistula and all Painful Conditions of the Rectum

WITHOUT AN OPERATION

BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD.

With my method an operation is absolutely unnecessary, for I dissolve the pile tumors without pain, inconvenience or loss of time. I also cure without operation Fistula, Fissure, Ulcer, Hemorrhage and Prolapsus. My dissolvent treatment is absolutely my own, and no other physician is using it. Call at my office and I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment. I treat no diseases except those of the Rectum and Bowels.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE every case I treat.

My Dear Dr. White: I wish to express to you again my heartfelt appreciation for what you have done for me. After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids YOU HAVE CURED ME COMPLETELY, and during the treatment I did not turn aside from my usual work. I therefore commend you and your method to all sufferers from rectal disorders. Very gratefully yours.

WHAT IS TAUGHT.

The course does not include information as to the most painless or approved method of attacking pedestrians, but there is a section devoted to traffic laws, and when the "exams" are over Prof. Smith is sure that his students will be able to perform ordinary road repairs with a minimum of language and a maximum of result. Visitors will be welcome at the classes, for it is the purpose of the university authorities to make the course as far-reaching and practical as possible.

A succeeding lecture will deal with the dissection of an auto, in which the students will be permitted to revel in an expose of the mysteries of the true "inwardness" of the "critter." It is further expected that light will be shed upon what actually goes on during the hiatus when the chauffeur is undergoing partial eclipse beneath the chassis, or whatever that unimportant part of the outfit is called in which the passengers ride.

President Bovard is enthusiastic over the new course and believes that it will meet an important demand in the work of the university. "The use of the automobile is becoming so general," said he, "and its application to all departments of human endeavor so universal, that it is almost necessary for the average citizen to have a working knowledge of the auto."

BACK INTO HISTORY.

In the initial lecture yesterday Prof. Smith started away back in the days of Isaiah, or whatever prophet it was, (he isn't sure,) who said, "but chariots shall be with fiery torches; they shall run by the lightnings." Then he skipped a few centuries and reminded his class of the prediction of Roger Bacon, a Jesuit monk, who foretold, in 1300 A.D. the day of the machine-driven ship, vehicle and air craft.

The modern history of the auto was entertainingly described down to the present day, when dare-devil racers send their cars over race courses at the rate of 120 miles an hour. The lecturer illustrated his talk with slides.

For the lectures on tires and engines, experts in each department will come here from large eastern factories for the purpose. Bert Smith, automobile editor of The Times, will deliver the Ocean-to-Ocean lecture.

MISS RAE BELLE MORLAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Morlan of Manhattan place, whose betrothal to Stanley Visel was recently announced, will be the next bride-elect to be entertained.

The wedding will be an event of mid-October and the prenuptial parties will be elaborate. This evening Miss Elizabeth Helm will give a dinner for the bridal party, including Miss Carry McLean, who has been asked to assist as maid of honor, Miss Helen McLean, Miss Eloise Watson and Miss Ruth Visel, adorned in dainty gowns, will serve as maids, and the groomsmen, Messrs. Jack and Nelson Visel and Clyde Whitney, Henry Hunter, Harold Janeway and Arthur Eckman, who have accepted invitations to serve as ushers.

Miss Mary Wagar of Toledo, O., who with her parents is passing the winter at St. James Park, will give a luncheon next Saturday at the California Club, followed by a theater party.

Monday evening Mr. Visel will be host at a theater party and supper at the Alexandria next Monday evening. Besides members of the bridal party the list will include Mrs. James P. McLean and Mr. and Mrs. Morlan.

Miss Alice Fleming has asked for Tuesday, the 8th inst. She will compliment the young bride-elect with a luncheon at her home on Hoover street, and Miss Eloise Watson will entertain the young women of the bridal party with a theater matinee party on the 12th inst. The young men will join them at 5 o'clock and tea will be served at the Alexandria.

Rehearsal for Wedding.

Home from Outing.

Dr. Evangeline Jordan has returned from an outing of six weeks among the Santa Cruz redwoods and Lake Tahoe.

Wedding Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Grey announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion to Nicholas Adosides. The service was read September 11, in Bunnxville, N. Y.

Delightful Luncheon.

Mrs. Frank Hardy of Corondolet street, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. G. Gardner, entertained with a Dutch luncheon and five hundred party recently. The table was gay with roses and ferns and hand-painted Dutch babies marked covers for Mmes. Howard M. Donnell, Fred A. German, Charles T. Meyer, Jr., W. A. Stephenson, Conard Davis, Edith Washington, Von Lansing, Hugh Swift, Bertrum, Donald Rose and Miss Ada Grove. A beautiful hand-painted bonbon dish was awarded to Mrs. Meyer.

Home from the Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lane Merrill have returned fro Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, where they have been for the past five weeks. They are now domiciled at the Rampart Apartments.

Miss Banning in East.

Miss Eleanor Banning of this city is in New York. She is registered at the Hotel Wolcott.

Returns to New York.

At Yokohama.

A cable has been received by friends announcing the arrival in Yokohama, Japan, of Mr. Holdridge O. Collins, Miss Constance Collins, Miss Rosel Hill, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DuBois, Mr. C. M. Moore, Miss Margaret Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strasburg, Miss Gladys Rowley, Mr. Charles Scott, Miss Mamie Scott and Capt. and Mrs. F. A. Whitehead. They left here September 17 for a tour of the world.

Good News.

Mrs. Elene Asbury has returned from the North where she has been visiting her daughter. While there she was joined by her son, J. Phil Asbury, who has been in the East for the past two years. Mrs. Asbury and her son are at home to friends.

From Montebello.

Miss Ruth Mulford of Montebello is the house guest of Mrs. Charles McCreary of No. 2215 South Vermont avenue. Mrs. McCreary has planned several affairs for her guest, the first for this afternoon, when guests will enjoy the performance at the Mason. There will be present Miss Bess Hamlin, Miss Florence Ray and Miss Clara Russakov. Tea will be served at the Alexandria.

For Mrs. Tolhurst.

Mrs. Louis H. Tolhurst, formerly Miss Jane Rollins, entertained informally yesterday afternoon with a bridge party to welcome home Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, who, with Mr. Tolhurst, has returned from a European tour.

Buell-Laws Wedding.

The wedding of Miss D. Laws, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Laws of Loveland, Colo., to Willard Lincoln Buell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buell of this city, was read at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. The service was at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. H. C. Shoemaker, No. 4306 South Flower street.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, which was enhanced with pink and white flowers. The bride received in a handsome gown of white satin and chiffon, and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lily of the valley. Miss Leanora Parshall, in pale blue chiffon, and Raymond R. Reed were also in the line. The honeymoon will be passed in Long Beach, and they will then return to this city. They will reside at Sparta Place, Athens-on-the-Hill.

In the East.

Going Abroad.

Miss Annis Van Nuys left Sunday for New York, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Benton Van Nuys. Miss Van Nuys will be joined by some friends in New York and will leave with them for a trip abroad. Miss Katherine, who has just returned from Europe, and her mother, Mrs. I. N. Van Nuys, will make their home at the Hotel Beverly for the winter.

In Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beale of Santa Barbara and Mrs. J. P. Jefferson of Philadelphia are in Providence, R. I., as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carrington, who gave a luncheon for them yesterday.

Returning from Abroad.

Mrs. R. L. Craig and Robert H. Craig of Los Angeles have arrived from Europe and are passing a few days at the Hotel Wolcott, New York.

BEAUMONT.

BEAUMONT, Oct. 1.—A city ticket to be voted upon in the election November 5, to determine whether or not Beaumont shall be incorporated as a city of the sixth class, was nominated at a largely-attended mass meeting here. The ticket follows: For Trustees, J. O. Tillery, R. E. Williams, E. A. Thompson, George A. Lee and J. J. McCoy; for Marshal, John Looren; for Treasurer, E. J. Gillis; for Clerk, Wallace Watson.

All of the nominees for Trustees are well-known local business men, and it is now believed that there will be no other ticket put in the field. It is admitted that the strength of the ticket will add votes to the element in favor of incorporation.

COURT ACTION.

ceedings in the morning," he declared. "We shall first ask an injunction and then carry the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. Not only Attorney E. J. Ensign, who represented us at the sale yesterday, but other authorities have passed upon the merits of our claim."

ASK INJUNCTION, HE SAYS.

"We shall certainly ask the court to enjoin the Normal School trustees from accepting the bid of the Normal Site Company, on the ground that our bid, although entirely legal, was not considered," said Adams's attorney. "When President Melrose asked for bids M. S. Hellman, holding in his hand a certified check for $10,000, bid $600,000 for the property, passing the check over to Millispaugh. In a perfunctory tone Melrose asked if there were any more bids. Adams said, much to almost everybody's surprise, 'I bid $610,000.'

"Hellman declared Adams's $10,000 check worthless—not negotiable. Melrose concurred in this. I had Adams indorse it. Melrose then said the check had not been made out to Millispaugh and had not been deposited with him before the bidding and that it would not be accepted. Adams's check was made out to the Board of Trustees and was entirely legal. Heilman had not deposited his check with the secretary, either. He had it in his hand, just as Adams did.

"Hellman protested against the acceptance of our check and I asked him what right he had to object, being but a bidder. Earl tried to cross-examine Adams as to his standing and his firm. By my advice Adams refused to reply. We do not believe the State should be forced to sell this property at less than it is worth, even to benefit the city. We were willing to pay $700,000, if necessary, and give the city the privilege of buying from us."

"SOMETHING STRANGE."

Trustees of the Normal School declare the Adams bid did not show loyalty to the city.

"There is something strange back of the bid," said Secretary Millispaugh last night. "The attempt to snatch the property from the city was, to say the least, disloyal. Fortunately the bidders blundered in a legal technicality. We are confident that the $10,000 check offered by Adams was not up to requirements as stipulated by the board for the sale. And the Adams people did not advise us of their intention to bid, they did not seek us to learn any facts in connection with the property or title, and they did not appear here before the sale with the $10,000 check, as did Mr. Hellman. We were not aware that there was to be any bid except the city's until President Melrose's second call was answered by Adams. Adams is not known to us. He should have at least presented himself before the sale that we might have learned his standing. We did not know but that there might have been a plan to prevent the sale for an ulterior reason. You will recall that there was considerable agitation against the city paying more than $500,000 for the property some months ago."

Following completion of business in connection with the sale, the Board of Trustees took up consideration of a question as to supervision of construction of the new Normal buildings.

The board declares Secretary Millispaugh, favors having Allison & Allison, architects, supervise construction because of familiarity with conditions. Investigation of the legal status of the matter will have to be made, however, before the architects can be assigned to the work as such matters usually are in the hands of the State Engineer.

WANT A NEW SCHOOLHOUSE.

Pomona Citizens Circulate a Petition Asking for Building in Southeastern Section of the City.

POMONA, Oct. 1.—Petitions to the members of the City Council are being circulated by residents of the southeastern part of the city asking that a bond election be called to provide funds for the erection of a new schoolhouse in the southeast section, and these petitions already contain many names. It was the plan of the Board of Education to build a four-room structure in that part of the city to provide for the need there, and this action of the petitioners is in direct opposition to the proposal of the school trustees. The petitioners and residents of the southeast section declare that their locality is entitled to as good school accommodations as are provided elsewhere in the city and they object to a four-room structure, which they feel will be inferior to other Pomona school buildings.

NEWS BRIEFS.

According to the report of City Building Inspector Cowles, the building permits issued from his office during the month of September amounted to about $31,000. The permit of the Pomona Manufacturing Company's new building is included in this amount.

The Christian Church Sunday-school has elected officers as follows: R. H. Orr, superintendent; E. A. Moss and W. D. Aikire, assistant superintendents; T. E. Guerin, treasurer; H. W. Leach, secretary, and Miss Myrtle Maple, assistant secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Iser, with Messrs. and Mmes. W. M. Avis, C. E. Greaser, O. E. Hardy and Edward Thompson, have gone to Sonora, in Northern California, to attend the State encampment of the Odd Fellows' order.

The Pomona Shakespeare Club has commenced its programme meetings for the season and will study Henry IV and Henry V during part of the year. Four meetings will later be devoted to the study of Browning. Newly-elected members are Mmes. Charles M. Stone and Austin Peck, who are elected to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Mrs. J. H. McKim and Mrs. David Prewitt, the latter formerly Miss Mary Graham, who have removed from Pomona to make their homes in Berkeley and Winchester, Ky., respectively.

The Pacific Electric Company officials state that they are more than pleased with the patronage of the interurban-car service between this city and Los Angeles. The traffic is increasing daily and many commutation ticket books are being sold. The management says that plans are being made to place new sixty-foot cars on the Pomona line, which will furnish more conveniences and comfort for the passengers than possible previously, as these cars will be of the latest improved type for long-distance interurban service. The "flyers" which they feel will be inferior to which they feel will be inferior to other Pomona school buildings are being run daily over the line are popular with local people.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

770 PICTURES AND COUPONS OR 77 OF THEM—CONSIDER!

Take Your Choice of These Two Ways of Submitting Answers.

The Booklovers' Contest rules permit you to make as many as ten different answers to each picture.

There are seventy-seven Booklovers' Contest pictures in all.

If you use only pictures, with their coupons, and make ten answers to each picture, you must secure 770 pictures, with their coupons, on which to submit these answers. Each answer must be submitted on a separate picture, with its coupon.

But if you use an Answer Book you will need only seventy-seven pictures—one copy of each picture, even though you make the limit of ten answers to each picture.

And the Answer Book costs but 70 cents, or 75 cents by mail.

Just figure out for yourself what it would cost to get the extra pictures you would need if you did not have an Answer Book!

The Times, you see, devised the rule permitting as many as ten answers to each picture so that each contestant would have the fullest chance to exercise his ingenuity.

Then the Answer Book was devised so that contestants desiring to avail themselves of the fullest opportunity to win the prizes would be able to make several answers to each picture without going to any expense worth talking about.

The Answer Book, you know, contains seventy-seven double pages. On these pages you paste the seventy-seven pictures, and beneath where each picture is pasted there are ten blank spaces, where you can write as many as ten different answers to each picture.

And remember that no matter whether you make an average of two or five or eight or ten answers to each picture, if you have an Answer Book you need only ONE copy of each picture!

Also remember that you have plenty of time—more than one whole month yet—before you have to hand in your set of pictures and answers, so do not consider it too late to get an Answer Book, or even to enter the contest.

The seventy-seventh and last picture will be published on Monday, October 7.

Then will come three weeks—through Saturday, October 26—during which contestants will be expected to get their sets in order, finish solving the last pictures that appeared, etc. During this three weeks period absolutely no one will be permitted to send in his or her set.

Sunday, October 27, will start the final week of the contest—the week during which all sets must be sent or brought in. No sets may be sent or brought in until Sunday, October 27, and ALL sets MUST be in by midnight of Saturday, November 2.

HOLD FAST TO THESE DATES!

Get your Answer Book now—you have plenty of time to submit all the answers you wish. No sets may be sent in before October 27, and all sets must be in by November 2, midnight.

SOAK SOGGY BALL IN NINTH.

Kane and Brashear Break Up Damp Game.

Arrellanes and Baum Split Mound Honors.

"Monochrome" Sky Interests Moist Scribes.

BY HARRY WILLIAMS.

Sacramento put up a game here yesterday worthy of a team not afflicted with a drooping percentage, but the Tigers went them one better and triumphed, 2 to 1. It is the general consensus of opinion in sporting circles that this defeat puts the Senators hopelessly out of the race.

"Deacon" Van Buren proved that he wanted the game very much by trotting out Frank Arrellanes, regarded by many as his best bet in the pitching department. Hogan proved that he also coveted the game by sending in "Spider" Baum. "Spider" not only is a good pitcher, but it is a scientific fact that a heaver will heave against erstwhile team-mates as against no one else in the world.

The senor had slightly the better of the argument in the earlier and likewise the central stages of the fray. He pitched hitless ball for six innings. In the seventh the Tigers bunched two hits on him for their first tally, and in the ninth Kane and Brashear soaked the soggy sphere for the deciding tally. These were enough to beat the tramp tally tacked up by the Senators in the second.

It was a dismal day. At least, it appeared so to those of us who have been nurtured on sunshine. The sky was a monochrome—do you get that? It began drizzling in the first inning and drizzled more or less every inning thereafter. The ball was so slippery that the players were compelled to wear spikes on their gloves.

Some of the fielders made a bum heave or two, but the clammy condition of things in general did not have a bad effect on Messrs. Baum and Arrellanes. If their salary wings were congealed, their work supplied no intimation of the fact. In a way, Arrellanes pitched a better game than Baum, allowing but four hits, fanning six and passing two, to five hits off Baum and four strikeouts and two passes. But in another and important way Arrellanes didn't have the better game. Baum showed superior discretion. He positively declined to allow more than one hit in any one inning, and had his support been sublime in every respect he would have sent the Senators back to the hotel with nothing but a dedicient box score to show for their valiant efforts. Both heaved heroically, and as much as we wanted to see the Tigers win, it seemed like a crime for either of them to be compelled to drink the dregs of defeat—especially when there are so many other drinks available.

ORR SCORES FIRST.

First of all we will tell you about Sacramento's sporadic tally. It was incubated in the second inning. It also was the first run of the game, and for about an hour many were lead to believe that it might be the last one.

After Swain had walked back to the bench as the result of a very star catch by Walter Carlisle, Irelan poked a grounder down into Litschi's jurisdiction. Lew squeezed the water out of the ball, dug his fingernails into it and then made a throw that lead "Ham" Patterson about three inches off first base. That made Irelan safe. Orr, deeply intent on sacrificing, drove to Baum. The latter preferred Orr's advance-agent, however, and threw to Brashear, forcing Irelan. This pleased Orr so much that he stole second. Miller then dumped a drive over third. Litschi promptly called the ball four, as is customary with third basemen in such exigencies. Umpire Finney, however, dissented. The whack went for a double, and Orr scored.

The only telling blow landed subsequent to that was a double by Irelan in the fifth, and it didn't really tell anything.

Arellanes, by some means best known to himself, got a single in the fifth after two had expired. He advanced to second when Hosp found himself unable to combat the vagaries of a wet grounder from Shinn. Van Buren experienced the pleasure of being passed, filling the bases. With things looking extremely crucial, Patsy O'Rourke popped to Hosp and addressed a few rococo remarks to himself.

After that, Irelan, who stole second after forcing Charles H. Swain in the ninth, was the only visiting person

SACRAMENTO WANTS MAJOR LEAGUERS.

Jack Atkin, owner of the Sacramento club, has gone East to lasso big leaguers for the Senators. There is a big shake-up in progress. Probabilities are:

Players released: Tommy Sheehan and Tommy Madden.

Players certain to be retained: Van Buren, Heister, Lewis and Cheek.

Players likely to be imported: Germany Schaefer to play first; Eddie McDonald, third; Bliss, catcher; two outfielders and a second baseman.

Sacramento's New Pitching Trio.

They Look Like the Goods.

At the top is Charley Alberts. He led the Central League last season as a member of the Ft. Wayne club with sixteen wins and four defeats. Below him is George Harden, who comes from the same club. He was a good fourth in the league, with twenty-two victories and eight defeats. At the bottom is O. C. Peters, who did great work with the Chicago White Sox in the spring. Peters was with Minneapolis last season. These men are the nucleus of a practically new club which Jack Atkin plans to place in the field next season.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS.

And Also Some Facts, Here and There, About the World of Sport. Ad Wolgast's Matches, and Other Matters.

TO ABATE all the wind storms, Ad. Wolgast sent me the following telegram last night about his various and sundry matches:

"Sporting Editor, The Times, Los Angeles:

"I box Teddy Maloney, Philadelphia, October 17. Have no bout closed on the Coast. I am to box Mandot November 2, New Orleans—ten rounds.

"AD. WOLGAST,
"Lightweight Champion."

This will kick a hole through some of the plans of Uncle Tom McCarey. He told me yesterday that he did not believe that Wolgast was matched with either Mandot or Ritchie as reported.

McCarey said he wants to stage Wolgast in three world's championship matches in Los Angeles, the dates being.

Wolgast versus Rivers—Thanksgiving Day.

Wolgast versus Ritchie—New Year's Day.

Wolgast versus Mandot—Washington's Birthday.

It is easy to see from this now tattered fight programme which of the three contenders McCarey regards as the best. He certainly wouldn't put on the best one first.

I have never heard Uncle Tom say so himself; but every other sporting authority with whom I have discussed the matter has expressed the belief that Rivers is afraid of little Ad; in fact, would have knocked the champion clear through the ropes last Fourth of July if he hadn't been so badly frightened.

There is nothing in Wolgast's fight programme which would prevent a fight between Rivers and Wolgast on Thanksgiving Day.

But they never are likely to get it in the way they are going at it. There's no use weeping on Ad's husky shoulder and telling him that he ought to give Rivers another chance.

Wolgast is a cold-blooded little financier. He is interested in making money even more than in fighting. If you want a match with him, you must get down to cases and rattle the cash drawer. Whoever makes the highest bid will get that Thanksgiving Day fight.

Death's Calls.

BRUCE BROWN, JIM CORBETT.

Auto King Dead; Pugilist Is Reported Dying.

Exploded Auto Tire Claims Grand Prize Hero.

Former Heavy Champion Had Appendicitis.

Two of the greatest heroes of the sporting world were snuffed out yesterday by a ruthless fate.

While practicing for the Vanderbilt Cup race at Milwaukee, David Bruce Brown had an accident. One of the tires of his car blew out and the motor car turned over, crushing his skull.

A few hours later, Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world and the most dramatic and heroic figure the prize ring has ever known, was operated on for appendicitis. At a late hour last night it was reported that his condition was hopeless.

CORBETT STRICKEN, WITHOUT WARNING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James J. Corbett, former champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, is dying here tonight at the Jefferson Hospital, following an operation performed as a last resort to save him from peritonitis. There is absolutely no hope, the surgeons say, and his death is only a question of hours.

Corbett is billed here this week to appear at the People's Theater, and his company came with him on Sunday. Last night he was not feeling well and after the performance he complained of severe pains in the right side. Toward morning his condition grew worse and this afternoon when the famous actor-pugilist finally consented to have a physician, it was found that he had been suffering from acute appendicitis and it was seen that his condition was critical.

Blood poisoning had set in because the appendix had been ruptured and it was feared that he would die before he could be hurried to the operating table and placed under an anesthetic. News of his condition was withheld in the hope that the diagnosis might be wrong and that after he had been operated on it would be found that he still had a fighting chance.

The old hero of many ring battles stood the ether well, but the rupture had done its work.

When the surgeons made the incision it was found that not only had the appendix been ruptured, but that part of the wall of the intestine had been torn so severely there was no chance for the surgeons to repair the lacerated peritoneum.

They have sewed the wound or portions of them the best they can in hopes that the dying hours of the ring gladiator will be as comfortable as possible. At this hour he is still delirious and those in charge of the room where he is lying say that the old fighter is living through all his battles over again.

He is constantly begging to be allowed to get up, and the doctors say that in his wandering mind he talks of Carson City and that he assures them that he is not done for by any means.

His vitality is something wonderful, the surgeons say, for such a condition usually results in death within a few hours. Immediately after the ether was stopped and he was taken into the anteroom, it was thought that he had succumbed, but oxygen was administered and he rallied perceptibly. This change for the better was only temporary, for he sank into a state of unconsciousness immediately after, and except for a few periods when he asked for water, he has failed to recognize anyone about him.

BRUCE BROWN KILLED.

TIRE BLOW-OUT CAUSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Oct. 1.—David Bruce-Brown, a wealthy young New York sportsman, was killed and his mechanician, Tony Scudalari, was fatally injured on the new Wauwatosa automobile road course today on the eve of the eighth running of the Vanderbilt cup race.

Bruce-Brown was driving his high-powered Fiat car at a ninety-mile-an-hour speed when the rear left tire blew out. The heavy car swerved into a ditch and a second later men and machine were catapulted diagonally across the road and into a field. The men were thrown clear of the car which was hurled high in the air and then smashed into a heap of wreckage.

Brown's skull was fractured, his left leg broken and he suffered internal injuries. Surgeons said that death resulted directly from hemorrhage of the brain. The top of Schudalari's skull was crushed, his right arm broken and his body seriously torn.

Brown died at a hospital three hours after the accident, having partially regained consciousness for a few minutes. Surgeons had trepanned his skull on both sides in an unavailing effort to save his life.

The hospital authorities withheld news of Bruce-Brown's death for an hour.

ROAD TOO NARROW.

Bruce-Brown, according to his friend, Caleb Bragg, met death in a desperate effort to keep his swerving car on the comparatively narrow roadway after the explosion of the tire. Bragg said the course was dangerously narrow. He asserted that Bruce-Brown could have saved himself under similar conditions on a

MILLER EASY FOR ANGELS.

Locals Knock Him Out of the Box in Seventh Inning.

Page Proves a Hero With Two Timely Doubles.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] The Angels showed up here this afternoon with a team shot full of holes, but they laid over the Seals like a racing automobile over a truck horse. The finish was 5 to 1 and the Seals got their one in round one, which does not speak very well for their fighting ability in the home stretch.

The very fact that the San Francisco wonder, Frank Miller, was selected to do the twirling for the home aggregation, did not strike the least bit of terror into the hearts of the stalwart men of the Southland. They chased him from the slab in the seventh round when the game was practically broken up.

The Angels fell by the wayside in their half of the first session and the Seals responded with a run which led many of the more ardent ones to hope that they might possibly work a baseball miracle and win. But these persons were misguided and misinformed. They picked out the wrong team.

Wuffli the first Seal up laced out a nice single to center field. Mundorff the second one up bunted him down to second. McIntyre died on an infield fly, and Howard, the fourth Seal up dropped a safe one into the center garden. Wuffli arrived. His arrival caused some of the misguided ones to believe that there might possibly be a chance. But later events showed them up.

ANGELS GET BUSY.

The Angels were busy young men in the second. Core tore off a single into the left garden, and the hit and run signal was tipped with Utility Page up. Page was the right man in the right place at the right time. He responded with a double to the left field bleachers. Core was off to a good start and sprinted all the way home. This one spelled good-by and good night for the Seals, because the Angels saw how easy the game was and proceeded to go after more tallies without waste of time.

They put the next one over in the next round, the third. Chech was smart enough to wait for a walk. Howard advanced him on an out down to his brother, Del, and Berger shot him in by planting a two-sacker up against the right field fence. This made it 2 to 1 for the Angels.

All went well till the sixth, and then things broke badly for the Seals, as usual. One was out of the way when Moore was passed and stole. Core fanned, but Moore stole third on the play. Little Page seemed to be full of two-sackers, for he immediately poled another to the right garden, and Moore simply walked home with the tally.

SEVENTH IS FATAL.

The seventh settled it for keeps. Miller faltered at the outset and passed Brooks. Chech followed with a bunt to the Seal pitcher, who pegged it away at second, leaving both men safe. Howard placed a bingler into the right garden and made it a full house with nobody down and a flock of tallies in sight for the Angels. Reidy could stand it no longer, so out came Miller, and in went Arlett, and immediately two peculiar plays were worked off on the slabster.

Berger hit a low one to center. McIntyre ran in on the ball and scooped it up. The Angel runners stalled on bases for all that, as the ball might be caught. Mac whipped the ball into second, and Howard was forced at second base, but Brooks in the meantime had sneaked home. McArdle pegged the ball to Berry just a second too late to head off the runner. The bases were still loaded, but Moore shoved a mean one past Wagner. Once more the Angels held their bases, believing that it would be an ordinary out. But the ball got past Wagner, and rolled to Mundorff, who pegged to Wagner, barely nipping Berger at second. As in the previous play the man on third, Chech, rolled home, making it five for the southern lads.

RUBE MARQUARD BLOWS UP AFTER FOUR INNINGS.

Tesreau Takes His Place and Does Well for Several Rounds—Cubs Closely Trimmed by the Pirates—St. Louis Trims Cinci Reds by Fine Tight-Wad Pitching of Heaver Redding.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Marquard pitched grand ball for four innings and went to pieces in the fifth, being batted all over the lot. Tesreau took the mound in the sixth and for two innings was unhittable. Then the Phillies fell on him for seven hits in the eighth and ninth.

While the Giants hit Chalmers hard, they were unable to bunch the bingles. McGraw sent Doyle to steal second, but Killifer threw him out. For the balance of the game Chalmers held the Giants so close to first that they never had a chance to show their speed on the bases. The Phillies stole five bases on Meyers and Wilson.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Cheney was knocked off the slab in the seventh and Reulbach replaced him.

The Cubs, badly disorganized, were toys before "Babe" Adams, and never appeared to be able to get in the running.

DEL HOWARD STILL LEADS COAST HITTERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Del Howard, San Francisco first baseman, continues to lead the Coast League batters, and increaseh his figures last week two points to .365. Daley and Heitmuller of Los Angeles, both of whom have played in nearly twice as many games as Howard, are close behind him.

Sixteen players are batting .300 or better. Carlisle of Vernon is still way out in front in the runs-scored column with 141, but Leard, the speedy Oakland second baseman, surpassed him in stealing bases, the figures being 61 and 56.

The averages of the ten best regular batters follow: Howard, San Francisco, .365; Daley, Los Angeles, .340; Heitmuller, Los Angeles, .336; Fitzgerald, Portland, .326; Bayless, Vernon, .322; Lindsay, Portland, .316; Van Buren, Sacramento, .314; H. Brashear, Vernon, .314; Deane, Portland, .313; Zimmerman, San Francisco, .312.

Hetling of Oakland is batting .308, Kane of Vernon, .299, and Berger, Los Angeles, has slumped to .283.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The well-informed among New York fans are counting on Marquard as a probable heavy factor in the pitching department of the Giants for the world's series with Boston. It is declared that Manager McGraw has purposely rested Marquard so that he will be at his best for the world's series.

Marquard was clearly overworked in his attempt to beat the record for straight victories. He broke down under the terrific strain and his manager determined to let him recover his nerve and stamina. Marquard is now working like a beaver in private and McGraw expects to have him keyed up to the top notch at the proper moment. In fact, McGraw prophecies with every show of confidence that Marquard can and will duplicate his phenomenal pitching of last spring.

GIANTS RECEIVE GOOD WISHES FROM CUB TEAM.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] It was announced today that the Giants and Yankees would play an exhibition game at the Polo Grounds next Monday, the day before the opening game of the world's series. Sailors of the visiting warships will be guests of the New York club.

The New Yorks today received the tardy congratulations of the Chicago club for winning the pennant. Charley Murphy wrote a formal letter and said he hoped the Giants would beat the Red Sox.

GROOM AND ENGEL ALLOW CHAMPS TO WIN ANOTHER.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 1.—[Special Dispatch.] Groom and Engel took things easy and the Red Sox had a batting practice today. Duffy Lewis, with two doubles and a single led the batting rallies for the champions.

Both teams played ragged ball and the contest really seemed to have been arranged by Griffith and Stahl as a warming up affair. The score:

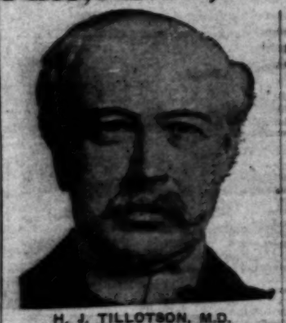
Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
[Established 31 Years.]

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most Natural, Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Diseases.

These diseases are very common, most frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment and success are the result of years of experience; my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentlemen in treatment comes from treating many cases. I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the alleged cure of rupture. I say positively that I cure rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation.

Written Guarantee

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

"Teddy" Miller,

Thirteen-year-old son of John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company. "Teddy" is playing with the Pasadena polo team. He is the youngest who has ever played there.

Precocious.

TEDDY MILLER BECOMING CLASSY YOUNG POLOIST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASADENA, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Ted" Miller, the 13-year-old son of John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company, has been playing as one of the members of the Pasadena Polo Club in the practice matches this fall. He is the youngest player who has ever mounted a horse at Tournament Park, if not the youngest polo player in the country. While he modestly declares that he entertains no hope of winning a place on the first team, which will represent the club at this winter's tournaments, he has done some good work and earned the admiration of all the other members of the team.

He is mounted by his father, who is himself one of the leading members of the Pasadena team, and who has a string of nine handsome and well-trained ponies. The young polo ist has been fortunate in not having had any falls so far, although in the last few weeks he has ridden some green horses and done some fast riding.

"Polo is the best game there is," he said yesterday, when asked how he liked the sport. "I cannot hope to get a place on the first team, of course. It takes about six years playing to gain the skill."

The Pasadena Polo Club has opened the season this year with a number of good fast practice matches, and the players are rapidly getting into trim for the winter's sport. The tournament matches will begin about Christmas time and more brilliant winter prospects have never been entertained. The grounds at Tournament Park have been oiled and re-oiled, until they are now in excellent condition. The club has opened the grand stand to the public free of charge for all practice matches, and residents of the city and tourists who are staying here are beginning to take much interest in the sport.

HITS AND RUNS

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Now that Frank Chance has recovered sufficiently to talk back, it will be at once timely and germain to make a few remarks about "beaning" its cause and effect and origin.

As a starter we will quote that grand old book, the dictionary, as follows, to-wit:

"BEAN"—Translative, verb. To strike another person with force on the head. Syntax—Cain "beaned" Abie.

Thus, it will be seen that any instrument may be used for the purpose of "beaning." For some reason or other, many have indissolubly linked "beaning" with baseball. This probably is due to the prevalence of the "bean" ball. There are some pitchers who make a specialty of bouncing a Spalding off an opponent's coco. Other's do the same thing by accident, rather than by design. Hence the "bean" ball. But there are other legitimate ways of "beaning." For instance, your wife may properly "bean" you with a rolling pin shortly after midnight, if she happens to be that kind of a lady. Or she may use a skillet, and still be adhering to all the rules of the game.

While ladies now and then resort to household utensils for "beaning" purposes, gentlemen seldom do. They generally rely on a piece of gas pipe. This has been found to be one of the most effective methods of "beaning." Any person who is "beaned" in this way can hardly hope to get in the newspapers more than once, and on that occasion he is restricted to a mere mention in the vital statistics.

Frank Chance has been "beaned" more prolifically than any other person. Thirty-two times he has lived to see the official ball bounced off the storehouse of his managerial wisdom. Yet in all this time, he has never been "beaned" once too often, as they sometimes say in the write-ups.

Frank was once severely "beaned" by Brick Devereaux right here in Los Angeles. That was many years ago. Frank was in the hospital for some days, but this did not deter him from braving the "bean" ball later in life. I see where a number of persons claim to have "beaned" Chance from time to time. I don't blame them. It is an honor to "bean" a great baseball manager. Come to think of it, I "beaned" him myself. If my memory serves me correctly, I used a lima bean.

Check Cold Weather Star.

Charley Check's signal victory over the Seals yesterday recalls the fact that he is a star who scintillates in cold weather, particularly. Because of this fact, Henry Berry yesterday vowed to use Chech in four games against Oakland in the final series if the temperature happens to be appropriate. Patsy O'Rourke backs up Chech's reputation in this respect. He says that he saw Chech win something like seven games in a row for Boston in the spring, only to be sent back to St. Paul when the weather began to warp things. Most heaving persons prefer a temperature of about 120 in the ice box, but not so with Mr. Chech. He is best when the frost is freezing the pumpkin and other portions of the landscape. Doubtless, many ears after he has dropped from public life here, he will be found winning games in the Aurora Borealis League.

Hogan Delivers Address.

"Happy" Hogan yesterday addressed a few remarks to his pay roll pertaining to the desirability of winning games. His address was delivered not a great while before the game took place, and the Tigers won. Let us hope that it won't be necessary for "Happy" to deliver a lecture every day in the week in order to achieve this result.

ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE

BY OWEN R. BIRD

Hard to Find Victims.

Student Manager Blair at the University of Southern California is having a hard time to get any outside scrimmage practice for the varsity this season. Wednesday afternoon the Pomona High School team was to have shown up for a little tussle with Manning's men, but decided yesterday that the varsity was too big. So this afternoon the freshmen will be lined up against the first team for a regular battle and regular battle is about right at that.

Next Saturday, October 5, the freshmen will be sent against the Manual Arts High School. The defeat at the hands of the L.A. team is still remembered and it looks gloomy for Manual.

At the present time it appears as though the first real scrimmage for the varsity would not occur until October 5, at which time the Poly Squad will mix it with the first team men, in a real game.

Trojans' First Game October 12.

The U.S.C. first team will play its first hard game October 12 at Berkeley, when the California freshmen are to be lined up against the southern warriors. According to the reports coming from the Bay City region the northern freshmen are a lot of bad men. The team has been mauling the life out of the High school up there and in view of the fact that this will be the first time that the U.S.C. varsity will get together, the game should be a hard one for the south. However, it will teach our men a lot and that is what they are going up there for.

Too Early for Comparisons.

There are many who think what the local high schools can do against the college freshmen teams here and then glance at the score of the northern freshmen-high school games. When we look at the scores it does seem bad, but the fact must not be forgotten that the southern high schools have always put it all over the northern preps in the games for the championship of the State. Therefore, the local preps are stronger than the northern preps. Again the northern universities have much larger freshmen classes to choose from, so this gives them another advantage.

Once more, the local college team never reaches its best until later in the season, because of a late start and because the weather here, during the first six weeks of the season, is too warm for best results.

Pomona to Show Ability Soon.

Coach Stanton will see his first team squad in action for the first time this season on Saturday afternoon on Alumni Field in a practice game with the Chaffee Union High School. "Dutch" Shutt, the former Pomona star, is coaching Chaffee so the game should be a good test for the college men, as Shutt says that he has some husky lads on his team.

One week later Pomona will have another chance with the Long Beach aggregation and then we can begin to get a more accurate line on the Huns. Occidental beat the Beach Combers by the score of 24 to 0, with hardly any practice and with some of the best Tigers on the side lines. What will Pomona do?

The Big Games Count.

In the game with the California freshmen, October 12, Coach Manning of U.S.C. will try out as many men as possible. Manning is looking ahead to the games with the California and Stanford varsities and also with the Australian aggregation. If the Trojans can make good here it will mean more than to win the game with the northern babies by a big score.

L.A.H.S. and U.S.C. to Scrimmage.

Tomorrow afternoon the Los Angeles High School will be on Bovard Field for a light scrimmage with the first team squad. There will be no score counted. Both coaches will be behind their respective teams looking for the weak points. It will be interesting to see what the blue and while prep team will do with the varsity. It took all High School had to hold the freshman last Saturday and the question is how much better is the first team than the freshies?

BRUCE BROWN, JIM CORBETT.

wider road. Exceptions, however, were taken to this statement by officers of the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers' Association, under whose auspices the races are to be held.

"The accident was unavoidable," Referee A. R. Pardington said, "and the track is no wise to blame. It is in excellent condition. The casting of the tire would have upset any machine traveling at that speed, no matter how excellent the course."

The wreck occurred while Bruce-Brown was racing a few yards behind Teddy Tetziaff in a second Fiat car. Bruce-Brown had just driven the fastest lap of the day's tuning up trials and had set a new record of five minutes, fifty-three and eight-tenths seconds for the 7.88-mile course. He was endeavoring to better his record and had just attempted to pass Tetziaff when the crash came.

permitted to play ball further than first base.

BLAME PATSY'S LEGS.

Patsy O'Rourke's legs were responsible for the defeat of the Oaks, according to Manager Hogan. Patsy's legs were not in shape to run the bases, and Hogan says that if Patsy had been able to run the bases the Oaks would have won the game.

Daring Death.

WHEN I RODE IN DAVID BRUCE BROWN'S RACER.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

DAVID BRUCE BROWN, who was killed yesterday on the Vanderbilt cup race course at Milwaukee, was one of the best fellows who ever sat behind the wheel of a racing car. Handsome and fearless, yet bashful and retiring, he earned the plaudits of thousands, yet never boasted. He was only a boy, but he acted the part of a man in every big road race in which he figured, and he figured in many.

When Bruce drove the big 120-horsepower Benz to victory in the Grand Prize race at Savannah in 1910, the crowd thronged around the hero and showered him with flowers. He sat in his car like a big schoolboy who had just recited a piece. He seemed to shrink away from the thousands who tried to shake his hand. Bruce had hurled that great car around the curves at terrific speed and had won on his nerve against the greatest automobile drivers in the world.

When in the following year he took the big 120-horsepower Fiat, and with Caley Bragg close behind him, drove into a sensational victory, he proclaimed himself one of the greatest motor car drivers before the public. He stamped himself as the right kind of a hero who is willing to take a desperate chance, when, by taking that chance, he flirted with death. Bruce Brown was a driver who did not know such a word as fear.

WITH BRUCE BROWN.

This college boy, only 24 years old, was just in his prime. He came to the Santa Monica road race only last May, with his own car, a big Benz, and he turned some of the fastest laps ever made in the big race. It was my pleasure to get well acquainted with this boyish driver. We took a fast spin around the eight and a fraction miles of road only a few days before the race and I saw then that Bruce Brown was not only a great driver, but had a great heart in him, big enough for that big powerful body of his.

We started with the old Benz barking spitefully. Bruce wanted a fast lap and we went down Nevada avenue better than ninety-five miles an hour. He wanted better time and we twisted around the Soldier's Home turn on two wheels. Then we went into the Palisades at a speed that reminded me of a ride on the board motordrome with Barney Oldfield in the Blitzen Benz. Then Bruce straightened her out to better than 100 miles an hour.

Squeezed into the seat of the mechanic, I tried to give Bruce all the room I thought he needed. But for a reason I could not explain he kept thrusting his elbow hard into my stomach. The more I tried to edge away the harder he pressed as the big car went careening down toward the ocean. We whirled around that lower turn at dizzy speed and swept to the finish faster than any express train ever moved.

"You certainly take up lots of room" I said to Bruce Brown. Then I explained how hard I had tried to give him the entire seat.

"Well now Bert," said the big driver, "If I hadn't squeezed you in you would certainly have bounced out and been killed when we hit those bumps."

DEATH NEAR.

Then I remember how the machine had ricochetted over the rises along the Palaisades and I gripped his hand as hard as I could. That was Bruce Brown, always thoughtful about someone else. That's the way he went through his short life. Always looking out for the other fellow.

In his races he would pull over to the side of the course to let the other drivers pass him if they could. But it was so seldom that they could that Brown saw few of their backs.

He was driving with Teddy Tetziaff, yesterday when he was killed. He had just turned the fastest lap of the big race. Tetziaff is the only man that ever won from Bown in a big road race. What more fitting than that his finish should come just as he was nosing Teddy out in the big try-out that proved his last? Brown might have won the Vanderbilt Cup this year, but death reached out for him and he is gone.

Everybody who met Bruce Brown loved him. He had no sweetheart and he loved no girl. He treated them all alike and he had no enemies. His friend Attorney E. E. Hewlett, who owned the car that killed him, was with Bruce when he died. Friends of the big fellow thank God that he was unconscious when he passed out. Bruce Brown is no more, but his life was beautiful and we are better for having known him during the brief span of his eventful career.

WORLD RECORD.

The toll of the automobile racing game is cruel and exacting. World records are not easily broken, but three minutes before Brown was hurled into eternity he smashed to atoms the record for the fastest time made in a practice spin for the big Vanderbilt Cup race. His Fiat was right. The motor was good for better than 100 miles an hour and Brown was nervy enough to "step" on the foot throttle at the right time.

What matter if the hair-pin turn was sharp? He had whirled around it many times at fifty miles an hour. This time to beat Teddy Tetziaff he kept her "wide-open." The car left the ground, bounded into the air, threw our hero against the embankment and crushed the life out of that big body that had been so full of life three seconds before. It was the tremendous strength of Brown that helped him to win so many races. He was six feet in height and weighed 192 pounds. He was an ideal fullback for a football team and played many times to his credit and always with the same fearlessness that marked the tragedy yesterday.

In the North.

SOUTHERNERS MAKE GOOD ON CALIFORNIA VARSITY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct. 1.—Pomona is represented better in football at California than any town in the State. In the games played at Berkeley Saturday, in which the varsity defeated the Olympics, 9-0, and the second varsity drubbed Berkeley and Fremont, by a 5-3 score, the Pomona players were much in evidence. There were five on the varsity team and it was due to the aggressive work of the southerners that so much scoring occurred.

Clint Evans and Tom Dills on the wings managed to be in all the plays that got far out from the scrum. Evans secured the ball in the loose in the second half, and dove through the waiting line of the opposition for a perfect try.

Graff, a freshman, was given his first workout with the varsity in this game, and the little Pomonan put up a good game at outside five-eighths. Over-eagerness was his worst trouble, and the mistakes he made can be rectified. Ken. Carpenter and McKim are a hard-working pair of forwards, and were noticeable in the game Saturday for their following up.

One of the prettiest contests for varsity positions this year is the race between Merle Price of San Bernardino and Montgomery of Lowell High School for the fullback job. Price played with the second varsity and got touch often for good gains.

G. W. Fish of Los Angeles was one of the few freshmen to get a chance with the varsity Saturday.

Joe Hodges is another baby from Los Angeles, who is receiving attention from the coaches, while Alex King, another Angeleno, has been in most of the preliminary games as a front-ranker.

A. M. Hunt, the speedy player from Santa Barbara, who showed so much promise of varsity form at the beginning of the season, was been unable to appear in a game for some days on account of injuries. He will be in shape again in a short time, and will be able to practice with the freshmen for their contest with the University of Southern California, which occurs a week from Saturday.

Johnny Stroud is playing a great game in his new position at breakaway. The veteran captain has always been seen at outside five-eighths.

The veteran center, Chet Allen, played for a time in his old position on the three-quarter line, and on several occasions showed flashes of his old-time form at swerve running, which has thrilled the fans on numerous occasions. The California backfield should be strong this year, and there is every reason to believe that the big game will be a better contest than it was in the past two years.

The freshman team has not been together yet this season, and it is impossible to be certain as to its ability to put up a fast game of football.

THE JOLLY BACHELORS.

Ralph Stuart, Ralph Stuart's son and Walter Edwards have bachelor quarters up on the Third-street hill.

"The first night I got into the place I read until 4 o'clock, but my enthusiasm over the place woke me up at 7," said Mr. Stuart yesterday. "We had no cook, but that was a thing which could be easily gotten around, and when the other two tumbled out of their beds they found me in the kitchen, with an old shirt for an apron, peeling the peaches with a fine Italian hand and an old black knife.

"I was long on the fruit and vegetables, and I could make coffee, but mother shied at the rest of the breakfast getting.

"'Can you cook?' I asked the Laylook in undress uniform.

"'Can a coon turn a watermelon into an Ethiopian?' he returned, by way of cryptogrammatic answer, and went at it.

"He says that the thing which called out the fire department and caused three tenants to leave was French toast, but I never smelled any toast in Paris as smoky as that—so I don't know whether he had the right name for the mess."

FILM "CANDLESTICKS."

James K. Hackett's one-act version of the prologue to Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," which he calls "The Bishop's Candlesticks," may be reproduced in films during the actor's present visit to Los Angeles.

Frank Egan, who has just added a filmery to his wide general equipment, had a conference with Hackett yesterday on the subject.

The principal character in "The Bishop's Candlesticks" is Jean Valjean in his earlier, thieving years. Hackett's dramatist has taken the incident in which the good Bishop entertains the rascal, providing him with food and a bed, only to see the theft of the candelabra as an ungracious reward. The climax comes when the culprit is promptly caught, and haled before the one he victimized.

"I gave them to him," says the Bishop, calmly, and the criminal side of the affair is at an end.

HACKETT'S READINESS.

I was sitting in James K. Hackett's Mason Operahouse dressing-room Monday night. Nothing had been said about any other production, when suddenly Hackett slapped his thigh—something natural for him, and no stage mannerism, though you may have thought so—and exclaimed: "By George! I feel like doing 'The Bishop's Candlesticks' tonight! Wonder if everything's ready?"

And he called his stage manager.

"How're you fixed?" he asked that individual.

"You mean 'for 'The Candlesticks,' sir?"

"That's it."

"I'm ready tonight. The stuff is hung. The costumes are here. The people are all right. Give me thirty minutes, and I'll have it on as soon as you get into your own make-up."

"Very well," smiled James K.; "I don't think I'll do it—but I just wanted to make sure that I could if the notion seized me."

Hackett probably will do the piece tomorrow evening, after "The Grain of Dust."

It is seldom announced. It is almost always, with him, a momentary impetuosity.

SIGNOR BERRI.

Signor Sparks Berri, whom they accused of running a cafeteria in Oakland, has come back to art.

Signor Berri was in town yesterday, promulgating the first epistle of Lambardi, the operatic veteran, who is now having a season at the Cort Theater in San Francisco.

When the Lambardi Company leaves San Francisco, he will become its manager.

LAMBARDS HERE.

The Lambardi company in Los Angeles will play at the Auditorium, opening October 28.

The first performance will be "La Boheme," a concession to the modern, with Agostini in the role of Rodolfo.

The second performance will be the first local rendition of Strauss's "Salome," with the Covent Garden soprano, Tarquinia Tarquini, in the title-part. The tenor Armanini will be the Herod of the evening.

Another new music-drama is "Conchita," a work of recent years.

An entirely new company, with an orchestra of fifty-four instruments, is promised for the local engagement of two weeks.

WISE BIBULOSITY.

The aforesaid Signor Berri—or plain Sparks Berry, if you like the pre-operatic spelling—has a friend in San Francisco who has learned, through a period of accident and recuperation, an economic lesson for future periods of inebriety.

Said he: "The other day an automobile hit me, threw me forty feet, broke my collar-bone and my contract, cut down a telephone pole with one of my little flying feet, and with the rest of my person mussed up a new cement sidewalk to the extent of complete ruination. Then an ambulance, with a driver and two nurses, took me to my house, and the two nurses put me to bed. When I got out, I received a bill for $5.

"I am never going to get so drunk again that I cannot call an ambulance instead of a cab. For merely dumping me on the sidewalk in front of my place the cabman invariably charges me $7.50."

"CONCHITA."

"Conchita," the new grand opera which Lambardi will give here the latter part of this month, has its music by Riccardo Zandonai, with a libretto by C. Zangarini and M. Vaucaire, from "La Femme et le Pantin," by Pierre Louys.

Louys is the author of "Aphrodite," a French novel which created some stir in its English translations—which, I believe, are now under the ban of the United States customs.

Like "Carmen," by Bizet after Prosper Merimee, "Conchita" is the story of a Seville cigarette girl.

DICK'S GREAT IDEA.

Dick Ferris plans now to put out "The Home Plate" as soon as he can get a new company, thoroughly rehearsed, and in fine working form.

Dick's great idea—and it may be a pretty good one—is to capture some big major league star, after the season is over, and send him with the show in the chief role, as a drawing card.

The dramatic critics of the cities might look askance upon Herr Ferris's commercializing of art, but the fans of Rushville Center certainly would throng the cityhouse to see the Napoleon of whom they had read so much in the Saturday night boiler-plate.

STANLEY OUT.

Forrest Stanley will go into temporary retirement during "A Dollar Did It," at the Burbank.

There is no part for him in the new piece, as the arrival of Walter Edwards has made the general cast so arranged that Stanley is inadvertenantly left out.

But Stanley is not sorry. He has been working very hard in San Francisco, and will be glad of a brief vacation.

He was in the North twenty weeks.

WHO WROTE IT?

"A Dollar Did It" is causing considerable local discussion, as brand new plays, "coming up," are wont to do.

But who did the "Dollar Did It?"

And Stuart denies, oh, so vigorously!

Yet—perhaps?

"The Gamblers"

sible for the Tiger's first run. Bayless, the first man up in the seventh, singled between them. Patsy should leave his legs in Sacramento the next time he comes here. Brashear went out, O'Rourke to Miller, and Bayless went to second. Dick raised his umbrella and trudged home when Hoop hit a Homeric single to right. These, mind you, were the only hits made off Arellanes up to the present writing. Patterson flew to Orr, and Litschi went out to Swain via the milky way.

The eighth was positively uneventful and the ninth opened with everyone heaping anathemas on the weatherman. Kane, angered by the condition of the climate and his failure to get anything but a couple of walks in the preceding innings, hit a resolute double to center. The drive would have gone for at least three bases had not "Deacon" Van Buren rattled over and hauled it in with one hand. But two bases, under the circumstances, were a sufficiency. Kane took third while O'Rourke was throwing Bayless out at first.

This brought the thing around to Roy Brashear. Roy simply dotes on breaking up games along about supper time. Many predicted that Arellanes would walk Brashear on the theory that discretion is the better part of valor. He may have contemplated something of this kind, but he didn't carry it through. Brashear interrupted any line of action with which it had been planned to thwart him, with a hissing line drive that went too far into left center that neither Swain nor Van Buren took the trouble to recover the ball. Their failure to do this may have been partly due to the fact that the ball was not the property of the visiting club. Having no use for it, why should they chase it? Kane had chased over the plate, and the rest of the players were chasing themselves to the clubhouse. Judging by yesterday's events, the present series will be quite hard-fought.

GREAT DUCK SEASON.

not be so good in another week, but the foreign birds which will come in, will be larger than the local ducks which were so plentiful yesterday.

George Cline stated last night that he had never seen ducks so plentiful. "I could almost knock them over with a stick," he declared. "I have shot ducks in this section for many seasons, but today there were more birds than ever before in the history of the sport."

At the Bixby Club, Jim Jeffries, Johnny Powers, Warren Hopperstead, Clarence Berry and Cy Myrick, got the limit by 5 o'clock.

Walter Hodges bagged the limit by 6:30 o'clock on the preserves of the Saamee Club. All other members of the Saamee got the limit also.

There were eighteen members of the Pasadena Duck Club down yesterday and 428 birds were killed, within twenty-two of the limit for the entire party.

At the Newport club everybody had shot the limit by 5 o'clock. Every man at the Pacific got the limit. All hunters got as well at the Cerritos club. Limits were bagged by all at the Bolsa Chica. At the Blue Wing and Canvas Back clubs everybody got the limit also.

Bernal Dyas, Dr. Clarence Moore, A. C. Parsons, Lou Melius and George Cline shot at the Gadwell club near Naples and came in with the limit early in the day. Cline had five big mallards in his bag, and Dr. Moore said there were millions of birds, all flying low.

Joe Amestoy got the limit at the Lomita.

J. A. Graves, A. L. Swartz, C. Gates, Karl Kiokke, Stoddard Jess and W. E. Keller shot at the Westminster. There were thirteen men on the preserve and there were thirteen limits bagged.

There were twenty-two guns on the West Shore club's preserve and twenty-two limits were brought in. W. H. Cline, Dr. Hagan, Paul Blair, Bill Cole, Harry Cole, F. K. Eckley, Bill Schneider, Pete Dansel, Jesse Wood and H. J. Foust, and others, all bagged the limits by 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Cook and Dr. Laubenheimer also brought down the limit at the West Shore. W. H. Cline said there was not a man in the crowd who did not get a full bag, and that there must have been between 500 and 600 birds shot on the West Shore alone by noon. The members of this club had voted to do no shooting after 12 o'clock.

Bill Ruess and Harry Lusk went up to Elizabeth Lake Monday and had not been heard from up to midnight, but it is certain that they will get the limit and have a lot of good sport.

The parties which headed for Bear Lake have not been heard from, but Will Tufts said yesterday that shooting should be good there as the birds were tame and were larger than those found at the local clubs.

Ed Tufts, W. H. Holmes and J. Schumacker came back from the Pacific Club with full bags.

The Finale.

The tragic last moments of Hartley Manners's play, "Barbaraza," in which Barbaraza (Laurette Taylor) slays The Wayfarer (David M. Hartford) after discovering that he is the man who slew her parents, but without knowing that he is the father of her lover. "Barbaraza" is in its second week at the Burbank.

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: The girl who is troubled with blackheads will be glad to learn of a new lotion which is said to completely remove these blemishes. With this comes an astringent to be used for closing the pores after the removal of fthe blackheads. No amount of trouble is too much to take to rid oneself of these unsightly defects.

The first violets!

They always give me a peculiar feeling of happiness. Not so fine are they at first, when they appear, upon the street stands, as later when more mature, but the later, finer ones, will not carry the joy of these first fragrant bouquets. They are, perhaps, like first love. But I wonder who owns to "first love" now a days, when children of 5 or less have already had several "affairs of the heart."

But, whatever customs or characters may change, the violets remain the same.

Imported Embroideries.

In one of the large stores which makes it a point to import the best of everything from garments to trimmings, I saw some exquisite examples of table linens in rich hand embroideries and real cluny lace. Extraordinarily large were these pieces for the amount of money asked, and handsome enough to use for truly State occasions.

One circular piece, especially, was of unusual design and I thought how very handsome it would be upon a table of rich mahogany.

This house has full lines in all imported embroideries, such as Maderia, Secilian and French hand work; and the prices are truly surprising in their moderation, for the qualities shown.

Inexpensive Handkies.

Truly, you would imagine them at least several times the prices which they are marked—those handkerchiefs, of real linen and hand-embroidery, some in floral designs and others with initials within a wreath.

From just a few cents apiece, and even less by the dozen, up to a fair price, but still moderate for the quality, these handkerchiefs are good enough for almost any kind of use, and some are sufficiently fine to use as gifts. Prudent persons are already beginning to think of and prepare for the holidays.

Buttons or Jewelry.

Truly, if you did not know about the craze for ornate buttons, you might imagine that you were looking at a jewelry counter, when you reach the button counter. Set with crystals, and of all the glorious colorings of precious and semi-precious stones, of all kinds of shapes and materials which are ornamental, buttons are really a most important part of dress, this season. Some of the huge, changeable ones used for trimming and for fastening great coats are most striking and rich. I saw in one of the Broadway shops a set which looked as though made from carved cat's eye, with ivory set as a center. Others of cut jet have centers of cut crystals, and those of pearl are apt to have crystal settings in the colorings of rubies, sapphires or jade. Buttons of jade or amber are especially popular, as real fastenings for the plain blouses of satin which are the season's fad.

A Novel Dish.

The Good Housekeeper has a new dish and she has told me how she makes it. From hamburger she forms round croquettes and making a nest in the center she places therein about a teaspoonful of uncooked rice and forms the meat on top, thus pressing the rice well within the center of the meat ball. The ball is then rolled in flour or in bread crumbs mixed with egg. She has ready a stew pan filled with boiling tomato sauce and into this she plunges the meat croquette. The intense heat quickly cooks the rice which distributes itself throughout the croquette in a novel fashion, and the tomato sauce adds flavor to the meat, being slightly absorbed and lending its savor far better than when simply applied after the dish is completed.

New Under Lingerie.

You have no doubt seen, admired and possibly coveted the undergarments of china silk in dainty shades; but perhaps you know, either by hearsay or by experience, that it is not extremely durable. Now there is similar wear of crepe de chine, every bit as dainty and more lasting. It comes in exquisite shades and made as only French people make such things. I saw a full line, recently imported by one of the Los Angeles houses.

Blooming Into Bloomers.

Some of the girls who dislike wearing underskirts have taken to bloomers underneath their gowns. When made from silk or some soft material, these are comfortable and are a sufficient protection to the form and yet do not cling about the knees and ankles as do the narrow skirts. For winter especially, these will be welcome, being warm if made in something with a little body, and yet not cumbersome.

Clever Opera Bags.

In a small shop which has "everything different," I saw such adorable little opera bags of fine tapestry, finished in gold galloons. Each has upon the lower side a small oblong mirror set so that one may turn it over and slyly catch a glimpse of one's powder-needing nose, or replace the ever straying locks which streak the face like wrinkles if allowed to have their own way.

Useful Book.

A current magazine contains many useful hints for finishing-stitches for completing the lingerie or silk blouse. So simple are many of these that anyone could learn them and they give a finish more chic than would trimmings of greater cost.

The Handy Girl.

The handy girl is already preparing for small Christmas gifts, some very pretty and inexpensive candy baskets.

She gathers up the summer hats and selects the ones which have ended their career, rips the straw apart and fashions it into flat, handled baskets. Sometimes she dyes the straw in pretty tints, using the "handy dyes." She lines the baskets with bits of silk, lace, or linen, running gathering strings through the upper edge. Filled with home-made candy, for which the handy girl is noted, these baskets make worthy gifts and are useful afterward for holding many things.

Rich Fabrics.

Some of the new importations of uncut velvets and velours are extremely rich. In a house which is particularly noted for its quality in such goods, I saw some two-toned and some in stripes combining several harmonious colorings, which were handsome enough to frame as works of art. They will be used for fashioning gowns and for parts of wraps, such as the panniers, or the yokes and sleeves, usually combined with plain velvets or velours in the prevailing tone of the more elaborate material.

Fashion's Whispers.

A costume novel and chic is made of black velvet with a tunic of white fisher net, trimmed with lace and deep fringe.

Quite the thing for automobiling is the limousine coat. It is made mostly of velvet or brocade and trimmed with fur.

Some of the new effective flouncings are of linen, and they show floral patterns in blind work, with an occasional lace medallion.

Plain frocks are decorated with groups of bar bows. A dark frock can be made much more gay if the bows are of contrasting color.

Muffs are to be larger this winter; in fact, they are to be of mammoth size. Also, we will have many original little fitments for the neck.

There is a new material called voile neige. It is distinguished by its quaint snowflake effect; it is of supple texture and exceedingly dainty.

COIN IS BURDENSOME.

Two Men Have Hands Full to Trundle Load of School Funds to County Treasury Vault.

In the presence of representatives of the District Attorney, County Auditor, Board of Supervisors and the County Treasurer, $500,456.84 was counted out yesterday and placed in the treasury for the payment of State school appropriations in the county. The money was transferred by State authorities at Sacramento to the First National Bank here, whence it was sent to the Hall of Records in an express wagon, guarded by four men literally armed to the teeth.

The coin was delivered in fifty canvas bags and two men had all they could do to wheel the truck on which it was taken to the vault. County Treasurer Hunt said that payments will begin at once and the whole sum will be exhausted in three weeks.

According to Hunt's books the county's assets at present are $3,125,-367.49. Of this $2,362,470 is out in loans, $7003.21 is in silver, $584,281.84 in gold, $73,901.63 in checks and other paper, $10,598.51 in State certificates, and $87,112.30 in miscellaneous items.

Suspicion's Finger Shifts.

WOMAN NOT AUTHOR OF THE BABY KILLING?

Whose Is This Baby?

This is a picture of the girl infant, murdered by drowning, whose body was found in a box in the Title Insurance and Trust building, this city, a week ago. The drawing was made by a Times staff artist from photographs in all possible poses of the tiny corpse, which is still unburied and waiting identification. It represents, as faithfully as possible, the probable appearance of the victim in life.

EXPERT medical evidence, the result of an exhaustive examination of the corpse of the murdered baby girl found a week ago in a room in the Title Insurance and Trust building, served yesterday to direct suspicion along lines other than those hitherto considered by the police as most likely to lead to the perpetrator of the atrocity.

Dr. Campbell, autopsy surgeon for the Coroner's office, followed his final and most complete inquiry with the declaration that, in all probability, the infant was not a first-born child, that it had received the loving and skillful care of a good mother, even to the fact of having been nourished very shortly before its destruction by drowning. The cumulative effect of this evidence, based largely on technical grounds, is such as to incline the detectives to the belief that the murderer was a man, and not, as has been conjectured, a woman.

To the detectives, at least, it is no longer a mystery why the tiny body was enveloped in wet clothing. Medical men say that decomposition can be concealed for an unusual length of time by so enveloping a body. The worn paper wrappings enclosing the box in which the body was encased, show that it had been handled for some hours before it was abandoned. This strengthens the belief of Detectives King and Murphy that the baby was drowned before being brought to Los Angeles.

The two detectives have practically completed an investigation of the vital statistics of the city and county. With the exception of less than a dozen cases, which are now being looked up, every baby born in this city or county during August has been accounted for. It is the consensus of medical opinion that the murdered child was born between August 1 and 15. During August, according to the statistics gathered by King and Murphy, there were between 400 and 500 boys and girls born in the city and county. About one-third of them were white girls.

Capt. Flammer yesterday sent out several hundred printed circulars on the mysterious baby case. They contained a half-tone of the infant's face. There was a minute description of the child and a succinct statement of when, where and under what circumstances it was found.

These circulars have been sent to peace officers within a radius of twenty-four hours' ride of Los Angeles, with the request that they make a personal investigation relative to a missing baby girl in their immediate vicinity.

Miss Mary C. Cunningham,

WOMEN'S WORK WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

Miss Mary Carruth Cunningham, professor of history and literature in Occidental College, and expert Bible teacher, resumed her place as instructor of Immanuel class in the First Congregational Bible-school last Sunday, after the summer vacation.

This class is composed of some eighty-five women and men who assemble Sunday after Sunday to listen with profound interest to the very scholarly lectures delivered by Miss Cunningham on Biblical topics. She brings to this work all her college culture and rich knowledge of Bible history with such effect that the room where the class assembles—in a corner of the balcony overlooking the Sunday-school rooms—is filled at each session.

Indeed, so much interest has been evinced that an effort has been made to induce Miss Cunningham to transfer the class-room to the main auditorium of the church, but to this the class—wisely—object on the grounds that the general disturbance occasioned by people assembling for the public service would rob the lectures of half their value, and it has been determined to continue the class in its old quarters where it has assembled for the past ten years.

When the size of the room becomes inadequate some sort of an arrangement will have to be made to accommodate the constantly growing attendance. Although the class-room is somewhat remote from the center of activity, the large number of interested people who continue to find their way there only goes to prove the truth of Emerson's philosophy that if a man (or woman) can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap, even though he builds his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his doors.

A Case of Killing by Kindness.

"Keeping Grandmother on the Job" is the title of a story in the current issue of The Housekeeper and the moral it contains is well worth while. This grandmother lived with her wealthy son and family and, in their mistaken kindness, poor little grandmother was not allowed to lift her hand to do a thing. She was cared for, and waited upon as if she were a frail, waxen doll that must be kept in a glass case.

Now grandmother had been a busy woman hitherto, all her life long, and this idleness got on her nerves, and she was restless and unhappy. Just one member of the family—her little grandson—was sharp enough to see what the trouble was, and the way that youngster developed a talent for tearing his clothes just to keep grandmother busy mending was a credit to his shrewdness.

"Grandmother's no loafer. She's spent her life right on the job. What are you trying to ditch her for?" was his indignant protest when other members of the family tried to interfere, and Bob certainly earned the right to the phrase, "the understandingest kind of a boy." Under his treatment, grandmother perked up and began to enjoy life again as her fingers flew mending Bob's clothes and darning his socks. She soon discovered that she had a lot to live for, since toil had not ceased and she was of definite use to some one.

Huntington Park Club.

The Woman's Club of Huntington Park will meet next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Emily McCord, No. 600 Lyfort avenue, Huntington court. The first meeting of the club year was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Mattoon last week.

From the stroke of the gavel by the new president, Mrs. Emma Ballard, to the finale of the dainty Japanese luncheon, all was unbounded enthusiasm for the club, and its success for the ensuing year. The retiring president, Mrs. Ollo Cowdin, to whom great credit is due for much of the substantial prosperity of the club in the past, in a brief address touched reminiscently on the work of the preceding year, in such a manner as to inspire high hope and courage for the future.

The roll-call was especially entertaining, each member responding with a recital of a vacation experience. Varied were the tales, many provoking laughter and all highly entertaining. Selections on the piano by Mrs. Lillian Rogers were well received, and Mrs. O. W. Leonard delighted the members with some of her inimitable songs. For the more serious work of the year the members will study the history and laws of California, attesting to the earnestness which womanhood, in California at least, is taking in her newly acquired citizenship.

California Badger Club.

The California Badger Club will hold its first meeting at its new home, in the Art and Travel Section-room of the Ebell clubhouse, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The programme for the day will be somewhat brief, to admit of a general handshaking and greeting of new members and the payment of dues. The year book is ready and will be distributed by the treasurer to all members who receive their cards.

The executive board met at the home of Mrs. Morgan Jones, the president, last Thursday, and many philanthropic matters were discussed. Active work is being planned and executed along several lines, notably prison reform and the co-operation of many local organizations is being given. The Coleman House Association is also arousing the interest of the club, and promises were made by members of the board to assist in furnishing the house that is to be used as the center of the settlement work. This work will be presented to the club on Wednesday and it is hoped will meet with the hearty support it deserves.

DOCTORS GAVE HER UP.

Mrs. Stuart Finally Saved By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Story Interesting.

Elmo, Mo.—"I think your Vegetable Compound is wonderful for it has helped me. I had four doctors and they said I had female troubles and a tumor and nothing but an operation would help me. I could not sit still long enough to eat, and could sleep hardly any I was in so much misery with pains in my side and back.

"A year ago last spring my doctor gave me up, and he was surprised to see me this spring and to see my condition. I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise wherever I go for I know I would not be here today or have our fine baby boy if I had not taken it." —Mrs. SARAH J. STUART, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 16, Elmo, Mo.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Name Over the Door

When you buy merchandise of any sort, jewels, clothing or household goods, are you not led to patronize some particular store in each line because of the stability of that house, the character of their goods and their reputation for square dealing, or, on the other hand, do you buy as cheaply as is possible, irrespective of quality or the reputation of the dealer?

To no purchase that you make should more thought, more care and more consideration be given than the buying of your piano, because under the beauties of the finely finished veneers of a piano lies a delicate mechanism, a constructive principle which, if properly and carefully made of good materials assembled by highly skilled workmen, will last and give satisfaction for an average lifetime. If, on the other hand, the same finely finished case covers what is termed the commercial piano, well—how are you to know?

THE NAME OVER THE DOOR is the best guarantee of the merchandise in the house. Our name has stood for more than thirty years for the highest, the most approved method of piano selling. That name is an unlimited guarantee as to price and quality—an insurance policy as it were that the instrument bought will prove satisfactory in every sense; that in finish, durability and musical quality it is the best possible at the price paid, and that that price is identically the same, save for the addition of Eastern freight, as the instrument would cost on the floors of its manufacturers in Chicago, New York or Boston.

Consult your own best interests when buying, and buy, not hastily, but after full deliberation. We gladly explain our easy payment plan and welcome investigation.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

UNIQUE PROOF OF HIS SANITY.

Pasadenan Adopts Method Peculiarly His Own.

Three Bids Received for the City Water Bonds.

12 Santa Fe Trains Blocked for Seven Hours.

PASADENA, Oct. 2.—Although he landed in the County Hospital with an insanity complaint against him, John D. Litcher, 24 years of age, yesterday insisted that in a peculiar manner he had demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is quite sane. He said that he had ridden a horse through town faster and turned more corners without being unseated than any man who ever lived. This, he told Justice of the Peace Dunham, before whom he was arraigned, he had done as a sort of test to show D. M. Linnard and Palmer Day, manager and assistant manager, respectively, of the Hotel Maryland, where he was employed about a year ago, that his mental equilibrium was all right. He maintained that the proof was conclusive.

But his feat in horsemanship proved to be a sort of boomerang, for instead of its having the effect he had counted on it is what caused him to be taken into custody. According to C. H. Kelly, special officer of the Pasadena Humane Society, who arrested him, the young man procured the horse that he rode last Monday from W. C. Bergman, who conducts a livery stable near the corner of Holly street and North Raymond avenue, and, after riding it mercilessly, left it all night in a bad condition in front of the Maryland Hotel, where it was rescued early yesterday morning by a policeman.

Kelly started out yesterday morning to find the man and to arrest him in charge of cruelty to animals. After he had searched in vain part of the day he learned, through the Emergency League, that a man of similar description had been making what he called "spiritual tests," and was believed to be mentally unbalanced. Kelly at length encountered Litcher as he came from the Young Men's Christian Association building complacently puffing at a pipe.

Litcher has been at different times a clerk at the Hollenbeck Hotel, and chief bellboy at the Alexandria Hotel, in Los Angeles, as well as a bellboy at the Maryland Hotel here. The charge of cruelty to animals was dismissed by Justice Dunham and Kelly swore to an insanity complaint. The man was taken to the County Hospital late in the afternoon by Deputy Constable Gougher.

BIDS ARE RECEIVED.

Three bids for all or a part of the $1,250,000 issue of municipal water bonds were received by the City Council yesterday, the second day that had been set for their receipt, none having come the first time.

The Union National Bank of Pasadena put in a bid for $1,000,000 flat, the State Board of Control on behalf of the State, bid for $250,000 flat, the State Board of Control, on behalf of the State, and S. A. Kean & Co., a Chicago bond-broking concern, offered to take the entire issue.

The Council referred the bids to City Attorney Carr, who yesterday afternoon consulted Henry J. Stevens of the Los Angeles law firm of O'Melveny, Stevens & Millikan, whose services the city has retained. A special session of the Council has been called for today but whether he and Stevens will be ready to make their report at this time Carr was unprepared to say last night.

The bid of the Union National Bank of this city comes as the result of an effort of the water companies whose holdings are to be taken over by the city to see that the bonds are marketed. The bank offers to take the $1,000,000 worth of bonds, payable on delivery the par value, accrued interest and premium thereon of $200 for the first 1000 of the bonds, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. The bid was accompanied by a certified check for $10,000 signed by H. J. Stuart, president of the bank, and it is made subject to the condition that at least $250,000 of teh bonds be sold to the State at par and accrued interest.

The State's bid reads:

"The State Board of Control on behalf of the State of California hereby bids par and accrued interest to date on delivery of 250 municipal improvement bonds of the city of Pasadena at $1000 each, said bonds bearing interest at the rate of 4¼ per cent. per annum, this bid to be made on the following conditions:

"First, that the validity of said bonds and of all proceedings relating to their issuance and sale be approved by the Attorney-General of the State. Second, that said bonds be delivered to the State Treasurer and payment received therefor at the State capital in Sacramento without further expense to the State."

The third offer, of the Chicago company, is a bid at 100.10, or $1,252,000, for the entire issue, the bonds being delivered at San Francisco and the principal payable at Los Angeles or New York.

TRAINS ARE TIED UP.

The breaking of an axle on the forward truck of the tender of the Santa Fe Angel, southbound from San Francisco, between Los Robles and Marengo avenues, caused the line to be tied up for seven hours yesterday. The accident occurred at 8:45 o'clock in the morning and it was 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon before the wrecked tender had been cleared away.

No one was injured and the train did not leave the track. Most of the passengers continued their journey to Los Angeles by electric car, those remaining later being transferred to another train, which was brought from Los Angeles. Eastbound trains were routed from Los Angeles by the way of Riverside. The Limited lay on the track behind the stalled train for two hours. Several other trains waited on the track for a short time, making a long string of cars. Freight trains were delayed at other points on the line on account of the accident.

PREDICTS GOOD SEASON.

Walter Raymond, proprietor of the Hotel Raymond, and Mrs. Raymond and their two children returned home yesterday from nearly a four months' trip abroad. They left Pasadena June 15, last, and, after a seven weeks' tour of the European continent, made an extended visit in London, stopping for a while in the White Mountains and going on into Canada on their way home. Altogether they traveled 15,000 miles.

Raymond said last night that he will open his hotel December 19, which is the Thursday before Christmas, the usual date for the opening of the season there.

"The prospects for a good season were never better," he said last night. "I believe that this will be the banner year. People from all parts of the world are headed for Southern California."

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Mrs. Eliza Weight Lowe, a pioneer resident of the city, died at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at her home, No. 254 Henrietta court, at the age of 83 years. She had been in ill health for a long time.

Mrs. Lowe, who was a native of England, came to Pasadena in 1874. She leaves two sons, M. H. Weight and F. H. Lowe; four grandsons, Erle M. Weight, Harry L. Lowe, H. E. Lowe and F. K. Lowe, and three great granddaughters, Frances Margaret Weight, Anita Jane Weight and Francis Lowe, all residents of Pasadena.

Funeral services will be held at the chapel of Reynolds & Van Nuys tomorrow (Thursday) at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Friends are invited. Interment will be made at Mountain View Cemetery.

FIRST RAIN FALLS.

The first rain of the season began falling here yesterday, three days later than the first rain came last year. The precipitation amounted to nothing more than what will be registered as a "trace" by the weather observer, but the shower was much talked about and umbrellas were got out and opened.

CHANGE UNIFORMS.

The Pasadena police yesterday put away their olive drab uniforms and donned blue for the winter. A few slight changes have been made in the cut of these uniforms from those worn last winter, and caps will be worn instead of helmets, which have been abandoned for good and all.

The patrolmen and officers will wear service bands on their sleeves. Sergeant A. O. Bristol, who has been a member of the Police Department for nineteen years, has four bands, each signifying four years' service.

AUTOIST KILLS DOG.

Jack, a handsome collie owned by Mrs. M. C. MacColl, of No. 781 Magnolia avenue, was run over and killed by an automobilist on South Marengo avenue yesterday morning. The driver of the car did not stop to make inquires or even to see if the dog was dead. Mrs. MacCall, who reported the incident to the Humane Society, also declared that he was exceeding the speed limit. She did not have the number of the automobile and so the Human Society can do nothing.

WOMAN FALLS UNDER HORSE.

Monrovia Teacher Narrowly Escapes Serious Injury — Neighbors Called to Quiet a Blacksmith.

MONROVIA, Oct. 1.—Miss Allie Taylor, instructor of music and physical training in the High School, narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon at Santa Ana, when a fractious horse, which she was riding, fell, slipping upon the wet asphalt pavement. In falling, Miss Taylor was unable get clear of the saddle, so that the left knee and ankle were badly crushed by the weight of the animal's body. Luckily the shock of the fall freed her from the stirrups, for the horse immediately bolted, and, had she been caught, the consequences would have undoubtedly have proved grave. As it was, she is at present attending to her duties on crutches, but hopes to be on her feet in a few days.

DRUNKEN BLACKSMITH.

The police were called to the home of Walter Hansen, a blacksmith, at No. 315 S. Heliotrope street, late last night, by neighbors, who said that Hansen, who had been drinking heavily for the past two weeks, had threatened to kill his wife, and that she, with her baby, was seeking a place to spend the night. Upon the appearance of the officers, however, Mrs. Hansen refused to swear out a warrant for his arrest, saying that, except when under the influence of drink, he was an ideal husband. With an admonition as to his future behavior, the case was dropped. Mrs. Hansen has gone to the home of her father, who is a rancher living in the vicinity of El Monte.

Long Beach.

BEACH FAVORS COAST ROAD

Boulevard Association President Advances Reasons.

Postal Receipts Show Marked Increase Annually.

Long Beach Is to Have a New Department.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 1.—If Los Angeles county loses the benefit of the State money in constructing the coast highway along her water front no one will be to blame but the people who are interested, says President Louis Whealton of the Coast Boulevard Association. If they give their financial and moral support to the association the real coast highway is yet a possibility.

Mr. Whealton says the Highway Commission's decision for a road around Point Magu is still pending, and the coast association does not propose to give up the fight until the last cent of the $18,000,000 is expended unless the commission concedes before that time the point contended for.

"If this coast road is not built," said Mr. Whealton today, "it will mean that there will be less than one hundred miles of State highway in Los Angeles county, though we have to pay a good-sized chunk of the big fund to be raised by taxation, and it is to the interest of the entire county to work for the proposition, even though the beach cities in a measure will benefit. The Connejo Pass route favored by the commission presents a terrific grade, while the coast road as surveyed by the coast association has no grade greater than three per cent. For several miles the cost would be large, but it will provide the best road from every point of view. In order to make additional and convincing reports money is needed for more surveys and a checking up of those authorized by the commission. This will require about $2500, and a call for this amount will be made at once upon all the towns interested in the project.

POSTAL RECEIPTS.

Postmaster Hirsch reports receipts during September of $5,400.26, which is an increase of 15 per cent. over the same month last year. Receipts for the quarter show a gain of $1974.36, or 11 per cent. The year's total will show a big increase over 1911. The first interest on deposits in the postal savings branch will be paid November 1.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Long Beach is to have a department of weights and measures, an ordinance to that effect passing its first reading last night. A question was raised in the discussion of the matter as to the enforcement of the ordinance as it is claimed that California has no standard of weights and measures and therefore the Secretary of State cannot certify the standards to be adopted by Long Beach as being official and in conformity with those adopted by the United States government. The City Attorney ruled that the city could adopt its own standards, which will be in conformity with the standards in general use but their official correctness will be certified to by the city only.

JANITORS REBEL.

The janitors of the public schools have rebelled against being compelled to open schoolhouses two hours earlier and close them at most any hour of night whenever an election occurs and have asked the City Council for an extra allowance of $3 on each such occasion to compensate them for the extra hours and extra work necessitated in cleaning up after careless and slovenly election boards.

COURT INVESTIGATION.

The police say they court the alleged investigation into their action in deporting three Hindus from the city, and who have complained to the British Vice-Consul. Chief Austin says that two of the Hindus followed two married women on the Pike and streets and became so obnoxious in their attentions that the ladies complained to the police on reaching their homes. The Hindus became suspicious and hastened back to the Pike where they were picked up and taken to the station, where after being quizzed, the police rather than put the city to expense of a trial advised them to leave town within fifteen minutes. The duo complied but first went and awakened a third who had gone to bed and persuaded him to go with them. The officers say the fellows were lucky in being allowed to depart peaceably.

NEWS BRIEFS.

SEWER COMMISSION PLANS.

Meeting Will Be Held at Christopher's Today in Conjunction With Delegates from Various Cities.

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 1.—A meeting of the Outfall Trunk Line Sewer Commission will be held at Christopher's, No. 551 South Broadway, Thursday of this week, at which the Sewer Commission will meet with delegates from the eighteen cities concerned, to hear reports from the special committee appointed to retain legal counsel for the purpose of preparing a bill for presentation at the coming session of the Legislature, for the creation of a sewer and drainage district in the territory served by the sewer.

This committee will also hold a session with the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, for the purpose of taking up with them, the plans of the Sewer Commission, and to secure their co-operation in connection with the proposed legislation.

In the matter of levying taxes for the construction of the sewer, many fine points as to the division of cost between the incorporated and unincorporated portions of territory to be served, will have to be solved. Naturally the greatest burden will come upon the cities where the assessed valuation of the county is largely concentrated.

As to the form of the commission that will finally handle the construction of the sewer, the laws adopted in similar instances in other States, and experiences of all well-known sewer districts throughout the United States will be taken as guides by the Outfall Commission. Particular attention will be given to the metropolitan district in Massachusetts, where great success has been achieved in the handling of a sewer that drains a large portion of the State.

The committee in charge of laying plans, headed by John D. Reavis, will make a comprehensive report at this meeting.

TANGLE UNRAVELED.

Now that the legal tangle concerning the paving of Huntington drive, has been settled by the courts, the work of paving this road will commence immediately, in an endeavor to get it completed before the winter rains set in.

Judge Monroe decided yesterday that the original agreement must be carried out. The plaintiffs, W. C. McNeil, W. W. Huntington, Frank A. Stephens, L. Judd, J. F. Schmitz, Samuel Allison and C. A. Thomas filed an injunction suit the early part of July, claiming that the Pacific Electric should pay not only one-fourth of the entire total, as agreed in return for a freight-carrying franchise, but that the company should also pay its pro-rata share of the balance by an assessment upon its private right of way, after the said one-fourth had been deducted. The suit was first argued August 12 under Judge Conley in Department 1 of the Superior Court, who took the case under advisement, and he denied same August 25, which left the city with hands free pending the case yesterday.

When the contract was let for the drive, it was let taking in street intersections, and Ernest Sutton, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Henry Hawgood, member of the same body, interviewed Paul Shoup, of the Pacific Electric, and gained from him the agreement to pay for one-fourth of the paving, taking in the street intersections as well, making the company pay $3000 more than was originally intended, thus the City Council feels that the property holders had no grounds for complaint as they were getting the best of the bargain. It is stated that the amount involved for each fifty foot lot was $10.

POLICE CHIEF ELOPES TO WED.

Redondo Official Astonishes His Friends by Leaving Town to Its Fate and Marrying Widow.

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 1.—Redondo Beach is without a Chief of Police tonight, as that official, John Keppel, eloped today with Mrs. Clara Heath, a widow of that city, and the pair were married at Ventura.

The Marshal was granted a ten days' leave of absence by the City Council last week, and yesterday he stated to other officials of the City Hall that he was going on a vacation somewhere out of the county today, but said nothing of a wedding.

Today it was learned that he and Mrs. Heath left this morning in an automobile for Los Angeles and took the 8:10 train for Ventura, where they were married this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Christian Church.

The bride is the widow of the late S. V. Heath of this city, and by reason of her pleasing personality is popular in many social circles here. She has made her home here for the past ten years.

Marshal Keppel is a brother of Mark Keppel, county school superintendent, and for the past two years has been on the police force here. Last April he was appointed City Marshal.

Mr. and Mrs. Keppel kept the details of their marriage a secret to all friends and relatives until this morning, when they took the son of Mrs. Keppel, Louis H. Heath, and his wife into their confidence. Mr. and Mrs. Heath accompanied them to Los Angeles.

After a ten days' honeymoon spent at Wheeler's Springs, Ventura county, Mr. and Mrs. Keppel will return here and live at No. 213 South Catalina avenue.

Believes This Will "Cure Lung Troubles"

Consumption is a flattering disease—that is one of its chief dangers. Those who have it are rarely willing to acknowledge the fact. If this trouble is present, it is no time for trifling. If a so-called "cold" has long persisted; if a cough is present that keeps you anxious, or any of the symptoms are present, such as fever or night sweats, weakness and loss of appetite, and perhaps some raising of mucus—do the sensible thing—take Eckman's Alterative—as Mr. Bettersworth did.

Bowling Green, Ky., R. No. 4.

'Gentlemen: I wish to say for your Alterative that I believe it to be a medicine of unequaled value for all Bronchial and Lung trouble. The Spring of 1903, I had a severe cough for six months. I tried all the medicine that my doctors recommended to me, but no results came for the better. I had night sweats, and would cough and spit until I got so weak I could hardly do anything. But, at last, James Deering, of Glasgow Junction, insisted that I try your medicine. In one week's time there was quite an improvement in my condition, and after I had taken several bottles, I felt as well as ever in my life.

"I desire the world to know that I firmly believe that your Eckman's Alterative will cure any case of lung trouble if taken before the last stage. I will gladly write personally to any party wanting information in regard to your wonderful medicine." (Sworn affidavit) A. C. BETTERSWORTH.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

Boy Falls Under Car and Has Foot Mangled.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 1.—One of the worst windstorms in many months visited this section today. Hardly any part of the county was exempt. On the desert the storm raged with a fury hardly ever surpassed. The effect of the desert storm was seen from here, high columns of sand being seen clouding the sky to the north and east. At times the winds swept from the desert to this valley, and genuine Mojave Desert sand fell in torrents in some sections of the valley.

The winds were vagrant, now blowing from the southeast, then from the north. Once during the forenoon the air currents switched due north. During the afternoon the wind has prevailed generally southeast, giving indication of possible showers following in the wake of the unusual atmospheric disturbance. Ranchers with hay down were busy hurrying the stacking of their fields, while baled hay was hurried under cover.

MILITARY POLICEMAN.

Lieut. B. V. Hogue of Co. K, N. G.C., will tomorrow night be formally appointed as a member of the local police department. He succeeds to the vacancy made by the resignation of Patrolman Bigger. Lieut. Hogue becomes night desk sergeant. His advent onto the police force is expected to bring to the department an appreciation of military discipline. Hogue has been a member of Co. K for many years, and is regarded as one of the best qualified members of the militia to take hold of the police department with an idea of inculcating the strict rules necessary for the right maintenance of the regulations.

FOOT CUT OFF.

Warren Smithson, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Smithson, a pioneer family, suffered a frightful accident Friday at Riverbank, in Kern county, according to news received from San Francisco today. He fell beneath the wheels of a Santa Fe engine. The left foot was crushed off at the instep and all the toes of the right foot were taken off. He was hurried 200 miles to the hospital at San Francisco. It is believed that he will recover.

SUES STATE TREASURER.

Walter Walker began suit in the Superior Court here today against State Treasurer E. D. Roberts to recover $1250 alleged to be due as damages because the manager of the Roberts vineyard refused to carry out the terms of an agreement whereby Walker was to haul all the crop to the Brookside winery in his wagons. After this agreement was made the foreman of the vineyard contracted with auto trucks to haul the crop.

EMPLOY A PUBLICITY MAN.

Imperial Engages a Man Who Is Renowned for His Ability to Convince His Hearers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

IMPERIAL Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Imperial City has engaged the services of Ed. Carter, an experienced publicity man from Idaho, who will carry on an extensive advertising campaign in the interest of Imperial City and Imperial Valley. Mr. Carter comes with excellent recommendations from his former fields of operation. He will meet all eastbound trains at Yuma and will explain the many advantages of Imperial Valley to the homeseekers.

WILL PAVE STREETS.

A large meeting of representative business men of Imperial, at a mass meeting decided to approve of the Trustees' action in declaring the intention of paving the streets of Imperial City and work will be commenced at once. There was some opposition to the proposed improvement and the mass meeting was called for the purpose of getting opinion of citizens. Non-resident property owners were mainly responsible for agitation against the paving project. Business men were unanimous in favor of the work. Concrete pavement will probably be put down.

WILL ADD A VAST AREA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HOLTVILLE, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bids for the construction of the first five miles of the new eastside main canal were opened today by Water Company Number Five, the company which will construct the canal. Walker Brothers of El Centro were the lowest bidders and the contract was let to this firm. There were nine bids ranging from fourteen and half cents per yard to thirty-three cents. Walker Brothers announce the immediate commencement of work and Water Company Number Five will submit specifications and advertise for bids for additional sections of this canal, which will be nearly fifty miles in length and will add at least a hundred thousand acres to the irrigable land area in Imperial Valley.

CALL TO REDLANDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SIOUX CITY (Iowa) Oct. 1.—Rev. Ralph P. Smith, for the last ten years rector of the St. Thomas Episcopal Church here, today accepted a call to Trinity Church, Redlands, Cal.

SOUNDS CARRY FORTY MILES.

Fullerton Man Has Machine Which Conveys Notes from Long Beach to Points Far Away.

FULLERTON, Oct. 1.—A story was published in The Times a few days ago telling how Mr. Battle of Fullerton heard mysterious voices and phonograph music on his wireless telegraph station at the local water plant. His receiving outfit showed that the sounds came from a distance of about thirty miles, but as he had no sending outfit, he could not locate the exact station which he believed was experimenting on a wireless telephone apparatus.

The story was read by Mr. Miller of Long Beach, who is making these experiments, and he called Mr. Battle up by phone and stated that he was making these experiments and had been at it for two or three weeks, but he was greatly surprised to learn that the voices and music had been heard so far away—in fact, he thought the sounds were caught only by the other plant in Long Beach.

When Battle was first called up, he said to Miller: "You are playing a phonograph now and I can hear it right in Fullerton as well as if the phonograph was here in my office." Miller replied: "You are right, we are playing it now." Battle informed Mr. Miller what was being played.

When Miller first called up by phone Battle immediately recognized his voice as being the one he had heard in the experimental work, which had been carried on for days.

Mr. Miller will come to Fullerton so that he can talk direct with his Long Beach office, over forty miles away.

ORANGE GROWERS MEET.

Hemet Association Elects New Officers and Felicitates Membership Over Close of Successful Season.

HEMET, Oct. 1.—At the annual meeting of the Hemet Orange Growers' Association organization for the ensuing year was effected. The officers to head the organization will be: D. W. Amos, president; Gerald Graham, vice-president; S. W. Stetson, secretary, and C. B. Covell, treasurer.

The members of the association in informal discussion expressed themselves as highly pleased with the results of the past year and the development of the orange industry in this section. Despite the frost of last season, returns show that the amount of fruit raised in the valley increased materially last year, and the quality was superior to that of any previous season. The matter of extensions of the association's packing plant to include a cooling and storage department was taken up at this meeting, and it was tentatively decided to construct a cellar under the building in such a way that it would serve as a storage room.

The Woman's Social and Civic Club of Hemet effected a reorganization at their first meeting since last June, held yesterday at the home of its president, Mrs. E. P. Burnham. An informal discussion of the High School as a social center preceded the business meeting and programme, and it was decided to ask the board of trustees of the High School to open the building to the various civic organizations of the town.

Prof. Hanna of the High School was present and addressed the meeting on the "School of the Future." He advocated the development of the vocational school, including the plea that in making the school vocational the adaptability and pliability of the course in its relation to the student be taken into account. He suggested as a practical method of bringing the efficiency of the schools to a higher standard, better training of the teachers and the decreasing of the class unit.

Prof. A. N. Wheelock delivered the initial lecture of a series to be given this year at the High School, last Friday afternoon in the school auditorium. This is the beginning of a number of lectures arranged for by the faculty of the school in which a number of the leading educators of Southern California will be heard. Prof Waddle of the Los Angeles Normal will deliver the next lecture. Prof. Wheelock's lecture, though informal in tone, was an able defense of the present school system, and embodied a successful refutation of the charges of inefficiency brought against the system by the radicals of the educational world. It further contained an optimistic view of the future of the present system.

COLTON.

COLTON, Oct. 1.—Miss Hazel Deakins and Charles Nicholson Ray of this city were married by Rev. Mr. Fessenden at San Bernardino yesterday afternoon. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ray returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Deakins of Colton avenue, where a wedding dinner was served. Both bride and groom are well known here, where they will make their future home.

Maurice Ward met with an accident yesterday while operating a combination meat and coffee grinder, which cost him the loss of his first two fingers of his left hand. The lad was operated upon by Dr. J. A. Champion and Dr. F. H. Pritchard.

Riverside.

GROWERS HAVE LOST RIGHTS.

Riverside Meeting Marked by Some Candid Oratory.

Two Hours' Debate Over Elections in Prospect.

Liquor and Automobiles Are Source of Revenue.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 1.—That 90 per cent. of the entire California citrus production is now marketed under the "tramp car" system, wherein the fruit is turned over to large forwarding concerns, such as the Exchange, and that fully 75 per cent. of the intelligent growers of Southern California have relinquished their rights to even place a value on their productions, was the declaration of Manager Llewellyn A. Banks of the Pacific Coast Auction Company, at a mass meeting of fruit growers.

The meeting was called to order at 10:30 o'clock at the Woman's Clubhouse, and was in continuous session until 4 o'clock. There were a number of growers present from outside districts, among them Kenneth McRae of Rialto, who declared himself in favor of the home auction selling plan, which he believes would eliminate the possibility of red-ink sales.

In referring to the California Fruit Exchange, which handles a large percentage of the fruit, Mr. Banks stated that as a result of this system of marketing there had developed a condition which perhaps was not originally intended.

"With a loss of individual control," he said, "we now have centralized control, and with centralized control we have the inevitable trust control, trust methods, trust influence and trust results. This trust control holds dominion over 90 per cent. of your entire California citrus production.

"When the scientific growers attempt to dictate to the scientific distributors how the distributor shall conduct his business, the grower is out of his sphere, he gets immediately into deep water, and founders. The results are always disastrous."

The number of elections in sight in the next three months, including the general election in November, the prospective water-bond election and the pool-hall referendum election, led to a two hours' debate before the City Council this morning as to the advisability of the order in which to hold the two special elections.

It was the fear of Mayor Peters and a majority of the Councilmen that to hold the referendum election, which is to determine whether the ordinance providing for the Sunday closing of pool halls shall stand, had better be deferred, on the ground that it might engender feeling that would endanger the bond election.

Those in favor of an early submission of the moral issue were equally sure that to postpone action would have an unfavorable effect on the bond election. A motion to hold the referendum election on November 18, before the bond election can possibly be arranged for, failed to carry. This suits the pool-hall men, who, through every delay of this kind, are postponing the day when they must close on Sundays, for the initiative petition which resulted in the ordinance was the most-largely-signed document ever presented to the Council in the history of the city.

The banner month in the history of the city, so far as the collection of fines goes, was September, the police department taking in $1048. Of this amount, $750 was collected for the violation of the liquor ordinance, and the larger part of the remainder was for violations of the traffic ordinance.

ONE HUNDRED WILD ATTEND.

Bishop Is to Have a Harvest Festival and Many Newspaper Men Will Be City's Guests.

W. C. Parcher, editor and proprietor of the Inyo Register, returned to that city yesterday after a visit made to Los Angeles to make arrangements for the visit of Southern California editors to his city.

The members of the Editorial Association will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce at Bishop during the Harvest Festival this month. The men of the quill will leave Los Angeles on a special train on the evening of October 10, and will return to Los Angeles the following Monday morning. Plans have been made for banquets and auto drives and various other forms of amusement while the newspaper men are visiting in the north. One of the features will be a dance by the Piute Indians, and it is said that these noble red men have been practicing for their exhibition for several weeks.

It is estimated that one hundred editors and publishers will attend the festival and participate in the hospitality of the people of Bishop.

El Centro.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A young man well-dressed and of good appearance walked into the Sheriff's office this morning and announced that he did not know who he was, nor where he was from. Officers, upon searching him, found papers which probably will identify. Receipts from Eagle's lodge at Elbe, Wash., in the name of W. E. Sturtevant showed he had paid his dues in that lodge on September 16. A memorandum book gave details of his journey from Elbe to Los Angeles and a pawn ticket for a receipt for a watch showed he was in Los Angeles on September 28.

The man's name is undoubtedly W. E. Sturtevant, and he probably has a wife and baby either in Elbe or in Los Angeles, as a postal card with the name of Mrs. W. E. Sturtevant with no postoffice address was also found on his person. He is apparently rational with the exception of a total loss of memory as to happenings prior to September 29, when he claims he found himself on the desert near Brawley. Sturtevant undoubtedly left Los Angeles on September 28 and was sent to Brawley as a cook. He worked one day in a hotel at Brawley and then disappeared. He does not remember any wife or child, does not know his name, age or occupation. Local members of the Eagles Lodge are endeavoring to get some information regarding the man and will take care of him in the meantime.

Rules That Will Govern The Times Booklovers' Contest

The contest is open to everybody. Only Times employees and members of their families are barred. Daily for 77 days will be published in The Times a picture representing the title of a book, one each day. Beneath this picture will be a coupon to fill in with the name of the book and the author, together with name and address of entrant.

Cut out the picture and coupon, filling in the book title and author's name, writing your name and address neatly and plainly in the place provided.

No restrictions are placed on the manner in which answers to pictures are secured. Each picture represents the title of one book only. If you are not certain of your solution you may send in one to ten answers to the picture. NO MORE THAN TEN ANSWERS WILL BE ACCEPTED TO A PICTURE. Incorrect answers will not count against contestant if correct answer is also given. And put one answer to each picture and coupon. Extra coupons must be secured and used for extra answers. All answers to each picture must be kept together in compiling your set.

Additional pictures and coupons may be obtained at The Times office, by mail or by person. Answers will not be accepted unless they are properly filled out on the coupons appearing beneath each picture. It is necessary that pictures be sent in with the answers in order that all answers may be uniform.

When you have all 77 answers, fasten them together and bring them or mail them in a neat flat package—not folded or rolled—to The Times office, addressed "BOOKLOVERS' CONTEST EDITOR." Prizes will be awarded contestants sending in the largest number of correct solutions. In the event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, the person using the smallest number of extra coupons in the set of answers will be declared the winner. In event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, and using the same number of coupons, an equal interest in the prizes tied for will be given to each of the tying contestants, or the persons involved in the tie may choose any one of the other lesser prizes.

More than one prize will not be awarded to any one family, but each member of the family may enter the contest and submit a complete set.

Only one complete set (comprising not more than 10 answers to any one picture) of answers may be submitted by a contestant. Awards will be made strictly according to the merit of each separate list. The names of more than one person must not be written on any one coupon.

All answers will be considered on their merits. The first set filed will have no preference over the last set filed; provided only that answers must be filed within the time specified after the last picture has appeared.

The awards will be made by the Contest Editor and three well-known citizens whose names will be announced later.

The correct answers to the series of pictures will be filed with a local trust company or bank a week previous to the close of the contest.

Entry to the contest may be made at any time. All communications or letters of inquiry concerning the contest should be addressed to the Booklovers' Contest Editor, The Times.

STOCK LETTER.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—From the backing and filling which was witnessed today it was difficult to determine just what was the desire of the interests which at the present time dominate the course of prices, but it was quite apparent that the heavy selling of American issues which emanated from London, and which was estimated to have been around 100,000 shares, did much toward holding bullish operations in check, except perhaps in a few selected stocks. With the near approach of elections and all the uncertainties in the money position such as will preclude the probability of a substantial expansion of loans for stock market purposes, it is believed that trading will drift from the higher to the lower-priced issues, and that the disposition to secure profits on the high-priced stocks will be more pronounced than heretofore. Of course, it is true that underlying conditions are most satisfactory, but so far the advance in security prices has failed to stimulate material outside participation which, it is generally conceded, is most essential to the success of an upward move, particularly when the distribution period approaches.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Since the decline in the receipts of fresh fruit on the local market, arrivals of dried fruits and nuts are gradually increasing. The prune and raisin crops are now being harvested in the northern sections, and several large shipments of both products have been received. There is also a considerable quantity of dried apricots on the market, which comes in from Orange county. They are selling at 10 to 12 cents a pound. Some dealers say the demand for dried fruits is not sufficient to warrant large shipments, but it is expected to grow stronger, as the supply of fresh fruits becomes shorter.

The first considerable shipment of almonds amounting to about thirty sacks, came in yesterday, and the nuts were quoted as low as 10 cents. Arrivals of almonds so far have been irregular, most of them coming from local sections which do not produce the major portion of the crop.

The almond crop in the north is expected to be a little short of last year's, and estimates are for a 1200 to 1400-ton output. As Californ is the only section in the United States where almonds are grown on a commercial scale, it is absolutely impossible to fill the demand of the country with domestic nuts. Consequently large quantities are imported every year.

The new price on walnuts will probably be made in several days, and the crop this season is estimated to be of average size, although a little short of that of last year. As with almonds California is the only section of the country where walnuts are grown commercially to any extent. Although the walnut crop is far larger than the almond output and amounts to about 10,000 to 12,000 tons in an average year, a considerable quantity of the nuts are also imported from Europe. It is likely however that a few years hence California will be producing half again as many walnuts as she does now, because the acreage is being extended. More almonds are also being planted.

Arrivals of fresh fruit were light. About thirty boxes of very fine pomegranates came in, and a shipment of cranberries from Cape Cod.

There were no changes in the staple market, and receipts were as follows: Eggs, 73 cases; butter, 12,681 pounds; cheese, 60 pounds; potatoes, 4717 sacks; onions, 1623 sacks; apples, 21,726 boxes.

MARKET IS MORE CHEERFUL IN CHICAGO.

Uncertainty and Nervousness of Previous Day Give Way to a Better Feeling that Sends Prices Up Slightly—Wheat Strengthens on Possibility of War in the Balkans.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Nervousness about the war scare in the Balkans gave wheat prices today an upward slant. The market closed steady, ½@¾ to ⅞@1 higher than twenty-four hours before. December wheat fluctuated between 89⅝@90⅝, with last sales 90⅜, a rise of ⅝@¾ net. Corn closed ½@¾ to 1⅛ net lower. Oats closed unchanged to a sixteenth off. Provisions closed unchanged to 20 up.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour—Steady. Rye—No. 2, 87½@89½. Barley—Feed or mixing, 47@71; fair to choice malting, 69@75. Timothy seed—2.50@4.00. Clover seed—13.00@18.00. Mess pork—16.65@16.75. Lard—(In tierces,) 11.17½. Short ribs—(Loose,) 10.12½@10.62½.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Total clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 646,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,718,000 bushels, compared with 1,394,000 bushels the corresponding day a year ago. The world's visible supply, as shown by Bradstreet's, increased 2,400,000 bushels. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 94 cars; corn, 223 cars; oats, 326 cars; hogs, 25,000 head.

RUMORS OF WAR SEND UP MONEY.

THE BALKAN TROUBLE CAUSES FOREIGN HEAVINESS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Heaviness on the foreign exchanges, caused by the Balkan situation, the decision of the Treasury Department that its aid will be required to facilitate the movement of crops, and another flurry in call money to 7 per cent. were the factors of varying degrees of influences in today's stock market. While call loans did not touch yesterday's high rate, which marked a record for almost eighteen months, today's renewal rate of six and a half per cent. is the highest for the current year. Prices opened materially lower on further heavy selling by London, that market unloading some 40,000 shares, chiefly steel. Other weak issues included Canadian Pacific, the Harrimans, Northern Pacific and Great Northern, Oregon. Offerings appeared to be well absorbed however and the market rebounded sharply. Another selling movement set in at midday, when money touched its high quotation and prices went lower than at the outset. In the late afternoon money fell under 6 per cent. and the entire list strengthened materially, the only notable exceptions being Northern Pacific and steel. The closing was active, but irregular on profit taking, which was without material effect on Reading, St. Paul and Canadian Pacific, the latter more than making up its early decline. Woolworth was the most conspicuous specialty, rising four points. The Pennsylvania and the New York, New Haven and Hartford roads made fairly good returns for August, while those of New York Central and Northern Pacific were quite the reverse. The bond market was easier. Total sales par value, $1,817,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Webster registered at the Lankershim yesterday from Chicago. They came from Oregon, where Webster painted the portraits of some prominent persons. He is here to paint the portrait of Mrs. Elizabeth Boynton Harbert, writer and clubwoman of Pasadena. This painting will be hung in the living-room of the new Women's Clubhouse of Evanston, Ill., of which Mrs. Harbert is one of the founders and the first president. From here Mr. and Mrs. Webster will go to Paris, and in the French capital the artist will paint the portrait of Felice Lyna, the young American prima donna who has sprung into sudden fame in European countries and will appear for the first time in her home city, Kansas City, this month.

H. G. Ladier is registered at the Hollenbeck from Amarillo, Tex., where he is at the head of the government experimental farm raising sheep, goats and hogs. "We are continually developing better qualities in sheep and other animals," he said.

S. A. Upton, United States Marshal at Tombstone, is also at the Hollenbeck. A. M. Vander Byle, a young English tourist, registered at the Hollenbeck yesterday from London and will take a house at one of the seaside resorts for the winter.

Dr. John B. McCann is one of a number of Pittsburgh tourists who registered at the Angelus yesterday. Among the other guests from the same place are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Egan, Hugh Lynn and Earl Lynn, the two latter connected with one of the largest steel mills of Pittsburgh. Among the other guests at the same hotel are M. D. Dalton, a mining engineer of New York, who has interests in this section, and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. McMahon of Colorado Springs. McMahon is also interested in mining.

Mayor James E. Wadham of San Diego registered at the Van Nuys yesterday. He is on a short vacation and is going on an auto tour to Mt. Whitney and the west side of the Owens River country. Dr. C. L. Caver is another San Diego citizen who is registered at the same hotel. Oliver Mitchell, who has oil interests in the Bakersfield district; N. F. Wilson and Frank B. Keever, interested in San Francisco real estate, are guests at the same hotel.

Lieut. J. Manstead, who for six years past has been in the Philippine service, registered at the Westminster yesterday with his wife. His headquarters is in Manila. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hickman are guests at the same hotel, registered from Spokane. Hickman is a bank president. Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Klein are occupying a suite at the hotel. Klein is in the wholesale dry goods business in Pueblo.

A party of young naval officers arrived at the Alexandria yesterday from San Diego. In the party are Lieut. V. D. Chapline, J. B. Oldendorf and C. F. Ponsland. Among the foreign tourists registered at the hotel are Thomas Aiken and A. A. Clarence of London, Jose M. Botello and Jorge Himmighoffen of Buenos Ayres. Among the guests from San Francisco are Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Talcott, who are here visiting relatives; A. Albrecht and W. F. Matthews, accompanied by H. A. Sumner of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Paul are guests at the Hayward from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where Paul is interested in real estate and mining. E. C. Small, also a mining man, accompanied by Mrs. Small, is staying at the hotel, registered from Ludlow. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wagner are registered from Boston. Wagner is a manufacturer. L. C. McBeth, Jr., an attorney of San Francisco, is there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thompson of San Diego are guests at the Lankershim. A party of Vancouver tourists are at the hotel. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Walker and their children; Miss A. Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Forbes.

WON'T WEAR HIS OWN DUDS.

Prisoner's Desire to Look Natty Worries Mother-in-Law, Who Appeals to District Attorney.

John Joseph Wall, locked up at the County Jail on a charge of having one wife too many, apparently is resolved to look as natty as possible when he appears in court. This was evident yesterday, when he refused to take a suit of clothing alleged to be his own, brought by Mrs. Susanna Ashton, his second mother-in-law, to the County Jail. Mrs. Ashton said the garments Wall is wearing in jail belong to another son-in-law, but that Wall will not give them up.

She went later with her daughter to the District Attorney's office to seek help, but was told that the matter would have to wait until the examination Friday. Mrs. Ashton is just over from England, and in her quaint garb reminded the court attaches of a Dickens character, while her older daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Halliday, No. 1241½ Sapphire street, might have stepped out of a page of Kipling.

IN DEFENSE OF RIGHT TO FISH.

Mexican Company Claims Its Concession Holds.

Telegrams from High Officials Deny Annulment.

Vast Territory to Be Exploited on Big Scale.

President Sandoval of La Pescadora Sociedad, the validity of whose fishing concessions from the Mexican government has been questioned in an action now pending before Judge Wellborn, stated last night that he had received positive assurance from high Mexican officials that the concession has not been revoked and will not be until its expiration fifteen years hence.

When the point was raised by the San Diego fishermen, who are accused of poaching by the Mexican company, Sandoval sent several telegrams of inquiry. The first reply was from the assistant minister of development, and was to the effect that the concession has not been revoked. Now Minister Hernandez, having returned from a trip abroad, has sent a similar message.

The concession gives La Pescadora Sociedad the exclusive right to fish in the Mexican waters on both sides of the peninsula, the consideration being a royalty on every pound of fish taken and the further requirement that the company shall erect and maintain lobster and fish packing-houses, these to become the property of the Mexican government when the term of the contract expires.

NEW DISTRIBUTING PLAN.

The negotiations whereby O. C. Morgan of the Morgan Oyster Company of this city is to handle a large part of the fish taken in Mexican waters under the Mexican company's concession have been practically concluded. Morgan does not acquire, under the terms of the contract, any of the concessionary rights, but is placed in a position to distribute practically all the fish which are brought to San Diego.

Most of the fish will be distributed through the five leading San Diego markets, but a great quantity will be shipped to this city and distributed throughout the western portion of the continent. The deal between the Mexican company and Morgan depends only in a slight degree on the outcome of the case now pending in court. Under its terms fishermen, whether Mexican or American, will be permitted to fish over the grounds covered by the concession without charge. They must, however, sell all their fish to Morgan or to the company, the latter agreeing to pay the regular market price.

When questioned regarding this phase of the situation yesterday Morgan admitted that the price of fish is likely to be advanced, and that these prices will probably be maintained at a higher level than at the present time. In his opinion the advance will not be a big one. He says that fish are being sold very cheaply here now.

President Sandoval of the Pescadora Sociedad says that the company is planning to materially increase the scope of its fishing and canning operations, and that exploration parties will be sent out over the vast stretches of virgin territory to pave the way for more fishermen and more canneries.

The fishing grounds along the Mexican coast are adjudged by some authorities to be the biggest and best in the world. Fish of all kinds are to be found there in abundance. Fish commonly taken only in cold water have been caught there, together with warm-water fish on the same day.

In a recent pamphlet issued by the United States Hydrographic Bureau, J. Ross Browne speaks of the Mexican fishing grounds as follows: "Nearly every species and variety of edible fish found in the waters of the Mediterranean or on the coast of Europe, the West Indies, Atlantic, North America or Chile are found in the waters of Lower California in greater abundance than elsewhere. Their numbers are not only incredible but many of them are of extraordinary beauty and brilliancy of color."

One of the most important of the projects to be undertaken in the near future by Sandoval and his associates will be an effort to hatch and propagate the claw lobster, now held in esteem on the Atlantic Coast, but unknown on the Pacific. Investigations made last year indicate that the conditions in Lower California should be favorable to lobster propagation, and, in spite of the failures that have been experienced on this coast, Sandoval is confident that his experiment will be successful.

Thus far the great fishing grounds, which extend fully 3000 miles along the coast, have been barely touched. Most of the territory is virgin and opens up vast commercial possibilities. When fishing grounds nearer home begin to be depleted and the rapidly-increasing population demands more and more fish, it is not unlikely that the Lower California fishing grounds will be the chief source of supply for the Pacific Coast. The first step toward meeting the demand is the alliance just formed between the Mexican company, which now owns the concessions, and a big fish-distributing company of this city.

Aside from the fishing and canning and lobster industry it is possible that somewhere along the coast pearl fisheries can be profitably established. Last year when an exploring expedition, headed by President Sandoval, penetrated about 1500 miles down the coast a number of pearls were secured. Two of these were sold in Paris last winter for 36,000 francs. One was iron-gray in color. The other was of two shades of blue and pear-shaped.

SMUGGLING CHARGE HEARD.

The hearing of the case against Harry Lynch, a San Pedro boatman, charging him with conspiring to violate the Chinese Exclusion Act, began before United States Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday. Lynch was before the commissioner some time ago and ordered taken to San Francisco on a commissioner's warrant. An appeal was taken, however, and the matter is still undisposed of. Following this, Lynch and others were indicted in connection with the landing of twenty-one Chinese laborers at the Franklin-street wharf, Oakland, last March, by the gasoline launch Morning Star. The other defendants are in jail in San Francisco.

Drives Out Catarrh

No More Blowing, Snuffling or Morning Hawking to Dislodge Mucus, When You Breathe Germ Destroying HYOMEI.

HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mē) is guaranteed to end the misery of catarrh or money back.

Breathe it, destroy the catarrh germs, and soon hawking and snuffing will cease.

Breathe it and crusts will no longer form in the nose; mucus will not lodge in the throat; all inflammation will leave the membrane of the nose and throat and your head will feel clear and fine.

Breathe it for coughs, colds and sore throat; its soothing, healing, antiseptic action is better than all the stomach dosing remedies in creation.

Complete outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI, $1.00. Extra bottles of HYOMEI 50 cents at druggists everywhere.

To break up cold in head or chest overnight or to more quickly conquer stubborn catarrh, pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe the vapor for several minutes before going to bed.

Which Is Preferable?

ADAPT SYSTEM OR BUILD NEW.

COUNCILMEN TO INVESTIGATE POWER PROBLEM.

It Must Be Determined Whether It Would Be Better to Issue Bonds to Care for Distribution of Aqueduct Electricity or Buy Corporation System.

President Williams of the City Council and Councilmen Whiffen and Betkouski are to be a special committee to negotiate with the power companies to learn if it would be possible for the city to acquire such portions of the power companies' systems as may be needed to distribute light and power from the aqueduct power plants.

Yesterday the City Council adopted resolutions presented by the Finance Committee stating that as it is confidently anticipated that aqueduct power will be ready for distribution by April 1, 1913, it is necessary that the work of establishing a distributing system for light and power should be begun as soon as practicable, and that a special election should be called early in January for the purpose of submitting to the people a proposition of issuing bonds for the establishment of a complete distributing system for light, heat and power.

The resolutions also set forth that the city desires, in the establishment of such a system, to deal fairly with the companies now supplying power within the city, and to obviate detriment or damage to their investments in so far as due regard for public interests will permit.

That it is probable two alternative propositions will be put before the people was stated yesterday. One of these would be that the city establish its own complete system, and the other that the city purchase one of the systems already established, or such parts as may be found adaptable for municipal use.

It is estimated that about $5,600,000 would be required to establish a distributing system by the city, and it is possible that some deal may be made with companies now in the field that will be more advantageous to the city than the construction of a system.

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER.

Man Who Runs Amuck in Fit of Jealousy Is Held to Answer for Murderous Assault.

In default of $15,000 bonds, Jose Casara was returned to the County Jail yesterday to await trial in the Superior Court on a charge of having murderously assaulted Jose Salas as the latter was escorting Juana Lopez home from a motion-picture show.

Casara was examined befcre Justice Young yesterday. The evidence showed Casara assaulted Salas on account of jealousy, stabbing the man so seriously that he went to the County Hospital for two weeks and has not yet recovered from his wounds.

Miss Lopez summoned Deputy Constable Sanchez and he attempted to arrest Casara. The desperate man drew a revolver and fired six times at Sanchez before he was subdued.

FRATERNITY AND LOYALTY.

Employees of "The Times" Issue Special Anniversary Edition in Memory of Dead Comrades.

The Fraternity Bulletin, issued monthly from The Times composing-room by Times employees, observes the anniversary of the "Crime of the Century" by publishing a twelve-page edition in memoriam of the brave comrades who went to their death at the post of duty.

The leading article is a retrospective view of the past two years from the night in which the old Times Building was destroyed until another October 1, two years later, when, to quote from the article, "we have taken possession of the new castellated ramparts of industrial freedom, amidst the busy marts of trade."

The marvelous feat of re-establishing the paper in temporary quarters and publishing a few hours later the account of the horror, the difficulties overcome, the hardships of those eventful days endured, and the loyal men who made the miracle possible, are all told with the sure touch of a master word-painter.

The magazine is illustrated with views of the emergency plant, "probably the only pictures of the place in existence—views which can never be duplicated, now that the plant has been moved."

The Fraternity Bulletin stands for exactly what its name indicates. It seeks to make men living personalities rather than machines, and to do away with the idea inculcated by labor unions that "the man of capital is labor's enemy," and so, continues the Bulletin, editorially, "to be a Fraternalist is a mark of honor. It gives one a certain individual standing among his fellow-beings that can be obtained in no other way."

to be honest enough not to deceive the voter, not to dissemble, and not to resort to legal technicalities in order to force the voter either to vote for candidates he does not desire in office or to vote against his principles.

"The Progressives claim to be divorced from the Republican party on the ground of non-support. They have renounced that party and all of its work and all its ways. They claim the Republican party is even worse than the Democratic party; yet here in California they propose to place the Republican emblem above the 'Progressive' electors and force the Taft Republicans to vote the 'Progressive' ticket or vote against their principles on the Democratic ticket, or to stay away from the polls and not vote at all. That is not a mark of honest politics. If Roosevelt carries California he will carry it by trickery and fraud."

She said the American people will never elect Roosevelt because he has broken his solemn pledge not to be a candidate for a third term. She said Roosevelt poses as a "trust buster" and advocate of the "square deal," and all the time George W. Perkins, Dan Hanna, "Bill" Flinn and other millionaire bosses are financing his campaign.

"I can't understand how anyone can vote for Roosevelt after his treatment of President Taft," she said. "Less than a year ago he told the American people that Taft was one of the greatest men this country ever produced, and now he calls him a 'pickpocket' and 'receiver of stolen goods.'

"Gov. Wilson's independence and courage are beyond question. He has a singular power of expression. His voice is comparatively new to the mass of his countrymen, so that he has the better chance of a hearing for what he has to say. And that he has ideas, convictions and definite purposes he has abundantly shown. His candidacy is admittedly distasteful to the bosses and ordinary run of politicians. He does not speak their language, and they know in their hearts that they cannot do business with him. He is a conservative with a 'move on.' The Wilson boom started in the hearts of the people who want a man who will stand with and for them."

Mrs. Atherton leaves this afternoon for San Bernardino, where she is to deliver a Wilson address tonight. She will speak in Los Angeles next Monday night, probably at the Auditorium.

ELEVEN MONTHS IN JAIL.

Randolph Reilly, an Irish sailor, was sentenced to eleven months in the County Jail yesterday, on his plea of guilty of having brought an alien into the country for an improper purpose. The woman concerned, who is still in the County Jail, is Mrs. Sylvia Wallace, wife of James Wallace of Sydney, N. S. W. A mutilated marriage license issued by the Sydney courts was produced to show where the name of James Wallace had been obliterated by means of a chemical and that of Reilly inserted.

proprietors of gambling games. The fines ranged from about $100 to $500. The men are accused of having conspired to violate the anti-gambling ordinance by conducting a gambling game. Johnson pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. His case was set for the 10th inst. Ritter will be tried November 1. Attorney Frank Domingues appeared for both men, and they were released on bail.

Rings Come High.

Louis Gonzales and Fred Romero, caught shoplifting jewelry in a South-Broadway store, were sent to jail yesterday for 120 days each by Police Judge Chambers. It was testified that while one of the men examined a number of gold rings, he passed two of them to his companion. The latter put them in his pocket and walked out of the store.

Rivers Promises Again.

Thirty days in jail is the fate that awaits Joe Rivers, prize fighter, the next time he is haled into court on a charge of speeding, if a threat made yesterday is carried out.

Rivers was arraigned before Police Judge Chambers, charged with having speeded on South Main street. Attorney Frank Domingues, who appeared for Rivers, asked for a suspended jail sentence. He said Rivers is about to sell his automobile.

On another promise from the fighter—the third he has made in court—that he will never again drive a car too fast, the court suspended the sentence.

Promises Not to Quarrel.

Abraham Scharf, a tailor who tried to commit suicide Sunday morning by drinking carbolic acid, following a quarrel with his wife, was convicted of having disturbed the peace when arraigned before Police Judge Chambers, and was given a thirty-day suspended jail sentence. Mrs. Scharf, who was arrested on a similar complaint, was discharged. Scharf escaped going to jail on his promise not to again quarrel with his wife.

Wanted to Buy Him a Hat.

[Kansas City Star:] It happened in Amarillo, Tex., at the hotel where a traveling man from Kansas City was staying a few days. He wore one of those little fried egg hats that made him look like a freshman. A Texas ranchmen had come to town on business and had taken a few drinks and had become quarrelsome. A good friend was hovering near to see that he did not get into any serious trouble.

As the drummer passed through the hotel lobby and started upstairs the Texan spied him.

"Hey, there," he called out boldly. "Come back here."

"Come here, fellow. Don't you hear me?" loudly repeated the old rancher.

The guardian friend touched his arm and said: "Now, Bill, don't start anything like that here. That fellow was minding his own business and you let him alone and keep out of trouble."

The old Texan leered at him scornfully. "Say," he replied, "I wasn't starting any trouble. I just want to take that fellow out and buy him a hat."
